Agriculture Dept. Official Charges Farmers 'Knifed'

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department official lashed out at the Eisenhower administration Wednesday as Senate investigators opened hearings into the multimillion-dollar operations of Billie Sol Estes.

Horace D. Godfrey, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said he had accepted his job under the Kennedy administration to help rescue the farmer committee system from "eight years of neglect and outright knifing by the previous administration." These committees are local groups which help administer farm programs.

McClellan Disagrees

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, told Godfrey he possibly went a little afield, but "most of your statement was quite proper" and added that no great harm had been done.

Godfrey took the stand after a committee investigator, Paul E. Kamerick, had teed off on the Agriculture Department as a bureaucratic jungle he said needs overhauling.

Kamerick, a former FBI agent and now assistant counsel to the subcommittee, testified that farm officials had clear warning in advance that cotton acreage allotment transfers by Estes were illegal.

He pointed accusingly at the failure of county, state and Washington officials to halt the 1961 allotment shifts after the warning.

Hearings On TV, Radio

"Inefficiency is probably part of the answer, but it is inconceivable that it is the complete answer," he said.

Kamerick was the first witness as the subcommittee began hearings on the far-ranging operations of the 37-year-old Pecos, Tex., financier.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is seeking to determine whether political influence deals were involved.

The spacious Senate caucus room was ringed by television and movie cameras, with some 75 press, radio and television representatives on hand.

Lawyer Says Ill Fugitive May Be Dead

Leukemia Victim Was To Begin Life Sentence Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Soblen has mysteriously vanished on the eve of his imprisonment for life as a wartime Soviet spy. The FBI, with an eye toward Cuba, hunted him as a fugitive Wednesday, but his lawyer said he may never be found alive.

Federal Judge William B. Herlands, who sentenced the gravely ill Dr. Soblen to life in prison a year ago, gave him until midafternoon Thursday to surrender or forfeit his $100,000 bail.

Dr. Soblen's lawyer, Ephraim A. London, protested: "It is my belief that he is very ill, incapacitated, or dead somewhere not far away. He is suffering from leukemia. Prognosis indicated that he would be dead about this time.

"It is most unlikely that he would be fleeing. His wife's entire savings and some friends' money are up for bail. That bail was unusually high."

When the bond was posted last August in cash and government bonds by his family and friends, the government expressed the fear that Soblen might flee to Cuba, there to "be welcomed and accorded a well-propagandized reception."

Soblen, 62, a psychiatrist, is a tall, gaunt, bald man, weak from leukemia, cancer of the blood. He must stand or lie.

His wife, Dina, has said Soblen "knows his days are numbered."

The fugitive psychiatrist was to have surrendered in federal court Thursday to begin his life sentence for wartime espionage, after exhausting all appeals. His wife informed authorities he walked out of their Washington Heights home in upper Manhattan Monday night and has not been seen since.

Soblen vanished a few hours after the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to review his 1961 conviction, thus dooming him to end his life behind bars.

During his four-week trial last year, Soblen reclined or stood in the courtroom most of the time, sucking on ice cubes.

Soblen was arrested Nov. 29, 1960, as a member of a wartime Soviet spy ring headed by his brother, Jack Soble, 57, imprisoned for a seven-year term in 1957 for espionage. The brothers spell their last names differently.

Over a 20-year span that included World War II, Soblen turned over to Soviet agents secret data, including information from the New York headquarters of the Office of Strategic Services, a hush-hush wartime agency.

Two Rebellious Convicts Leave Perch, 11 Stay

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Two of 13 convicts on a water tower Wednesday gave up their protest against alleged brutal conditions at Western State Penitentiary, but the others remained on the tower nearly 100 feet above ground.

James J. Pletcher, 25, and Alfred Nardi Jr., 30, climbed down the tower. Nardi followed Pletcher by less than two hours.

However, there was no immediate indication whether the tower sitdown was breaking up. Pletcher is serving 15 to 30 years for burglary while Nardi is serving life for killing a guard at another institution. Prison officials made no move to get the others down.

"We'll let them make the first move," said Arthur T. Prasse, commissioner of the State Bureau of Corrections. He flew from Harrisburg for a firsthand look at the situation.

"We will not contact them or talk to them until they come down," he added. "They're just as easy to count up there as they are any place else."

Robert Payne, 29, formerly of Washington, D.C., serving a term for parole violation, started the demonstration Monday. He climbed the tower and said he wouldn't come down until he was assured a chance to talk to state officials about the treatment of prisoners in solitary confinement.

Twelve other inmates joined Payne on the water tower's catwalk 100 feet above the ground Tuesday night after stuffing their pockets with food. They produced bedsheets with this message written on it: "We are protesting brutality. Our presents (presence) is to support Payne's allegations and dispute the claim of the warden."

One convict, shouting to newsmen some 200 yards away, said prison guards had subjected men in the "hole" (solitary confinement) to doses of ammonia gas for talking and other minor infractions.

At a news conference Warden James Maroney denied any brutal treatment of prisoners but added: "We do use a prepared ammonia gas for those men who act up in the home block, to avoid manhandling and abusing them."

Delay Of Estes Trial Granted

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes Wednesday won a postponement of his $162,144 felony theft trial. The judge ordered the case moved 600 miles away to Tyler, in East Texas, on a tentative change of venue.

Dist. Judge J. H. Starley approved a defense motion for a continuance Wednesday morning, then recessed court to study whether to move the case. The change of venue is subject to the approval of Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan of Tyler.

Estes, 37, was on trial on charges he stole $162,144 from farmer Thomas Bell through a fraudulent fertilizer storage tank-mortgage deal. He is under indictment on seven more similar state charges totalling $827,577.

Starley said the case will be continued until July 23, at which time he will hear any motions by either side and also make the change of venue definite.

The continuance was granted by Starley after the defense said it would be impossible to empanel an impartial jury in Pecos.

43 Red Guerrillas Slain In Viet Nam

KIEN HOA, South Viet Nam (UPI) — At least 43 Communist guerrillas were reported killed and 26 others captured in a three-day combined military operation that ended Wednesday against Viet Cong Red forces in the Kien Hoa Province of South Viet Nam.

Four small guerrilla bases also were destroyed and a number of weapons were found.

Independence Voted Burundi, Rwanda By U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly voted independence Wednesday to two new African countries, Rwanda and Burundi.

It decided that on July 1—next Sunday—they should emerge as two independent and sovereign states from the Belgian-administered U.N. trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi and that Belgium's trusteeship should end.

The resolution setting the date was adopted by a smashing vote of 93-0 with 10 abstentions, with only one U.N. member, Iceland, absent.

The whole Soviet bloc abstained on the final roll call after the assembly had voted down a Soviet amendment calling on Belgium to withdraw its 900 troops from Rwanda and Burundi by independence day.

The amendment was defeated 46-24 with 33 abstentions. Cuba, Yugoslavia and 12 African and Asian countries joined the Soviet bloc in voting for it.

The resolution as recommended by the assembly's Trusteeship Committee and adopted by the assembly itself called on Belgium to withdraw the troops by Aug. 1.

But it stipulated that this was to be "without prejudice to the sovereign rights of Rwanda and Burundi." Some of its 25 African and Asian sponsors had said that phrase would let those new countries keep the Belgian troops if they wanted.

Burundi has said it wants the troops to leave. Rwanda has refused to say what it wants till independence day, which probably means it will ask them to stay.

Chiang Jets Stage Quemoy Fly-Over

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Waves of Chinese Nationalist jet fighters flew over Quemoy Wednesday apparently as a warning to Chinese Reds against attempting a new attack on the Nationalist-held offshore island.

The flights were reported by the Defense Ministry Information Service, which recalled Nationalist victory claims in air battles over Formosa Strait during the Quemoy crisis of 1958. The Nationalists then claimed they had downed 33 Red Chinese planes and lost one in a collision.

The planes over Quemoy were part of intensified air patrols launched since the Communists were reported to have engaged in a big military buildup on the mainland only five miles from Quemoy.

Big Underground A-Blast Set Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday exploded one of the largest underground shots in the history of U.S. weapons tests at the Nevada proving ground.

Only one other underground explosion in Nevada—as far as can be determined from AEC statements—has been as big.

Wednesday's blast was the 39th announced shot in a series of underground weapons tests which started at the Nevada site last September.

Announcing Wednesday's shot, the AEC said:

A spokesman said "intermediate yield" meant a device equal in power to anything from 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

Gunfire Erupts Along Red Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Gunfire broke out along the Red wall again Wednesday after Communist boss Walter Ulbricht of Eastern Germany rejected Western proposals for new talks to halt the shootings.

Eastern German border guards fired on two men trying to escape over the wall, and West Berlin police said they believed one of the refugees was hit. The other escaped unharmed, as did a 17-year-old who swam to freedom earlier as Communists fired at him.

There were no reports that West police fired across the border in either incident.

Ulbricht's "no" to four-power talks, taking a line expected by Western diplomats, was in a speech to the Communist party Central Committee of East Germany.

In the text transmitted by the East German news agency ADN, Ulbricht took it upon himself to reject a note that was not even addressed to him.

Rusk Hopeful For Improved Portugal Ties

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to this problem-filled country Wednesday on a mission to iron out some of the differences which have all but destroyed the once close friendship between the United States and Portugal.

Rusk is winding up here a 10-day tour among European allies of the United States, a tour on which he has touched on such topics as Berlin, nuclear Strategy, and the Common Market. Here the talk could range over Goa, Angola and the Azores.

Rusk and Portuguese leaders, including Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, will attempt during Rusk's 22 hours in Lisbon to explore the possibilities of closer understandings.

In effect, Rusk and his official host, Foreign Minister Franco Nogueira, will renew conversations they started last May at a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Athens.

Renewal of the agreement permitting operation of U.S. military bases in the Azores is at stake. Covering facilities on which the United States has expended more than $100 million, the agreement is due to expire at the end of this year.

One sore point in Portugal is that the United States and other fellow members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization kept on the sidelines when India's armed forces seized Portuguese Goa last December. Another is American criticism of Portugal's position in Africa, particularly in operations to put down the revolt in its colony of Angola.

"We cannot discuss the base agreement apart from the other problems, including our need for political support on the African questions," one Portuguese official said. "They are all part of a single problem and must be handled together."

Court Ruling Has Support Of Kennedy

President Pushes Trade Bill; Formosa Policy Reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Wednesday the Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools gives American families an opportunity to do more praying with their children at home. He said he advocates home prayers.

Kennedy said that while many people may agree with the court ruling and many may disagree with it, it is important that high court decisions, once made, have the support of the American people.

Kennedy got into the subject at his news conference in which he also:

1. Called on the House of Representatives to pass his new trade bill on which a major vote is due Thursday. He said the measure is "vital to the future of this country."

2. Declared U.S. policy in the Formosa area is unchanged—that the United States opposes force in that area but will defend Formosa if the Chinese Communists attack it and will defend Quemoy and Matsu, the offshore Nationalist Chinese islands, if an attack against them is aimed also at Formosa and the Pescadores.

Easy Remedy Offered

Kennedy got into the subject of the Supreme Court's decision on school prayers in response to questions about his views on moves in Congress to amend the Constitution to authorize such prayers.

Kennedy said he would have to see the bills first to see their effect on the First Amendment. He said we have a very easy remedy, "to pray, ourselves."

He said the court has spoken and as a result of the decision he hopes American parents would intensify their efforts at home. He added that the court had acted, and the people should support its finding.

The President said he hoped more meaningful religious observance at home would be a result of the court action.

As to the trade bill, he asserted that if the House sends it back to the committee, it would spell defeat for the measure. And he added that if the chamber simply extends an existing trade bill for one year, that also would defeat the purpose.

Bargaining Power Exhausted

Kennedy said that all the bargaining power provided in the existing law has been used. If the new bill is beaten, he said, it will mean that this country "is falling back and behind" while the European Common Market is moving ahead.

The new bill would give the President sweeping new powers to cut U.S. tariffs, or abolish some of them altogether, in bargaining for concessions from foreign nations. One main idea stressed by its backers is to keep export markets open for U.S. goods in the face of European economic integration.

While Kennedy opened up the subject of Formosa himself, there were several questions about it.

Asked what the position of the United States would be toward a Nationalist attempt to return to the mainland, Kennedy said he had meant in his statement to stress that "our arrangements in this area are defensive."

Asked about criticism by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on defense spending and other points, Kennedy said: "I think we're spending a great deal on defense, and I don't enjoy it. But on the other hand, I think we

OAS Declares Peace Reigns In All Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—The European Secret Army Organization announced in a broadcast Wednesday night that peace reigns throughout Algeria. It called on Europeans who have fled to return and help the Moslems reconstruct the country.

The announcement supported an earlier report from French authorities that the terrorist secret organization had downed arms in Oran, its last stronghold in western Algeria, calling off the terrorist killing of Moslems and the scorched earth campaign of demolition.

The secret army broadcast was made by Jean Jacques Susini, the leader who earlier arranged a truce in Algiers.

"Take heart, peace reigns from Oran to Bone," he told Europeans.

As long as Oran's secret army leaders were determined to wage a terrorist campaign, there was danger that that western city might remain the center of a racial bloodbath between Europeans and Moslems after the independence that it is expected July 1.

Ex-Gen. Paul Gardy, head of the terrorist organization in the Oran area, was said to have fled with his closest collaborators.

His second in command, ex-Col. Jean Dufour, who once led the tough 1st Foreign Legion Paratroop Regiment, in a pirate broadcast called a halt in the scorched-earth campaign.

As he spoke, six huge oil storage tanks blown up in Oran harbor by the secret army still burned fiercely.

Telephone lines to Oran were cut, and there was no direct confirmation of the government report. But a dispatch from Oran by way of Paris said violence had subsided.

20th Century-Fox President Resigns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran movie maker Spyros P. Skouras resigned Wednesday as president of the financially-plagued 20th Century - Fox Film Corp., producer of Elizabeth Taylor's new $30-million movie "Cleopatra."

Skouras' resignation was announced during a closed marathon session of the board of directors. He had been under considerable fire because the company's $22.9 million operating losses last year and because of the huge cost of "Cleopatra."

Six-Orbit Flight Planned With Schirra At Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Wednesday plans to try late this summer the next big step in its man-in-space program, a six-orbit journey around the earth ending in mid-Pacific.

Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 39, a veteran combat pilot, was picked as the astronaut. If he is unable to make the flight, his backup pilot, Air Force Capt. L. Gordon Cooper, 36, will be in the capsule.

The decision to go ahead with the six-orbit mission, apparently was reached only in recent days. Two weeks ago civilian space chief James E. Webb told a congressional hearing that if he had to make a decision then, he would order more three-orbit flights. He did not rule out six orbits as the next project.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration did not say flatly that the flight will be launched as a six-orbit flight. The NASA announcement indicated that events before and during the flight could lead to fewer orbits.

If the six orbits are completed, the flight will last nine hours.

Regardless of how many orbits are attempted, the takeoff point will remain at Cape Canaveral, Fla., as in the Glenn and Carpenter flights.

But a Pacific landing is necessary for the longer flights because daylight is required for safe recovery of the astronaut and his capsule. Nightfall comes to the Pacific several hours later than it does to the Atlantic because of the earth's rotation.

Government Proposes Rail Dispute Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government proposed Wednesday that the nation's railroads and unions representing some 200,000 on-train workers submit their controversy over manpower economies to binding arbitration.

The proposal was contained in letters mailed to both sides by the National Mediation Board. There was no immediate reaction from either side.

If either side rejects arbitration, and no further mediation sessions are asked, the board normally would close out its file on the case, meaning that after a 30-day cooling-off period the unions would be free to strike.

A walkout still could be headed off as the cooling-off period nears an end by White House appointment of an emergency board to consider the disputed issues and recommend settlement terms. This would postpone any strike for an additional 60 days under terms of the Railway Labor Act.

Negotiations ended abruptly last Friday when rail management, for a second time, broke off talks as useless. The negotiations are over recommendations by an earlier White House commission that some 40,000 freight train firemen be eliminated gradually as unnecessary to operate the trains.

The commission also recommended giving the carriers broad future leeway to make manpower economy curtailments as necessary, provided that separated employes are given certain layoff benefits and training opportunity for different rail industry jobs.

New Try At Settling Oldest Strike Set

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI)—The United Auto Workers will reopen negotiations Thursday with the Kohler Co. in an effort to end the nation's oldest major labor dispute.

The meeting will be the first between negotiators for the plumbingware manufacturer and the union since April 26, 1957, when talks aimed at settling a strike which began April 5, 1954, were broken off.

During the intervening years, the courts have settled many of the issues that arose when Local 833 of the UAW set up picket lines at the Kohler plant in nearby Kohler and went on strike to back up new contract demands.

Delay Of Estes Trial Granted

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes Wednesday won a postponement of his $162,144 felony theft trial. The judge ordered the case moved 600 miles away to Tyler, in East Texas, on a tentative change of venue.

Dist. Judge J. H. Starley approved a defense motion for a continuance Wednesday morning, then recessed court to study whether to move the case. The change of venue is subject to the approval of Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan of Tyler.

Estes, 37, was on trial on charges he stole $162,144 from farmer Thomas Bell through a fraudulent fertilizer storage tank-mortgage deal. He is under indictment on seven more similar state charges totalling $827,577.

Starley said the case will be continued until July 23, at which time he will hear any motions by either side and also make the change of venue definite.

The continuance was granted by Starley after the defense said it would be impossible to empanel an impartial jury in Pecos.

Independence Voted Burundi, Rwanda By U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly voted independence Wednesday to two new African countries, Rwanda and Burundi.

It decided that on July 1—next Sunday—they should emerge as two independent and sovereign states from the Belgian-administered U.N. trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi and that Belgium's trusteeship should end.

The resolution setting the date was adopted by a smashing vote of 93-0 with 10 abstentions, with only one U.N. member, Iceland, absent.

The whole Soviet bloc abstained on the final roll call after the assembly had voted down a Soviet amendment calling on Belgium to withdraw its 900 troops from Rwanda and Burundi by independence day.

The amendment was defeated 46-24 with 33 abstentions. Cuba, Yugoslavia and 12 African and Asian countries joined the Soviet bloc in voting for it.

The resolution as recommended by the assembly's Trusteeship Committee and adopted by the assembly itself called on Belgium to withdraw the troops by Aug. 1.

But it stipulated that this was to be "without prejudice to the sovereign rights of Rwanda and Burundi." Some of its 25 African and Asian sponsors had said that phrase would let those new countries keep the Belgian troops if they wanted.

Burundi has said it wants the troops to leave. Rwanda has refused to say what it wants till independence day, which probably means it will ask them to stay.

Chiang Jets Stage Quemoy Fly-Over

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Waves of Chinese Nationalist jet fighters flew over Quemoy Wednesday apparently as a warning to Chinese Reds against attempting a new attack on the Nationalist-held offshore island.

The flights were reported by the Defense Ministry Information Service, which recalled Nationalist victory claims in air battles over Formosa Strait during the Quemoy crisis of 1958. The Nationalists then claimed they had downed 33 Red Chinese planes and lost one in a collision.

The planes over Quemoy were part of intensified air patrols launched since the Communists were reported to have engaged in a big military buildup on the mainland only five miles from Quemoy.

Big Underground A-Blast Set Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday exploded one of the largest underground shots in the history of U.S. weapons tests at the Nevada proving ground.

Only one other underground explosion in Nevada—as far as can be determined from AEC statements—has been as big.

Wednesday's blast was the 39th announced shot in a series of underground weapons tests which started at the Nevada site last September.

Announcing Wednesday's shot, the AEC said:

A spokesman said "intermediate yield" meant a device equal in power to anything from 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

Gunfire Erupts Along Red Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Gunfire broke out along the Red wall again Wednesday after Communist boss Walter Ulbricht of Eastern Germany rejected Western proposals for new talks to halt the shootings.

Eastern German border guards fired on two men trying to escape over the wall, and West Berlin police said they believed one of the refugees was hit. The other escaped unharmed, as did a 17-year-old who swam to freedom earlier as Communists fired at him.

There were no reports that West police fired across the border in either incident.

Ulbricht's "no" to four-power talks, taking a line expected by Western diplomats, was in a speech to the Communist party Central Committee of East Germany.

In the text transmitted by the East German news agency ADN, Ulbricht took it upon himself to reject a note that was not even addressed to him.

Rusk Hopeful For Improved Portugal Ties

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to this problem-filled country Wednesday on a mission to iron out some of the differences which have all but destroyed the once close friendship between the United States and Portugal.

Rusk is winding up here a 10-day tour among European allies of the United States, a tour on which he has touched on such topics as Berlin, nuclear Strategy, and the Common Market. Here the talk could range over Goa, Angola and the Azores.

Rusk and Portuguese leaders, including Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, will attempt during Rusk's 22 hours in Lisbon to explore the possibilities of closer understandings.

In effect, Rusk and his official host, Foreign Minister Franco Nogueira, will renew conversations they started last May at a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Athens.

Renewal of the agreement permitting operation of U.S. military bases in the Azores is at stake. Covering facilities on which the United States has expended more than $100 million, the agreement is due to expire at the end of this year.

One sore point in Portugal is that the United States and other fellow members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization kept on the sidelines when India's armed forces seized Portuguese Goa last December. Another is American criticism of Portugal's position in Africa, particularly in operations to put down the revolt in its colony of Angola.

"We cannot discuss the base agreement apart from the other problems, including our need for political support on the African questions," one Portuguese official said. "They are all part of a single problem and must be handled together."

OAS Declares Peace Reigns In All Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—The European Secret Army Organization announced in a broadcast Wednesday night that peace reigns throughout Algeria. It called on Europeans who have fled to return and help the Moslems reconstruct the country.

The announcement supported an earlier report from French authorities that the terrorist secret organization had downed arms in Oran, its last stronghold in western Algeria, calling off the terrorist killing of Moslems and the scorched earth campaign of demolition.

The secret army broadcast was made by Jean Jacques Susini, the leader who earlier arranged a truce in Algiers.

"Take heart, peace reigns from Oran to Bone," he told Europeans.

As long as Oran's secret army leaders were determined to wage a terrorist campaign, there was danger that that western city might remain the center of a racial bloodbath between Europeans and Moslems after the independence that it is expected July 1.

Ex-Gen. Paul Gardy, head of the terrorist organization in the Oran area, was said to have fled with his closest collaborators.

His second in command, ex-Col. Jean Dufour, who once led the tough 1st Foreign Legion Paratroop Regiment, in a pirate broadcast called a halt in the scorched-earth campaign.

As he spoke, six huge oil storage tanks blown up in Oran harbor by the secret army still burned fiercely.

Telephone lines to Oran were cut, and there was no direct confirmation of the government report. But a dispatch from Oran by way of Paris said violence had subsided.

20th Century-Fox President Resigns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran movie maker Spyros P. Skouras resigned Wednesday as president of the financially-plagued 20th Century - Fox Film Corp., producer of Elizabeth Taylor's new $30-million movie "Cleopatra."

Skouras' resignation was announced during a closed marathon session of the board of directors. He had been under considerable fire because the company's $22.9 million operating losses last year and because of the huge cost of "Cleopatra."

Six-Orbit Flight Planned With Schirra At Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Wednesday plans to try late this summer the next big step in its man-in-space program, a six-orbit journey around the earth ending in mid-Pacific.

Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 39, a veteran combat pilot, was picked as the astronaut. If he is unable to make the flight, his backup pilot, Air Force Capt. L. Gordon Cooper, 36, will be in the capsule.

The decision to go ahead with the six-orbit mission apparently was reached only in recent days. Two weeks ago civilian space chief James E. Webb told a congressional hearing that if he had to make a decision then, he would order more three-orbit flights. He did not rule out six orbits as the next project.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration did not say flatly that the flight will be launched as a six-orbit flight. The NASA announcement indicated that events before and during the flight could lead to fewer orbits.

If the six orbits are completed, the flight will last nine hours.

Regardless of how many orbits are attempted, the takeoff point will remain at Cape Canaveral, Fla., as in the Glenn and Carpenter flights.

But a Pacific landing is necessary for the longer flights because daylight is required for safe recovery of the astronaut and his capsule. Nightfall comes to the Pacific several hours later than it does to the Atlantic because of the earth's rotation.

43 Red Guerrillas Slain In Viet Nam

KIEN HOA, South Viet Nam (UPI) — At least 43 Communist guerrillas were reported killed and 26 others captured in a three-day combined military operation that ended Wednesday against Viet Cong Red forces in the Kien Hoa Province of South Viet Nam.

Four small guerrilla bases also were destroyed and a number of weapons were found.

Government Proposes Rail Dispute Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government proposed Wednesday that the nation's railroads and unions representing some 200,000 on-train workers submit their controversy over manpower economies to binding arbitration.

The proposal was contained in letters mailed to both sides by the National Mediation Board. There was no immediate reaction from either side.

If either side rejects arbitration, and no further mediation sessions are asked, the board normally would close out its file on the case, meaning that after a 30-day cooling-off period the unions would be free to strike.

A walkout still could be headed off as the cooling-off period nears an end by White House appointment of an emergency board to consider the disputed issues and recommend settlement terms. This would postpone any strike for an additional 60 days under terms of the Railway Labor Act.

Negotiations ended abruptly last Friday when rail management, for a second time, broke off talks as useless. The negotiations are over recommendations by an earlier White House commission that some 40,000 freight train firemen be eliminated gradually as unnecessary to operate the trains.

The commission also recommended giving the carriers broad future leeway to make manpower economy curtailments as necessary, provided that separated employes are given certain layoff benefits and training opportunity for different rail industry jobs.

New Try At Settling Oldest Strike Set

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI)—The United Auto Workers will reopen negotiations Thursday with the Kohler Co. in an effort to end the nation's oldest major labor dispute.

The meeting will be the first between negotiators for the plumbingware manufacturer and the union since April 26, 1957, when talks aimed at settling a strike which began April 5, 1954, were broken off.

During the intervening years, the courts have settled many of the issues that arose when Local 833 of the UAW set up picket lines at the Kohler plant in nearby Kohler and went on strike to back up new contract demands.

Mexico City Plans Big Welcome For Kennedy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Major labor unions have ordered their members to line the streets, government employes have been given the day off, and school children are getting a holiday to welcome President Kennedy when he arrives Friday for a goodwill visit.

Officials predicted Wednesday the welcome will be one of the warmest ever given a foreign chief of state and said they expect no major incidents despite the mysterious visit here of the leading Cuban Communist, Blas Roca. Roca showed up Monday.

Newspapers speculated that he intened to organize Communist demonstrations during the Kennedy visit. Roca stayed about 30 hours, shunning newsmen and keeping his activities secret.

But when he left Wednesday for a Communist party meeting in Uruguay, he declared, "I did not come to Mexico to agitate." He refused to comment about the Kennedy visit.

It is known, however, that Communists have held several meetings and have urged a big turnout when Kennedy arrives.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos' own military staff is in charge of most security arrangements. More than 700 secret service agents and members of other security forces have been assigned to keep order.

In addition, the 1st Infantry Division and an armored brigade have been called out, ostensibly to join in the welcome but also to help police the route from the airport to Los Pinos, Mexico's White House.

Divers Find No Evidence Against Cops

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — The investigation into Bluefield's scandal-rocked police department shifted to the bottom of a reservoir Wednesday but skin divers reported they were unable to find the evidence they wanted in theft cases involving five policemen.

Mercer County Sheriff E. D. Bazzie said the divers searched the bottom of a reservoir near Bluefield for "electrical appliances and things like that" believed taken in robberies dating back to 1955.

"It is our information," Bazzie said, "that they threw the stuff in to get rid of it."

The robberies in which the five policemen were allegedly involved have been linked with a $100,000 theft ring which operated in three states. The gang's convicted leader, Ira Mathena, is erving a prison term in Virginia.

Police indicated the search may turn to other reservoirs and streams, including a lake at Falls Mills, Tazewell County, Va., and New River near Princeton, W. Va.

State Police called in the divers, Bazzie said, because of statements made by persons they questioned, including Bluefield policemen not charged in the thefts.

Court's Prayer Decision Stalls College Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Issues raised by the Supreme Court ruling against official prayers in public schools stalled congressional action Wednesday on legislation to aid construction of college facilities.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., postponed a meeting of Senate and House conferees to work out a mutually acceptable version of the bill, passed in different form by the two chambers.

"The recent Supreme Court decision and its possible implications in respect to the House and Senate language need to be studied carefully before our next conference esssion," Morse stated.

The next meeting was set for the week of July 9.

The Supreme Court ruled 6 to 1 Monday that a daily prayer required by New York State in its public schools violated the First Amendment of the Constitution requiring separation of church and state.

While the decision was aimed specifically at the New York prayer, it raised a question of separation of church and state that could affect many federal programs, including the college aid measure, which would extend federal funds to private as well as other colleges. Some of the private schools are sponsored by religious organizations.

The House-approved college aid bill would provide $180 million a year in grants and $120 million annually in loans for college construction. The Senate bill would provide only $300 million a year in loans, no grants.

School Prayer Bill Introduced By Beall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., introduced Wednesday his bill for a constitutional amendment to permit prayers in public schools.

He had announced Tuesday, on the heels of the Supreme Court ban on official prayers for pupils, that he would offer such a measure as soon as he could check language with constitutional lawyers.

He said his aim was a declaration that nothing in the constitution should be interpreted to "deny the right of any school to make available to its students periodic expressions of prayer or religious observance, provided that participation by students shall not be mandatory."

Early-Morning Audition Costs Troubadors $15

A guitarist, bongo drummer and five vocalists were fined $15 and costs Wednesday in Central Municipal Court for performing on the street.

They said they were thinking of taking their act on the stage and were auditioning—at 12:30 a.m.—for a man who asked to hear the act.

Baltimore Council Holds Off Court Blast

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore City Council refused Wednesday to give immediate approval to a resolution which, in effect, would have criticized the Supreme Court's ruling that a prayer used in New York public schools was unconstitutional.

After the special council session, President Philip H. Goodman said he would call another special session July 12 for a public hearing on the resolution.

live in a world where its important to be strong."

He noted that "we seem to be criticized on one hand for not doing enough to stand up to the Russians and on the other hand for spending too much on defense. I think they should get together. It seems to me that the Grand Old Party may be floundering."

Kennedy was asked whether any possible reduction of U.S. forces in Europe for the defense of Berlin should be brought about by treaty arrangements or otherwise.

The President said many considerations would enter into the making of such a decision and that the problems would have to be canvassed with the other members of the Western alliance.

But this is academic, he concluded, since "we do plan to keep six divisions in Europe, for the foreseeable future."

To a question about his attitude toward a campaign to raise money to ransom Cuban prisoners, Kennedy said he could not be critical of any effort along those lines.

On domestic matters, Kennedy was reminded that the bill for aid to higher education is stalled in a congressional committee. House committeemen have insisted on federal aid for school-building construction only and not for the Senate-approved provision for scholarships as well.

The President replied that the administration's original bill called for loans to all schools regardless of public or parochial status. He said he does not feel there is any controversy on the religious issue in the pending bill.

Other subjects arising in the conference:

TAXES—Kennedy, in response to a question, said if it were decided that a tax cut was needed, he would ask for it. He said the standby tax-cutting authority he had asked from Congress would be beneficial if the economy continued to sag because it would not require delay while legislation moved through Congress.

RUSK—Asked for an evaluation of Secretary of State Dean Rusk's trip in Europe, particularly in relation to French nuclear power hopes, Kennedy said he believe France's example of building its own bombs encourages other countries to do the same and that it is inimical to the interests of the Atlantic community.

He said the NATO alliance gives adequate security, but the French do not agree.

X15 Breaks Speed Mark By Accident

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—Test pilot Joe Walker, rehearsing for an assault on altitude records in the experimental X15, Wednesday bettered the world speed mark for winged aircraft—by accident.

"It was a snap," said Walker, snapping his fingers to emphasize the point, after the flight.

Preliminary figures showed the veteran space agency pilot attained a speed of 4,159 miles an hour, surpassing Air Force Maj. Bob White's record 4,093 m.p.h. flight.

White only last week took the world altitude mark from Walker by flying the experimental craft 250,000 feet high.

Walker had been slated to fly the X15 at 4,000 miles an hour and maneuver the ship in a high angle of attack. The extra speed apparently came because the engine burned five seconds more than scheduled.

Transfer Completed

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army on Wednesday completed a five-day operation of rotating two battle groups involving the movement of 3,000 men and hundreds of vehicles over the autobahn connecting Berlin with the West.

The 1st Battle Group 8th Infantry, finished moving out while the 2nd Battle Group, 47th Infantry, completed its move from West Germany.

End To Teachers' Sales Chores Recommended

BALTIMORE (AP) — A report presented Wednesday to Baltimore's superintendent of schools recommended that teachers be relieved of their fund-raising, record-keeping and custodial chores.

The report on non-teaching responsibilities was presented to Dr. George B. Brain, superintendent, by the Cooperative Committee for the Study of Teaching problems.

The committee is made up of representatives of the Public School Teachers Association, the Baltimore Teachers Union and the Principals Association of Baltimore City.

Dr. Brain said action already is being taken on some of the constructive suggestions.

Some of the specific recommendations, which resulted from a two-year study, included:

1. That U.S. Savings Bonds and stamps not be sold in schools.

2. That parents and not teachers should handle the collection of funds for student life insurance policies.

3. That school fund - raising drives be seriously evaluated and in most instances "they can and should be eliminated."

4. That the schools "should not serve as a convenient instrument" for seeking funds and building up interest in charity drives.

5. That teachers should not have the responsibility for collection of milk and lunch money.

6. That teachers be relieved of school bookkeeping and making inventories.

48 Hong Kong Orphans Arrive

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forty-eight Chinese orphan refugees walked off a plane from Hong Kong Wednesday and into a mass greeting from relatives, prospective parents, newsmen, a movie star, and the attorney general of the United States.

The children were the first planeload of the expected 200 Hong Kong orphans who will be brought here under auspices of International Social Services since the mass exodus from Red China last month. None of the children were among those who fled China in May, however.

The group is the largest since the program started four years ago.

End To Teachers' Sales Chores Recommended

BALTIMORE (AP) — A report presented Wednesday to Baltimore's superintendent of schools recommended that teachers be relieved of their fund-raising, record-keeping and custodial chores.

The report on non-teaching responsibilities was presented to Dr. George B. Brain, superintendent, by the Cooperative Committee for the Study of Teaching problems.

The committee is made up of representatives of the Public School Teachers Association, the Baltimore Teachers Union and the Principals Association of Baltimore City.

Dr. Brain said action already is being taken on some of the constructive suggestions.

Some of the specific recommendations, which resulted from a two-year study, included:

1. That U.S. Savings Bonds and stamps not be sold in schools.

2. That parents and not teachers should handle the collection of funds for student life insurance policies.

3. That school fund - raising drives be seriously evaluated and in most instances "they can and should be eliminated."

4. That the schools "should not serve as a convenient instrument" for seeking funds and building up interest in charity drives.

5. That teachers should not have the responsibility for collection of milk and lunch money.

6. That teachers be relieved of school bookkeeping and making inventories.

48 Hong Kong Orphans Arrive

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forty-eight Chinese orphan refugees walked off a plane from Hong Kong Wednesday and into a mass greeting from relatives, prospective parents, newsmen, a movie star, and the attorney general of the United States.

The children were the first planeload of the expected 200 Hong Kong orphans who will be brought here under auspices of International Social Services since the mass exodus from Red China last month. None of the children were among those who fled China in May, however.

The group is the largest since the program started four years ago.

SFIC To Quit Operation As S&L Insurer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Security Financial Insurance Corp. said Wednesday it is withdrawing from the business of insuring savings and loan associations.

The concern is under investigation by both state and federal officials

K. George Christian, president of SFIC, said "Security Financial Insurance Corp. nor any other insurance company is geared to withstand a publicly financed crusade against it of the kind currently waged by state officials and the press in and around the state of Maryland."

SFIC sent letters to the 23 savings and loan associations it insures, notifying them it would terminate the policies in six months, and serving 60-day notice of cancellation.

The cancellations mean, Christian said, "that we are going out of business as far as deposit insurance is concerned."

"As far as going into other types of insurance," Christian said, "that will have to be decided later on."

Security Financial has been Maryland's only commercial insurer of savings and loan deposits. It has been involved in the controversy surrounding savings and loan associations in the state.

Only a week ago, the state asked the courts to close the firm and put it in receivership, claiming Security Financial was insolvent by more than $500,000. A hearing on the state's request is scheduled for July 9 in Baltimore Circuit Court.

Judge Reuben Oppenheimer froze the company's funds and directed that premiums be paid into an escrow account administered by the deputy insurance commissioner pending the July 9 hearing.

A federal grand jury also has begun an investigation into Security Financial's affairs. Books and records of the company have been turned over to the grand jury and to postal inspectors and federal authorities who are directing the investigation.

Christian wrote the 23 savings and loan associations that SFIC was withdrawing reluctantly.

"You may be assured," he said in his letter, "that as long as the company is able to operate as a 'free enterprise' all efforts will be made to honor the contractual obligations of our policies for protection of your free shareholders.

"It is significant that no claim has thus far been made against the company and that it is, of course, not in default under any of its policies."

Christian said he sent the letter after discussing the matter with company counsel and members of the board of directors. He said, however, that the action was not formally approved by resolution of the board.

Security Financial was founded in 1959 by a group of Baltimore County politicians with $450,000 provided by a Chicago lawyer.

Two Teachers' Trial Delayed

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The trial of two teachers accused of beating an 8-year-old pupil has been postponed until at least Friday.

Washington County Magistrate William Dwyer granted a prosecution request for the postponement until the student, Allen Marshall Ruck, is released from Washington County Hospital, where he is being treated for contusions and bruises of the body, eye, neck, left arm, groin and thigh.

The teachers, Nancy Gregory, 19, and Sara E. Hose, 31, both of the Truth for Youth school operated by the Church of God, are charged with assaulting Ruck with a wooden paddle.

The principal of the school, which has an enrollment of about 200, said the school administers corporal punishment with the consent of the childrens' parents.

"We would not take a child without this approval," said the Rev. E. E. Marquiss, principal.

He quoted the admonition from the book of proverbs in the Bible: "Beat the child and stop not for his crying. He will not die."

The child's mother, Mrs. Raymond Ruck, was quoted by police as saying she had called the school when her son did not return Friday at the usual time and was told he was being disciplined. She told police the boy was brought home at 7 o'clock that evening and when she saw his condition, she notified the police.

Two police officers who investigated the incident said the boy told them one of the accused teachers held him over a chair while the other wielded the wooden paddle.

Both teachers are free under bond of $2,500 each.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has established an office at Martin Co. in Baltimore to help coordinate work on the Gemini launch vehicle.

Martin is modifying the Titan II rocket under an Air Force contract for use as the Gemini launch vehicle. The booster will be used to launch a two-man spacecraft into orbit of the earth for extended space flights and tests.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — The death of a Baltimore plumber, who was struck by a car as he crossed the street, raised Maryland's traffic death toll to 239 compared with 196 for the corresponding period a year ago.

The latest victim was identified as Edward Seward, 44. Police said he was struck by a car driven by John Gittings, 18, also of Baltimore.

A 5-year-old Baltimore girl also died Tuesday of injuries she received after she was struck by a car Sunday. She was Barbara Howard.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A final order striking down the Upper Chesapeake Bay Milk Marketing Order was signed Tuesday by U.S. Chief District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Judge Thomsen stayed execution of the order, however, pending appeal. He had said in an opinion delivered two weeks ago that the order was not valid. Three Eastern Shore dairies and one in Carroll County had contended the control system in the milk industry by the Department of Agriculture was improperly established. The marketing order sets minimum prices dairies can pay for milk, while farmers are paid an average or blend price for their product, regardless whether it is used for drinking or in the manufacture of dairy products.

BALTIMORE (AP) — An autopsy has been scheduled to determine the cause of death Tuesday of a 48-year-old Baltimore man found in some bushes behind Mount Royal Station suffering from head injuries.

Police said the victim, Edward Meade, died shortly after he was discovered and rushed to Maryland General Hospital.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Construction of a dune line along Maryland beaches north of Ocean City has been started by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Worcester County Engineer Kenneth Carter said stakes also will be placed in Ocean City itself to show property owners just where the proposed dune lines would be built. Some property owners in the resort community have refused to give permission for the construction and dunes there cannot be built until permission of all property owners is obtained.

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Frank Small Jr. rapped Gov. Tawes Tuesday for what he termed the governor's reluctance "to take corrective action about Baltimore's notorious sin strip known as the block."

"Virtually everyone in the state has known about the existence of this gaudy section of iniquity, but it took a congressional investigation, nation-wide notoriety and an aroused Maryland citizenry to get the governor to show any concern," Small said.

County Racial Groups Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations urged Tuesday that similar groups be established by all county governments.

Douglas B. Sands, executive secretary of the commission, said, "Such county-level commissions are needed because they have more status in the community than purely voluntary organizations."

Sands said only Montgomery, Harford and Wicomico counties now have official organizations working in the field of race relations.

The recommendation made Tuesday was one of several that emerged from a conference on race relations held in Baltimore Saturday.

Others included guaranteeing fair employment practices by legislation, encouraging the State Board of Education to hire qualified teachers without regard to race or color and the State Department of Employment Security should be urged to refer applicants to jobs without regard to race.

The conference also suggested that Negro home buyers should be offered an increased availability of housing in suburban and rural areas.

Also urged was a state-wide public accommodations bill. Such a measure was defeated by a special session of the General Assembly in March.

By law, the design on any United States coin may not be changed for 25 years.

Bullet That Killed Lincoln In Exhibit

ANNAPOLIS (AP) —The bullet that killed President Abraham Lincoln will be one of the featured attractions of the five-day Tidewater Counties Civil War Centennial Commemoration beginning Saturday.

Other attractions to be displayed will be an 1860 wood-burning locomotive, the original draft of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and a bevy of Miss Universe contestants.

The Armed Forces Institute of Pathology Museum in Washington is lending the centennial committee the Lincoln bullet, together with other medical memorablia of the assassination, for a display in the state house.

Included in the extensive medical exhibit will be a surgeon's kit and a dental chair which were used during the Civil War.

Boost In Maryland Auto Insurance Rates Rapped

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two men criticized Wednesday approval of an increase in automobile insurance rates by F. Douglass Sears, the state insurance commissioner.

William T. S. Bricker, an assistant state's attorney but formerly assistant manager of the state's Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund, called on Sears to seriously reconsider the increase.

And Hyman A. Pressman, public watchdog from Baltimore, said "a substantial decrease was in order, not an increase."

The increase, totaling about $725,000 for the state, went into effect Wednesday on some collision and comprehensive policies. The changes vary according to territory, coverage and type of vehicle and do not affect existing policies until they come up for renewal.

Bricker said many insurance companies have begun writing into the medical payments coverage of the auto policy a right of subrogation, or substitution of one for another as creditor.

"This feature, in addition to barring claims where there is other medical or hospitalization coverage, such as Blue Cross, should result in further savings to the companies. It will be interesting to see if this saving is returned to the public by way of reduced rates."

Pressman called the increase completely unjustified and said insurance company surpluses have "grown to such an extent that substantial decreases in rates are in order."

Francis X. Gallagher, people's counsel for the Public Service Commission, said Sears has complete jurisdiction over rate changes.

New Haven Railroad Merger Intervenor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New Haven Railroad has been admitted as an intervenor in the Interstate Commerce Commission case on the proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

The New Haven, the 14th party to be admitted into the case, is being operated by three court-appointed trustees as a result of its bankruptcy action of a year ago.

The merger would create a railroad with assets of about $5 billion and 20,000 miles of track.

Pennsylvania has greater assets than any other railroad in the country, and Central is third in this category.

New Driving Test Course Is Tough

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — The Department of Motor Vehicles failed 319 of 811 student drivers who applied for licenses last week at the department's new headquarters.

The department moved earlier in June and is using three test courses that include stop signs, traffic lights, slight grades, parking areas and turnaround slots.

John R. Jewell, commissioner of Motor vehicles, said the number of failures increased sharply "because we are better able to test more thoroughly."

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market has displayed signs of trying to rally in the early in week, some Wall Street experts see few indications that it can manage a quick turnaround.

They feel that the deep slump has been going on too long to make an overnight reversal feasible.

A decline like this has to burn itself out, observes L. O. Hooper of the brokerage house, W. E. Hutton & Co.

He adds that it is still burning but not quite as fast as recently.

At a time like this, he says, the relation of prices to values is in a state of flux, and sellers are not thinking much about values, except emotionally.

Another analyst who believes that more time will be required "to clear away and repair the substantial technical wreckage that has already been done" is Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co.

He is of the opinion that business decisions will be seriously affected by the market decline and that, until the extent of any retrenchment and the changed outlook for 1963 are better weighed, any temporary rallies will probably run into strong selling resistance from professional traders, plus individuals who failed to sell when the decline started.

Mileage Payments Up

CHICAGO (UPI) Mileage payments to salesmen using their own cars on company business rose to a record national average of 8.91 cents a mile last year, an automotive leasing firm said Wednesday.

Wheels, Inc., said the rate represented a jump of nearly .7 per cent from 8.22 cents in 1960 to 15 per cent over 1957 when the average was 7.72 cents.

Growth Rate Slows

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) —The nation's household furniture industry continued its upward pace, although at a somewhat slower rate, in May, the furniture manufacturing bulletin published by analysts Seidman & Seidman said Wednesday.

The report, however, noted it does not reflect the gyrations of the stock market which began toward the endof the month.

Aid For Parkinson Disease Victims

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "cold knife" in the brain has proven dramatically successful in ending the uncontrollable tremors of Parkinson's disease and the agonies of related ailments, a surgeon said Tuesday.

The surgeon, Dr. Irving S. Cooper of New York, provided living proof of his new technique at a news conference held at the American Medical Association convention.

First he showed motion pictures of six victims who had suffered from Parkinson's disease and dystonia, a rare ailment in which muscular contortions wrench the body forward and sideway.

Then he asked the six patients to step forward. In all but one case, they appeared completely recovered.

Cooper said the change had been brought about my freezing a portion of the patients' brain.

He reported on 2,000 operations over a 10-year period in which the temperature of a portion of the brain was brought as low as 200 degrees below zero Centigrade through use of a cold "knife," actually a rod filled with liquid nitrogen.

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Pillow Peril

Feather pillows may constitute a hitherto unrecognized source of histoplasmosis, a sometimes-fatal fungus disease characterized by ulcers of the intestinal tract and various other symptoms.

This is the view of a team of Walter Reed Army Institute of Research investigators based on some medical detective work in the case of a 3½-month-old baby stricken with the malady. The researchers finally traced the source of the fungus to the baby's chicken-feather pillow, a homemade job brought to this country more than 30 years ago from Hungary.

Scientists have long associated histoplasmosis fungi with soils in and around the bailiwicks of domesticated and undomesticated birds—the theory being that excreted bodily products from these creatures promote nurturing of the fungi which can then be inhaled or ingested by humans in dust. But the Walter Reed case was the first detected instance of such a fungus being carried on or within a feather.

Help For Eyes?

Johns Hopkins scientists say a new technique holds high promise for the early diagnosis of glaucoma, the eye disease which constitutes the greatest single cause of blindness in man.

Glaucoma occurs when the channels which drain the fluid within the eye become blocked for one reason or another. Fluid pressure builds up, the eyeball hardens, optic nerve tracks constrict, and the patient may have impairment of vision ranging from slight abnormalities to absolute blindness.

Dr. Maurice E. Langham of Johns Hopkins has put to new use a suction cup device hitherto employed for many other physiological purposes. For glaucoma diagnosis, he has adapted it to measure such things as the rate of eye fluid drainage and how well the individual is able to regulate his eye flud pressure.

Buses To Run To Cumberland On Wednesdays

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — M. E. Martin, president of Superior Bus Service here, reports that the bus operating schedules between Franklin and Cumberland will be on Wednesdays for the present and will be expanded in the future if service is warranted..

The bus, which originates in Harrisonburg, Va., leaves Franklin at 10:30 a.m. EDT and will arrive in Moorefield at 11:45 a.m.

The route follows U. S. Route 220 to Junction, then on U.S. Route 50 to Romney and State Route 28 to Ridgeley, arriving at the Maryland State line at 1 p.m. The bus returns after a four-hour layover, starting at 5 p.m. and arrives at Moorefield at 6:30 p.m.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission granted a certificate of convenience last month. The bus will pick up passengers at any place en route. The waiting room at Moorefield will be the Hotel McNeill. Mr. Martin said that express parcels will be transported in addition to passengers.

Mileage Payments Up

CHICAGO (UPI) Mileage payments to salesmen using their own cars on company business rose to a record national average of 8.91 cents a mile last year, an automotive leasing firm said Wednesday.

Wheels, Inc., said the rate represented a jump of nearly .7 per cent from 8.22 cents in 1960 to 15 per cent over 1957 when the average was 7.72 cents.

Growth Rate Slows

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) —The nation's household furniture industry continued its upward pace, although at a somewhat slower rate, in May, the furniture manufacturing bulletin published by analysts Seidman & Seidman said Wednesday.

The report, however, noted it does not reflect the gyrations of the stock market which began toward the endof the month.

Aid For Parkinson Disease Victims

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "cold knife" in the brain has proven dramatically successful in ending the uncontrollable tremors of Parkinson's disease and the agonies of related ailments, a surgeon said Tuesday.

The surgeon, Dr. Irving S. Cooper of New York, provided living proof of his new technique at a news conference held at the American Medical Association convention.

First he showed motion pictures of six victims who had suffered from Parkinson's disease and dystonia, a rare ailment in which muscular contortions wrench the body forward and sideway.

Then he asked the six patients to step forward. In all but one case, they appeared completely recovered.

Cooper said the change had been brought about my freezing a portion of the patients' brain.

He reported on 2,000 operations over a 10-year period in which the temperature of a portion of the brain was brought as low as 200 degrees below zero Centigrade through use of a cold "knife," actually a rod filled with liquid nitrogen.

Visitors to the Century 21 Exposition in Seattle, Wash., will be able to eat while "in orbit." A restaurant perched atop a 550-foot steel-supported tower, will revolve slowly at the rate of once an hour.

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Pillow Peril

Feather pillows may constitute a hitherto unrecognized source of histoplasmosis, a sometimes-fatal fungus disease characterized by ulcers of the intestinal tract and various other symptoms.

This is the view of a team of Walter Reed Army Institute of Research investigators based on some medical detective work in the case of a 3½-month-old baby stricken with the malady. The researchers finally traced the source of the fungus to the baby's chicken-feather pillow, a home-made job brought to this country more than 30 years ago from Hungary.

Scientists have long associated histoplasmosis fungi with soils in and around the bailiwicks of domesticated and undomesticated birds—the theory being that excreted bodily products from these creatures promote nurturing of the fungi which can then be inhaled or ingested by humans in dust. But the Walter Reed case was the first detected instance of such a fungus being carried on or within a feather.

Help For Eyes?

Johns Hopkins scientists say a new technique holds high promise for the early diagnosis of glaucoma, the eye disease which constitutes the greatest single cause of blindness in man.

Glaucoma occurs when the channels which drain the fluid within the eye become blocked for one reason or another. Fluid pressure builds up, the eyeball hardens, optic nerve tracks constrict, and the patient may have impairment of vision ranging from slight abnormalities to absolute blindness.

Dr. Maurice E. Langham of Johns Hopkins has put to new use a suction cup device hitherto employed for many other physiological purposes. For glaucoma diagnosis, he has adapted it to measure such things as the rate of eye fluid drainage and how well the individual is able to regulate his eye flud pressure.

Buses To Run To Cumberland On Wednesdays

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — M. E. Martin, president of Superior Bus Service here, reports that the bus operating schedules between Franklin and Cumberland will be on Wednesdays for the present and will be expanded in the future if service is warranted..

The bus, which originates in Harrisonburg, Va., leaves Franklin at 10:30 a.m. EDT and will arrive in Moorefield at 11:45 a.m.

The route follows U. S. Route 220 to Junction, then on U.S. Route 50 to Romney and State Route 28 to Ridgeley, arriving at the Maryland State line at 1 p.m. The bus returns after a four-hour layover, starting at 5 p.m. and arrives at Moorefield at 6:30 p.m.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission granted a certificate of convenience last month. The bus will pick up passengers at any place en route. The waiting room at Moorefield will be the Hotel McNeill. Mr. Martin said that express parcels will be transported in addition to passengers.

Opening lead: King of ♣

South opened the bidding after three passes with one heart, and West chose to make an extremely light take-out double. While his distribution is attractive, the bid runs the risk of misleading partner as to his high-card strength. North redoubled and, after the next two hands passed, West rescued himself to two clubs. North and South now quickly bid themselves up to a game in hearts which East greeted with a resounding double.

The king of clubs was opened by West and he was permitted to hold the trick. Declarer won the queen of clubs continuation with the ace, and he led back the jack of diamonds. East played the ace and returned a third club in order to force the dummy.

The ten of hearts was led from the dummy and ducked all the way around as West discarded a club. Then came the eight of hearts which South overtook with the jack as East again played low. Declarer led the five of spades and successfully finessed dummy's queen.

The king and queen of diamonds were cashed and, when East followed both times, South threw a spade. A fourth diamond was led and East threw his other spade as declarer ruffed with the seven of hearts. Declarer now put a neat end to the proceedings, by playing over to the ace of spades. East was obliged to ruff in, and then lead away from his king-nine of trumps presenting South with a free finesse for the last two tricks and the contract.

B-P Women's Club Plans To Have Monthly Bulletin

The program theme for the Business and Professional Women's Club was selected and plans for a monthly bulletin this year, were formulated at the board meeting held Tuesday evening at Central YMCA. Miss Mary Jo Logsdon, presided.

"Think Your Way To the Top" was selected for the local theme. The national theme this year is "Leadership, Dimension in Democracy." The bulletin is to be edited by Miss Logsdon and Miss Mary Jo Simpson, corresponding secretary.

Tentative plans were discussed for the Business and Professional Women's Week observance, which will be held September 30 through October 6. Activities will include a style show and card party and a banquet.

A calendar of regular meetings was outlined, with the first general meeting to be held September 18 at the YMCA. A theatre party in the fall was discussed and Jennerstown, Garrett County, and Bedford Springs were considered. Plans also were discussed for a membership to be held in the spring.

Each chairman was asked to meet with her committee and be ready to report on plans at a board meeting August 7. At that time the group will decide finally on the various activities. The meeting will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

A Western District meeting is to be held July 21 at the Shrine club. At that time by laws will be set up and meetings discussed, also plans for the spring meeting, probably in May. Miss June Fishpaw, Baltimore, state first vice president; Mrs. Helen Mason, Silver Spring, state membership chairman; Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, secretary and club presidents will attend.

GSM Picnic August 15

The Tri-State Gold Star Mothers discussed plans for a picnic at the meeting held at the American Legion home. It is to be held in Constitution Park August 15 beginning at 5:30.

Mrs. Bessie Hansel and Mrs. Virginia Murphy were named to attend the national convention in Boston.

Business sessions will be resumed September 19, following the summer recess.

Zinnias will last longer if most of their leaves are removed, says the Society of American Florists. Spraying their leaves, and those of chrysanthemums, will make them last longer. Remove leaves when they wilt.

When planning to arrange flowers, pour very hot faucet water into a container and let the water stand about 10 minutes. The Society of American Florists says this will let the air bubbles escape rather than plug the flower stems and prevent their absorption of water. By cutting stem ends under water, you'll also prevent water bubbles from getting into the water-conducting tubes of the stems.

Opening lead: King of ♣

South opened the bidding after three passes with one heart, and West chose to make an extremely light take-out double. While his distribution is attractive, the bid runs the risk of misleading partner as to his high-card strength. North redoubled and, after the next two hands passed, West rescued himself to two clubs. North and South now quickly bid themselves up to a game in hearts which East greeted with a resounding double.

The king of clubs was opened by West and he was permitted to hold the trick. Declarer won the queen of clubs continuation with the ace, and he led back the jack of diamonds. East played the ace and returned a third club in order to force the dummy.

The ten of hearts was led from the dummy and ducked all the way around as West discarded a club. Then came the eight of hearts which South overtook with the jack as East again played low. Declarer led the five of spades and successfully finessed dummy's queen.

The king and queen of diamonds were cashed and, when East followed both times, South threw a spade. A fourth diamond was led and East threw his other spade as declarer ruffed with the seven of hearts. Declarer now put a neat end to the proceedings, by playing over to the ace of spades. East was obliged to ruff in, and then lead away from his king-nine of trumps presenting South with a free finesse for the last two tricks and the contract.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Posture Tips For Teenagers

You don't ask to spend several hours nightly bent over homework, do you? Yet, most of your posture difficulties begin right there at your desk. What would you say to solving both your algebra and posture problems without doing any extra work?

Here are the snap ways to do it:

1. Never sprawl over your desk or recline on your bed while you study. Sit tall as you can in a comfortable, straight-backed chair. If your desk is too low for you, ask your father to have it raised to the correct height by placing wooden blocks under the legs. If your desk is too high, ask your mother to buy a hard cushion for your chair.

2. Remember, no beauty ever has a head that juts forward on a curved neck. Make certain that your light is adequate so you don't have to read with the "end of your nose." Hold the book up instead of bending over it.

3. To make sure you won't have hips that look ten sizes too big, watch how you carry your books between classes. Beware of "shelving" them on your abdomen!

Avoid developing a lopsided looking figure as a result of carrying your books in the same arm all the time. To make sure you don't constantly favor one arm, why not start a new style for carrying books? Try something like a wide Scotch plaid leash.

4. Since all figure beauty and grace in movement stems from posture, guarantee the future of yours by signing up for some sport that will work like mad for you while you have fun. Archery is good for shoulders, riding for the back, and swimming for all-round problems.

5. Look alive! Your posture reflects your state of mind. If you maintain an alert outlook, your mirror will tell you that you are getting results!

Summer-fresh beauty . . . the year around! It's yours for the asking—just read SUMMERIZING YOUR BEAUTY. Send for your copy today (enclosing 10c and a stamped, return envelope) to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Gifts To Help Pay National Debt Futile

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The contributions patriotic and worried citizens make to Uncle Sam to help pay off the national debt are proving to be futile.

The debt is so big — a hair's breadth under $300 billion—that it is a practical impossibility for the Treasury to use donations even as large as $1,000 to reduce it.

This presumably will be dismaying news to the 78 people who have contributed $8,375.01 to a special Treasury fund to trim the debt. The fund was authorized by a special act of Congress signed by President Kennedy June 27, 1961.

Before then, gifts to Uncle Sam to help pay off the debt went into the Treasury's general fund. Now they go into a special account. In the end, however, there is no difference.

Here's what happens according to Treasury officials:

The contributions are deposited in the special account. When a nice round sum like $2,000 is accumulated the Bureau of Accounts notifies the Bureau of Public Debt.

The public debt people review the securities that are coming due and being paid off. They pick $2,000 worth with the highest interest rate. Redemption of them is charged to the special account.

If the special account did not exist, these maturing securities would be paid out of the Treasury's cash balance. So, the net result is that the cash balance is $2,000 greater than it otherwise would be.

In a cash balance that fluctuates in the $6 to $8 billion range, a difference of $2,000 is of no consequence. It is as if a family breadwinner who takes home $8,000 a year has two cents more in his pocket.

As of May 17, $7,000 of debt reduction had been charged to the special account. "Even $7 million wouldn't have any appreciable impact on our financing," a veteran Treasury debt expert commented.

Virtually all maturing debt is paid off with cash raised by new borrowing. This is called rolling over the debt. Every week the Treasury rolls over about $2 billion of short-term securities. An extra $2,000 in the cash drawer exerts not the slightest effect on the size of the Treasury's roll-over borrowing.

The gifts to reduce the debt would have to pour in at a phenomenal rate to make a difference. In fact, they come in irregularly and from all sorts of people.

A while back American history students in Texarkana, Ark., got up a $2 kitty to help pay off the debt. More recently Lt. Gov. William D. Baird of Tennessee sent the treasury the $1,000 fee he received for writing a magazine article about political reapportionment in his state.

Baird, like many other contributors to the fund, is concerned that growth of the debt threatens the country's well-being. "People get the feeling that the state of the nation is such that every little dollar helps," one Treasury official observed.

The Treasury is in an awkward position. It must gratefully acknowledge every contribution. But in many cases the donations are less than the clerical cost of processing them.

If the gifts came in large numbers and large sums, they might in the aggregate affect the debt's size. The government, however, will not encourage or ask the public to contribute lest it create the false impression that federal finances are getting out of hand and Uncle Sam needs to be bailed out by Joe Doakes.

New "Big E" Joins 2d Fleet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world's largest warship, the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, has joined the U. S. 2d Fleet in the western Atlantic and later will go to the Mediterranean for service with the 6th Fleet, the Navy announced Tuesday.

The Enterprise was reported to be scheduled for transfer to the 6th Fleet in mid-August, relieving the carrier Shangri-La.

The Enterprise, carrying the latest jet fighters and bombers in the Navy, was commissioned last Nov. 25 and has been in shakedown cruises and training operations until Monday when it took on its first regular assignment in a striking fleet.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Teen-age boys now formulating career plans ought to consider joining the ranks of ladies in white.

Dr. Samuel J. Gelman, associate director of the New York Hospital for Joint Diseases, includes stepped-up recruitment of male students in the nation's nursing schools as one point in a plan to help hospitals fill vacancies in nursing positions.

Gelman admits that a certain stigma at times is associated with males in the womanly field of nursing.

He maintains the stigma is "completely unjustified."

"The same stigma," he said, "was once associated with male teachers and physical therapists. Today though, male teachers and therapists are highly respected and have proved to be valuable assets in their profession.

"Surely this will be true of nursing as well, in time. Men represent a virtually limitless source for recruitment of future nurses."

Gelman suggested we look to the experience of our British cousins. The early records of one of the great teaching hospitals in London, for example, show that its staff consisted of eight nursing brothers and four nursing sisters under one master.

Today there are more than 9,000 registered male nurses in England, Wales and Scotland, and also 6,000 assistant male nurses.

"This is an impressive total of 15,000, and if we were able to add 15,000 to our nursing staffs, many of our problems would be promptly alleviated," Gelman said.

(An estimated 300 males now graduate from the nation's nursing schools annually. One-third of the nursing schools accept male students. It is estimated there are five to six thousand registered male nurses in the United States.)

In addition to the recruitment of males for nursing careers, Gelman suggested better salaries for nurses and the training of more practical nurses.

What do practical nurses do in hospitals?

"Almost everything," Gelman said.

"They act as medication and treatment nurses in medical and surgical units under supervision of registered nurses. Since they are intimately concerned with patient care, they are in an ideal position to help meet the emotional as well as the physical needs of the patients."

In the operating room, Gelman said, the practical nurse who is properly screened, capable and interested is given a good in-service training program...and comes in time to fill the position of the scrub nurse with great proficiency.

He said that in 1947 there were 50 recognized schools of practical nursing. Today there are 600.

In the years ahead when nursing staffs will be needed for an additional 80,000 new hospital beds, Gelman noted, the practical nurse and the male nurse will find plenty of opportunities to grow.

Only by utilization of both old and new ways of meeting the physical and emotional needs of patients and expanding the nursing service will the public demand for better and increased health service be met, as Gelman sees it.

AF's Dyna-Soar Is Renamed X20

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force Tuesday changed the name of its first piloted spaceship from Dyna-Soar to X20.

Dyna-Soar stands for dynamic soaring and refers to the spacecraft's design for orbiting the earth and operating in the top of the atmosphere like a glider after being boosted by a rocket.

In redesignating the ship X20, the Air Force gave it a less glamorous name which it felt better described the experimental nature of the manned vehicle, that probably will be flying in another two or three years.

Orbiting Space Observatory Planned

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A scientist outlined plans Tuesday for a spaceship to explore and survey the entire celestial sphere — hopefully by late next year.

Plans for an orbiting astronomical observatory (OAO) were discussed by John M. Mockovciak Jr. of the Grumman Aircraft Corp. of New York.

Mockovciak, a project engineer for the space science group of preliminary design, said the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and the University of Wisconsin probably would share the first space observatory.

"The nature of the proposed experiment," he said, "dictates that the entire celestial sphere be surveyed and the observatory have a lifetime of at least one year.

"A basic objective is the creation of a standardized space craft that can be used for many scientific missions. Initially, the OAO will be used for stellar astronomy in the ultraviolet range."

He said the Smithsonian proposed to map the entire sky in three ultraviolet colors and to obtain low dispersion stellar spectra. He said the University of Wisconsin proposed an experiment involving multicolor photometry of stars. He said an approximately circular orbit at an altitude of 500 miles was planned.

He discussed the problems encountered in the structural design and the methods used to achieve a structure of light weight, high rigidity and low thermal distortion.

AF's Dyna-Soar Is Renamed X20

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force Tuesday changed the name of its first piloted spaceship from Dyna-Soar to X20.

Dyna-Soar stands for dynamic soaring and refers to the spacecraft's design for orbiting the earth and operating in the top of the atmosphere like a glider after being boosted by a rocket.

In redesignating the ship X20, the Air Force gave it a less glamorous name which it felt better described the experimental nature of the manned vehicle, that probably will be flying in another two or three years.

Orbiting Space Observatory Planned

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A scientist outlined plans Tuesday for a spaceship to explore and survey the entire celestial sphere — hopefully by late next year.

Plans for an orbiting astronomical observatory (OAO) were discussed by John M. Mockovciak Jr. of the Grumman Aircraft Corp. of New York.

Mockovciak, a project engineer for the space science group of preliminary design, said the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and the University of Wisconsin probably would share the first space observatory.

"The nature of the proposed experiment," he said, "dictates that the entire celestial sphere be surveyed and the observatory have a lifetime of at least one year.

"A basic objective is the creation of a standardized space craft that can be used for many scientific missions. Initially, the OAO will be used for stellar astronomy in the ultraviolet range."

He said the Smithsonian proposed to map the entire sky in three ultraviolet colors and to obtain low dispersion stellar spectra. He said the University of Wisconsin proposed an experiment involving multicolor photometry of stars. He said an approximately circular orbit at an altitude of 500 miles was planned.

He discussed the problems encountered in the structural design and the methods used to achieve a structure of light weight, high rigidity and low thermal distortion.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Foster Wheeler Corp. announced Tuesday it has designed and built a versatile new steam generator which permits firing of either fluid coke, oil or refinery gas for Delaware Power & Light Co. The new units design permits use of fuel which was mainly a waste product in the past.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bulova Watch Co. Inc.'s industrial & military products division has been awarded $142,000 new production contracts for warhead triggering devices for the Bullpup air-to-ground missile by the Orlando Division of Martin Co., it was announced Tuesday. The new contracts bring the total value of contracts for the program to $434,000.

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (UPI)— Rohr Corp. announced Tuesday it has received follow-on orders totaling $13,500,000 from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. for additional engine pods for the C-130 Hercules turbo-prop transport airplane.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Discount Corp. of New York announced a ⅛ percentage point increase on bankers acceptances, effective Tuesday, and similar increases were announced by Briggs, Shaedle & Co., First Boston Corp., Salomon Brothers & Hutzler and M&T Discount Corp.

TORONTO (UPI) — Ansco of Canada Ltd. announced plans for a new million dollar plant to inaugurate its Canadian operations. The new plant will produce photographic products which are also manufactured by General Aniline & Film Corp. at its Binghamton, N.Y. facility. Construction is scheduled to begin this fall and the plant is expected to begin operations by September 1963.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The domestic airlines lost $20 million during the first four months of this year, economist George Hitchings of American Airlines said Tuesday. Hitchings told the San Francisco Society of Security Analysts the trend makes it clear there must be major changes in the country's air transport policies and operations.

U.S. Emphasis On Peace Mission In Space Frustrates Military Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the U.S. military man, the space age has held its share of frustrations.

He is certain there is a military mission in space, that he will be there as he has been at all man's new frontiers.

The Soviet Union has made no bones about this. After his 24-hour orbital flight in August, 1961, Maj. Gherman S. Titov noted his Vostok II did not carry atom bombs, as if to emphasize it could have. Nikita S. Khrushchev talked in almost the same breath of rockets for space progress and for crushing aggressors.

The United States, understandably, has labored to make space a peaceful realm and to emphasize the peaceful, scientific work to be done there. Less understandably, it has seemed to impose an arbitrary line between civilian and military space effort and to be rather slow in acknowledging a connection between scientific and military space. Therein lies the frustration for the military.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower insisted that space exploration and the military development are different. The present administration has refrained from asserting a clearcut position on the role for military men in space.

As a major early step toward a definite military mission in space, the Defense Department is putting emphasis on technical studies leading to development of a manned space interceptor — a craft that could intercept and knock down hostile space vehicles. Defense planners do not believe the civilian space agency's one-man Gemini spacecraft are adaptable as satellite or missile interceptors.

Military men no longer regard it as amusing, as it was in the late 1940's, when the then Defense Secretary James Forrestal said they would be willing to "fortify the moon." Man may well visit the moon this decade and historically there has always been a military role in the world's newest frontiers.

America's space spectaculars—the orbiting of manned space craft — were carried out by the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration. But the Armed Forces provided both the astronauts and the rocket booster.

Redstone, Jupiter, Thor, Atlas and Titan ballistic missiles were adapted as spacecraft boosters for both military and civilian purposes. NASA took over the Army's Saturn booster project, which was based on clusters of Jupiter-type rocket motors. Only with development of advanced type Saturns and the giant Nova project will NASA begin to have its own "civilian" rocket boosters for voyage to the moon and beyond and for heavy earth satellites.

The Defense Department has begun development of Titan III, a name destined to become very well known in a few years.

Titan III, likely to cost $173 million in the coming year, is envisioned as a three-stage booster that will leave the earth with two million pounds thrust, considerably more than the Saturn or the booster Titov used.

One of Titan III's chief jobs will be hurtling aloft the spacecraft Dyna Soar, the only manned military vehicle now being developed and the possible prototype of a future space bomber. Dyna Soar should fly in 1964.

Unlike the civilian space agency's Mercury capsules, which after orbit, descend into the ocean on parachutes, Dyna Soar is winged and is to be flown home to an air base like an airplane.

Another military oriented space development is the X15 rocket plane that has climbed nearly 48 miles and reached speeds of nearly 4,100 miles an hour, both records for manned aircrafts. A planning project to follow both the X15 and Dyna Soar is the "Aerospace Plane," now seen as a craft that could take off from earth, fly through the atmosphere, operate in space and fly home — all under its own power.

The immediate missions of the military in space are less sensational but of paramount importance. They include the Transit navigation satellite system which is nearing operational readiness the Advent global communication system and the highly secret Midas warning and Samos reconnaissance satellite systems, successor to the U2 program.

Because of its insistence on secrecy for Midas and Samos, which are boosted by Atlas-Agena B rockets, the Defense Department has recently determined that it will no longer announce any military satellite launchings by name.

Confusion In Canada

Just when Canada needs a government with a clear mandate, Canadian voters have taken away the one the Progressive Conservatives have enjoyed and have not given a majority to any other party. An informal coalition will carry on until the need for something better will compel another election.

How long it will take for matters to come to a head cannot be accurately foretold. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, his party 16 votes short of a working majority in the 265-member House of Commons, evidently expects to extract support from the Social Credit Party, which won 30 seats. The question is how long support will be forthcoming.

Even students of Canada's governmental system are somewhat at sea. Mr. Diefenbaker headed a coalition government before, but that was when his party was gaining ground.

Mr. Diefenbaker has not hesitated to resort to extraordinary measures in an effort to stimulate business and relieve Canada's chronic unemployment. In the last five years the government's deficits have totaled $3 billion. If our government had followed similar policies, the figure for us would have been $42 billion. He has devalued the Canadian dollar, now worth less than 92 cents U. S. The results were not sufficient to avert the election debacle.

It is ironic, but the "Diefendollar" may have to be devalued further. Voters can demand that governments produce prosperity, but politicians, with the best will in the world, cannot always deliver.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Economy

President Kennedy cannot ignore the unseemly economy of the United States. It is true that prices in the Stock Exchange have been too high. To use a rule of thumb which a very successful financier has used, it is unwise to buy at the bottom of the market; it is unsound to sell at what looks like the top. Practically, when a stock sells for more than 15 or 20 times its earnings, its price is inflated by emotional factors, including public relations gimmicks.

But the stock market is not to be taken as a yardstick of the economy. It is a place, here as well as in other countries, where men gamble on probabilities and possibilities and the gamblers can upset all economic laws if they deal in large enough volume. Short selling should be prohibited by law, as a gambler's device.

The stock market does not cause a recession or a depression. Both are normal characteristics of adjustment in the economic system. Every device conceived in capitalistic or communist countries to avoid or avert "hills and valleys" has failed, because in certain periods, "good times," man tends to over-produce until a period of satiation sets in. These may be called "bad times."

It has been assumed by optimistic politicians and statisticians that as there are vast backward areas of the world, it ought to be possible by a pump-priming trick, "foreign aid," not only to achieve a political goal but to raise the standard of living of a people so swiftly that they would immediately consume the surpluses of the countries which are over-produced. This has not happened. Instead, those countries that stockpiled to maintain high prices and high wages are stuck with their stockpiles and, in 1962, the entire world is suffering from mild to severe economic disturbances. The United States could break the back of the economies of many nations and guarantee a universal depression of major dimensions by dumping its stockpile at bargain-counter prices.

This problem goes back to Joseph in Egypt, if my readers recall the story in the Bible. Joseph invented the stockpile as he did the ever-normal granary. He erected vast storages to hold the grain, so that in years of famine there would be food. The granaries became very costly and Egypt undertook enormous public works based on a slave system.

When the slaves revolted, Egypt's economy went to pieces. The leading country in the world at one moment in history, Egypt never recovered from this curious economic experimentation.

This technique has, since the end of World War II, been used throughout the world in the hope of maintaining a war-expanded economy. It has not worked.

Take the example of Canada. Viewing the history of the Canadian dollar from 1846 to today, it has generally stood in relationship to the U.S. dollar in the vicinity of 90. This was advantageous to Canada which is dependent upon British and U.S. capital for its development. After all, Canada is a country of 3,621,616 square miles with a population of 17,000,000. It could hold a population of 50,000,000 to 100,000,000. But it cannot swiftly develop capital to finance the provision of work without assistance of other countries and without creating conditions favorable to exports.

The history of Canada has been a history of the export of raw materials and the import of manufactured goods and capital. It paralleled the history of the United States. Actually the two countries were one economically, except that the United States, having a more favorable climate, attracted more immigrants. As a result, the United States developed more rapidly than Canada and some of Canada's popuiation overflowed into the United States either as a working force or as permanent settlers. But American manufactured goods and capital flowed freely into Canada.

Up to Prohibition, this freedom of economic movement continued. Immense amounts of American capital flowed into Canada, which Canada could not consume by usual economic processes. Canada thus became an exporter of capital as well as an importer and the Canadian dollar moved out of line. Economic nationalism led to the cartel system; Canada swallowed more than it could chew.

That is true of so many other countries. Thus, a universal recession has set in, which, if not dealt with without regard to sentiment, can produce a universal depression.

Odds Favor Vigorous Action In Formosa Strait

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The President is keeping his own counsel about the threatened crisis in the Formosa Strait. But it is now clear that his highest advisors in the State and Defense Departments favor the most vigorous response, even including the use of American military power, to any Communist attack on the offshore islands.

After greatly strengthening their forces in the Formosa Strait coastal areas, the Chinese Communists have now made their first public comment on the threatened crisis. This long article, disseminated by the official news agency, contains nothing but a rather shrill warning against an attempted return to the mainland by Chiang Kai-shek.

Thus it reinforces the argument that the Communist troop movements have a defensive motive. No light whatever is cast, unhappily, on the much more important question, whether the Communist defense includes a spoiling attack on the exposed Nationalist positions on Quemoy Island, only five miles off the coast.

As this question is still entirely open, the practical factors of the new problem in the Formosa Strait deserve careful thought. The political factors can be briefly summarized.

On the one hand, the President voted in the Senate against inclusion of the offshore islands in the Formosa defense treaty, and questioned the military need to hold these islands during the campaign. On the other hand — and far more important — the general political situation in Asia is still exceedingly fragile. Passive U.S. toleration of a successful Communist aggression in the Formosa Strait will therefore spread dismay and demoralization in every friendly and uncommitted Asian nation.

The Asian repercussions will be exceedingly dangerous. But the feedback into the Berlin crisis will be even more dangerous, if anything. For an argument is plainly going on in Moscow about the degree of U.S. resolution to defend Berlin. If we are not ready to stand up and be counted on the offshore islands, where the situation is favorable to us, Russian leaders like Marshal Malinovsky will automatically infer that we cannot possibly be ready to stand up and be counted at Berlin, where the local situation is most unfavorable.

The military factors, when carefully studied, are seen to be more complex than the political factors. The situation in the Strait is favorable to us, but is by no means the same as in 1958, when the last Communist attack on Quemoy was successfully repulsed.

To begin with, a quite different kind of Communist attack has to be anticipated, if such an attack indeed develops. In 1958, Peking expected Quemoy to fall at the first trumpet blast, like the walls of Jericho. When this did not happen, an attempt was made to strangle Quemoy by feeble air action and an inefficient, ill-prepared artillery blockade. We cannot hope for that much luck again.

What must now be anticipated is far more grave. The best bet is a massive, intensive artillery and air preparation, followed by an attempted landing as soon as air supremacy allows the Communists to outflank the Quemoy defenses with air-dropped troops. The Nationalist defensive positions on Quemoy are much stronger now than in 1958; but this improvement will quickly prove unavailing if and when air supremacy passes to the Communists.

The air, in fact, appears to be the critical point, and there is a difficulty. In 1958, the Nationalists, flying F-86s, beat the living daylights out of the Communists, who flew somewhat superior MiG-17s. The sidewinder missiles, used at the very end of the fighting, contributed only marginally to the Nationalist air triumph. The real cause was the Nationalist pilots' superior proficiency and fighting spirit.

Judging by the interrogation of a recent Communist pilot-defector, the Communist Air Force is still very inadequately trained. It is now equipped, however, with MiG-19s. These are supersonic planes so widely superior to the Nationalists' sub-sonic F-86s that no reliance can any longer be placed on the Nationalists' pilot superiority. Using large numbers of MiG-19s, the Communists might in fact attain air supremacy rather early in the battle.

This means in turn that if the President wishes to stand up and be counted, he must at least be ready to use American air power to support the Nationalists if the need arises; and he must be ready to do so without a moment's delay. But unlike Korea, the situation in the Formosa Strait is such that we can be absolutely certain air and naval action will be enough to do the job.

Unlike all previous comparable crises, moreover, this one finds the U. S. military leaders satisfied with the men and weapons they have in hand. Adm. Harry D. Felt has already reported that his forces in the Pacific are sufficient to meet any emergency — an almost miraculous new departure. Quite probably, the Communists will be deterred by this very fact. We can only wait and see.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

AFTER LABOR DAY — Observers on Capitol Hill are revising earlier estimates and now consider it a near certainty that the present session of Congress will last for several months — at least until after Labor Day.

Early in the session — before the steel price crisis — Congress appeared to be moving along fairly well and the betting was that adjournment would come around Aug. 1. However, among the many results of that debacle has been a slowing down of the legislative process to the point where there is a big overhand of important measures still to be acted upon.

The slow-down was a bi-product of the changed economic and political climate that resulted from effort to roll back the steel price rise.

Loss of confidence by the investing public in the short-range future of the U. S. economy injected new considerations into such pending measures as the tax incentive bill, the foreign trade bill, medical care for the aged via social security, and a whole host of appropriation bills.

Because this is a congressional election year, there are many members of both Houses of Congress who want to get back home to campaign for re-election. But they dare not leave before they've resolved — or at least brought to a vote — some of the major measures still pending in Congress. Their political opponents would accuse them of shirking their duty in order to further their personal political careers.

So it's been generally decided that Congress will work on through the hot Washington summer to get votes on the important measures, whether or not they are approved.

Study Proves Rabies Transmitted Via Air

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several years ago I was asked whether a person could get rabies from inhaling contaminated dust or through personal contact with this material. My answer was no, because I never had heard of anyone who developed the disease in such circumstances.

Now comes Dr. Denny G. Constantine of New Mexico with a story about two men who entered Frio cave near Uvalde, Tex., and died later of confirmed rabies. These chaps were reliable observers; they were certain of not having been bitten by bats or other mammals.

The cavern contained millions of bats and it was concluded that some were rabid and passed along the disease in a nonbite method, at least under the atmospheric conditions of a large cave. But Dr. Constantine, a veterinarian, was not satisfied with the explanation. He placed a group of dogs, cats, and a variety of wild canivorous animals into separate cages and put them in a bat-occupied room within Frio cave for periods of 7 to 30 days.

The cages were 3 feet above the floor, where the animals were exposed mainly to the cave environment. Seven days later the first animals were removed and 4 of 13 subsequently died of rabies.

A second and a third test was done because of the possibility that some of the smaller bats or the bugs may have bitten the animals through the cage mesh. Steel or plastic mesh and mosquito netting were used to protect against direct contact with living creatures. Some animals also were placed in tight enclosures from which the cave atmosphere was excluded.

At any rate, 22 animals developed rabies — 10 coyotes and 12 foxes. This convinced Dr. Constantine that rabies can be transmitted via the air. In all probability, the victim must remain in close and constant contact with infected animals to develop the disease in this way.

IRREGULARITIES DIFFER

N. V. writes: Are hormones needed for irregular menses?

REPLY

There are varied causes of this condition. Hormones are used in some but not in others. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on menstrual irregularities.

STOPPING NOSEBLEED

N. R. writes: How do you stop a nosebleed?

REPLY

The bleeder should sit up, if he is not too weak. Apply cold wet towels over the face, nose, and back of the head and neck. Pinch the nostrils together. Encourage the individual not to talk, cough, blow his nose, or walk about. He should breathe through the mouth. Severe or prolonged nose-bleed calls for a physician's care.

YELLOW VEGETABLES

Mrs. L. writes: Could an 8 month baby turn yellow from eating yellow vegetables?

REPLY

MILK SUBSTITUES

Mrs. X. writes: I have been advised to drink milk but hate it. What can I take as a substitute?

REPLY

Forget milk if you hate it. A well balanced diet contains the same nutrients as milk and many prepared foods contain milk. If you want to play it safe, take a multiple vitamin-mineral capsule every day.

GELATINE IS A PROTEIN

H.B. writes: Is there any cholesterol in gelatine?

REPLY

No, but there is in gelatine desserts when topped with whipped cream.

TOMORROW: Peridontal disease.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A noted pyschiatrist was mildly surprised to see a fox sitting in his waiting room, listlessly thumbing through a copy of Aesop's Fables. "What," inquired the psychiatrist a bit nervously, "can I do for you?"

"Doctor," barked the fox, "you've got to help me. I'm not crazy like I'm supposed to be."

A man from Texas, visiting in Alaska, was the butt of considerable humor about the fact that Texas was now only the second largest state in the Union. "True, true," conceded the Texan, "but wouldn't you half-frozen galoots up here like to have some of our herds of cattle? Everywhere you look in Texas, you see the finest, healthiest, most expensive cattle ever bred."

"Okay," joshed an Alaskan. "You've got a few head of mangey cattle. But you've got nothing like our majestic, towering, snow-clad mountains down there."

"Not now," shot back the Texan, "but we did have, son. We had 'em before our cattle trampled 'em down!"

Labor Secretary Goldberg Draws Criticism From Some Union Leaders

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The first job Arthur Goldberg ever had was carrying piles of shoe boxes between stores on the streetcars of Chicago when he was 12 years old. His father was an immigrant from Russia and the family's survival depended in part on Arthur's work.

The last job Goldberg had was sitting 36 hours at a stretch trying to persuade, argue, cajole and knock the heads of recalcitrant labor leaders into realizing that featherbedding is against the best interests of the United States. He is now working for Uncle Sam and the survival of the nation's economy depends in part on his work.

In between these two jobs, Arthur Goldberg has been working for the trade union movement and for his fellow men.

During the war he was the OSS executive who organized the trade union movement of Europe into a little known but highly effective network of sabotage and espionage behind the Nazi lines. Through the transport workers of Belgium, the railroad conductors of Czechoslovakia, the seamen of Holland he got priceless information on what was happening in occupied Europe. The trade union movement was working together against Hitler.

After the war, as a labor attorney, he negotiated some of the best contracts for the steelworkers—in the days when steelworkers were underpaid and steel profits were booming.

Is Goldberg Anti-Labor?

Currently, it is reported that labor is down on Goldberg, that its leaders consider him too tough in negotiating on the other side of the table. He has forgotten labor's point of view, it's said.

This, I can report, is not true of George Meany, Walter Reuther, Joe Keenan and the dedicated leaders of labor trained in the belief that labor's goal is to elevate the welfare of man.

But it is true of those leaders who put the interest of their union ahead of the welfare of their country and would tie up a segment of the country in order to put their union ahead of a rival union or preserve jobs long outmoded by technical progress.

This is the real bind in the flight engineers' strike against Pan American and Eastern Airlines today. It is also the issue in the railroad controversy and it is partly why newspapers have been folding up around the United States.

There was a time when newspapers could afford featherbedding and the made-work rules which require an ad already in matrix form to be set in duplicate by a union typesetter, then thrown away.

There was also a time when the railroads could afford to have a fireman, no longer busy shoveling coal, sit idle beside a diesel engine; or when the airlines could afford flight engineer in addition to the regular flight crew.

But not today. Today, too many advertising dollars are sucked away from newspapers by television today to keep an inefficient paper in business. Too many trucking dollars are sucked away from the railroads to keep inefficient railroads in business. And too many foreign air dollars are sucked away from American lines to keep a featherbedded airline in business.

This column, incidentally, is written by one of the oldest members of the Newspaper Guild who has long championed the rights of workingmen—when they were rights.

When the Guild was organized it got help from a gnarled veteran of many labor battles, John L. Lewis, who helped sell Franklin Roosevelt on the idea of protecting labor's then badly neglected right to organize by inserting Section 7 A in the NRA law.

That was when labor's shirttail was out and dragging on the ground. Today labor leaders ride in Cadillacs.

But John L. Lewis, the old Welshman who has lived through the wars of bloody Mingo County, West Virginia, and the shooting feuds of Southern Illinois, will tell you that you can't stop progress. When machines were made to replace his miners and when mine locomotion was devised to replace mules, John L. never championed featherbedding. He argued that you couldn't stop progress.

He knew that the country wouldn't stand for it, any more than the country will stand for it today.

And no one can ever challenge the fact that John L. Lewis was not dedicated to the cause of the working miner any more than they can challenge Arthur Goldberg's devotion to the cause of the workingman.

Labor-Go-Round

Secretary Goldberg is rapidly working himself away from one of the most coveted jobs in the United States — the Supreme Court. It was made known early in the Kennedy Administration that he was No. 1 on the list to fill the first court vacancy. But when that vacancy occurred, Goldberg was engaged in settling a strike. The President, understandably, passed him up. Now there's a wise-crack around the White House that if labor troubles continue Arthur will never get on the court.

Tourist Attraction

By John Crosby

BERLIN

It has always struck me as monstrously ironic that while we are developing the world's most fiendishly sophisticated weapons—hydrogen bombs that could wipe out most of civilization in the wink of an eye, carried by missiles that travel 18,000 miles an hour — we are helping to fight a war in Vietnam that seems to be a throwback to the French and Indian wars out of villages fortified with roughly the amount of sophistication used in the fortification of villages in the Euphrates valley 7,500 years ago.

This same feeling of irony struck me hard when I got my first glimpse of the wall here. As walls go, it's not much of a wall — cinder blocks and bricks and wire, intensely improvised clear across the city. Your first thought is that it doesn't belong in modern times. Walled cities are out of date and the ancients walled a city much more prettily than this. It's an ugly wall.

There are wooden platforms on our side scattered here and there and you can look over at their side. Between the wall and the pill-boxes is no man's land, a little sea of barbed wire, and again you get the feeling that the scene is out of date, something out of World War I. The Vopos lounge around their pillboxes, their tommyguns slung over their shoulders. They're quite shy, and when they catch you looking at them they duck into their pillboxes, like prairie dogs into their holes.

My first thought: they're untidy soldiers. Hats on the backs of their heads, uniforms unpressed and, looking from a distance, unclean. Walter Ulbricht has monstrous crimes to answer for, but one of the lesser ones is that he has made the East Germans sloppy soldiers. Frederick the Great must be spinning in his grave.

The wall is a tourist attraction now. Very big business. Germans come from all over West Germany and Berliners come from all over this immense city. They travel on buses the length of the wall, stopping at its historic sites, where the guides tell them who jumped and whether they made it.

I strolled along Beranuer Strasse in the French sector because it is one of the dramatic parts of the wall where the buildings form part of it, their bricked-up windows mute cries of despair. Across the street, a little shop sells postcards of the more picturesque parts of the wall, Brandenburg Gate plaques and pennants with the Berlin bear on them. Also film for your camera. The Germans are even greater picture takers than we are.

Across the street a little horde of German boys in leather pants were snapping pictures of a memorial to a lady named Ida Siekmann who had leaped to her death there. The memorial was wooden posts strung with barbed wire and decked with flowers. In the shadow of the wall, small boys were playing Vopos, a very popular game with the little ones. The children challenge one another, ask for passports, occasionally play at breaking out and getting killed and all the other foolish games they have seen their silly elders play right across the street.

The last time I was here, the wall wasn't up and you simply showed your passport and drove into East Berlin. Now, there's a Checkpoint Charlie and the procedure is tedious. Bored East German soldiers, listening to rock 'n' roll on transistor radios, take your passports and disappear for a while. Other Vopos peer into the trunk of your car to be sure you're not carrying subversive literature into East Berlin. Sometimes they take a car apart, bolt by bolt, just to be ornery.

Two years ago the main drag was Stalinallee. But not any more. Now it's Karl Marx Allee. Sunday afternoon is the dreariest of times in any city anywhere in the world (Sunday is a country day) and I must say Karl Marx Allee doesn't seem any drearier than Wisconsin Avenue in Milwaukee on Sunday.

If anything the people seem better dressed than on my last visit and in their faces there was less of blank despair. Actually, with a deepening food crisis as part of a general economic crisis, the East Germans never had it so bad. But they didn't look as miserable as they had every right to, perhaps because it was a nice day.

Ben Lacy, the ABC correspondent here, and I sat in an outdoor cafe eating ice cream, which was pretty good, and drinking East German coffee, which is awful. What the East German face lacks, I decided, is purpose. The West German has a sort of self-satisfied phlegmatic solidity to him that I sometimes find irritating, but he has a sense of mission and he does everything purposefully. An East German — the way he walks or talks or eats — just looks aimless, as if he's waiting, waiting for God knows what.

The East German kids were playing stage coach on a real life old coach that, for some reason, was standing on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Stalin's showy apartment buildings. They played with the same zest that the West German kids played Vopos, whipping imaginary horses and shooting imaginary Indians with great glee.

Driving back, we stopped for a moment and looked at the wall from the other side, looking out at West Berlin. There were hordes of East German tourists getting out of their buses and staring over the wall. It's just as big a tourist attraction on that side as on ours. The guides were explaining that the wall had gone up to protect East Germany from "the encroachment of capitalists," to protect the German People's Republic from us, that is.

Confusion In Canada

Just when Canada needs a government with a clear mandate, Canadian voters have taken away the one the Progressive Conservatives have enjoyed and have not given a majority to any other party. An informal coalition will carry on until the need for something better will compel another election.

How long it will take for matters to come to a head cannot be accurately foretold. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, his party 16 votes short of a working majority in the 265-member House of Commons, evidently expects to extract support from the Social Credit Party, which won 30 seats. The question is how long support will be forthcoming.

Even students of Canada's governmental system are somewhat at sea. Mr. Diefenbaker headed a coalition government before, but that was when his party was gaining ground.

Mr. Diefenbaker has not hesitated to resort to extraordinary measures in an effort to stimulate business and relieve Canada's chronic unemployment. In the last five years the government's deficits have totaled $3 billion. If our government had followed similar policies, the figure for us would have been $42 billion. He has devalued the Canadian dollar, now worth less than 92 cents U. S. The results were not sufficient to avert the election debacle.

It is ironic, but the "Diefendollar" may have to be devalued further. Voters can demand that governments produce prosperity, but politicians, with the best will in the world, cannot always deliver.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Economy

President Kennedy cannot ignore the unseemly economy of the United States. It is true that prices in the Stock Exchange have been too high. To use a rule of thumb which a very successful financier has used, it is unwise to buy at the bottom of the market; it is unsound to sell at what looks like the top. Practically, when a stock sells for more than 15 or 20 times its earnings, its price is inflated by emotional factors, including public relations gimmicks.

But the stock market is not to be taken as a yardstick of the economy. It is a place, here as well as in other countries, where men gamble on probabilities and possibilities and the gamblers can upset all economic laws if they deal in large enough volume. Short selling should be prohibited by law, as a gambler's device.

The stock market does not cause a recession or a depression. Both are normal characteristics of adjustment in the economic system. Every device conceived in capitalistic or communist countries to avoid or avert "hills and valleys" has failed, because in certain periods, "good times," man tends to over-produce until a period of satiation sets in. These may be called "bad times."

It has been assumed by optimistic politicians and statisticians that as there are vast backward areas of the world, it ought to be possible by a pump-priming trick, "foreign aid," not only to achieve a political goal but to raise the standard of living of a people so swiftly that they would immediately consume the surpluses of the countries which are over-produced. This has not happened. Instead, those countries that stockpiled to maintain high prices and high wages are stuck with their stockpiles and, in 1962, the entire world is suffering from mild to severe economic disturbances. The United States could break the back of the economies of many nations and guarantee a universal depression of major dimensions by dumping its stockpile at bargain-counter prices.

This problem goes back to Joseph in Egypt, if my readers recall the story in the Bible. Joseph invented the stockpile as he did the ever-normal granary. He erected vast storages to hold the grain, so that in years of famine there would be food. The granaries became very costly and Egypt undertook enormous public works based on a slave system.

When the slaves revolted, Egypt's economy went to pieces. The leading country in the world at one moment in history, Egypt never recovered from this curious economic experimentation.

This technique has, since the end of World War II, been used throughout the world in the hope of maintaining a war-expanded economy. It has not worked.

Take the example of Canada. Viewing the history of the Canadian dollar from 1846 to today, it has generally stood in relationship to the U.S. dollar in the vicinity of 90. This was advantageous to Canada which is dependent upon British and U.S. capital for its development. After all, Canada is a country of 3,621,616 square miles with a population of 17,000,000. It could hold a population of 50,000,000 to 100,000,000. But it cannot swiftly develop capital to finance the provision of work without assistance of other countries and without creating conditions favorable to exports.

The history of Canada has been a history of the export of raw materials and the import of manufactured goods and capital. It paralleled the history of the United States. Actually the two countries were one economically, except that the United States, having a more favorable climate, attracted more immigrants. As a result, the United States developed more rapidly than Canada and some of Canada's population overflowed into the United States either as a working force or as permanent settlers. But American manufactured goods and capital flowed freely into Canada.

Up to Prohibition, this freedom of economic movement continued. Immense amounts of American capital flowed into Canada, which Canada could not consume by usual economic processes. Canada thus became an exporter of capital as well as an importer and the Canadian dollar moved out of line. Economic nationalism led to the cartel system; Canada swallowed more than it could chew.

That is true of so many other countries. Thus, a universal recession has set in, which, if not dealt with without regard to sentiment, can produce a universal depression.

Odds Favor Vigorous Action In Formosa Strait

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The President is keeping his own counsel about the threatened crisis in the Formosa Strait. But it is now clear that his highest advisors in the State and Defense Departments favor the most vigorous response, even including the use of American military power, to any Communist attack on the offshore islands.

After greatly strengthening their forces in the Formosa Strait coastal areas, the Chinese Communists have now made their first public comment on the threatened crisis. This long article, disseminated by the official news agency, contains nothing but a rather shrill warning against an attempted return to the mainland by Chiang Kai-shek.

Thus it reinforces the argument that the Communist troop movements have a defensive motive. No light whatever is cast, unhappily, on the much more important question, whether the Communist defense includes a spoiling attack on the exposed Nationalist positions on Quemoy Island, only five miles off the coast.

As this question is still entirely open, the practical factors of the new problem in the Formosa Strait deserve careful thought. The political factors can be briefly summarized.

On the one hand, the President voted in the Senate against inclusion of the offshore islands in the Formosa defense treaty, and questioned the military need to hold these islands during the campaign. On the other hand — and far more important — the general political situation in Asia is still exceedingly fragile. Passive U.S. toleration of a successful Communist aggression in the Formosa Strait will therefore spread dismay and demoralization in every friendly and uncommitted Asian nation.

The Asian repercussions will be exceedingly dangerous. But the feedback into the Berlin crisis will be even more dangerous, if anything. For an argument is plainly going on in Moscow about the degree of U. S. resolution to defend Berlin. If we are not ready to stand up and be counted on the offshore islands, where the situation is favorable to us, Russian leaders like Marshal Malinovsky will automatically infer that we cannot possibly be ready to stand up and be counted at Berlin, where the local situation is most unfavorable.

The military factors, when carefully studied, are seen to be more complex than the political factors. The situation in the Strait is favorable to us, but is by no means the same as in 1958, when the last Communist attack on Quemoy was successfully repulsed.

To begin with, a quite different kind of Communist attack has to be anticipated, if such an attack indeed develops. In 1958, Peking expected Quemoy to fall at the first trumpet blast, like the walls of Jericho. When this did not happen, an attempt was made to strangle Quemoy by feeble air action and an inefficient, ill-prepared artillery blockade. We cannot hope for that much luck again.

What must now be anticipated is far more grave. The best bet is a massive, intensive artillery and air preparation, followed by an attempted landing as soon as air supremacy allows the Communists to outflank the Quemoy defenses with air-dropped troops. The Nationalist defensive positions on Quemoy are much stronger now than in 1958; but this improvement will quickly prove unavailing if and when air supremacy passes to the Communists.

The air, in fact, appears to be the critical point, and there is a difficulty. In 1958, the Nationalists, flying F-86s, beat the living daylights out of the Communists, who flew somewhat superior MiG-17s. The sidewinder missiles, used at the very end of the fighting, contributed only marginally to the Nationalist air triumph. The real cause was the Nationalist pilots' superior proficiency and fighting spirit.

Judging by the interrogation of a recent Communist pilot-defector, the Communist Air Force is still very inadequately trained. It is now equipped, however, with MiG-19s. These are supersonic planes so widely superior to the Nationalists' sub-sonic F-86s that no reliance can any longer be placed on the Nationalists' pilot superiority. Using large numbers of MiG-19s, the Communists might in fact attain air supremacy rather early in the battle.

This means in turn that if the President wishes to stand up and be counted, he must at least be ready to use American air power to support the Nationalists if the need arises; and he must be ready to do so without a moment's delay. But unlike Korea, the situation in the Formosa Strait is such that we can be absolutely certain air and naval action will be enough to do the job.

Unlike all previous comparable crises, moreover, this one finds the U. S. military leaders satisfied with the men and weapons they have in hand. Adm. Harry D. Felt has already reported that his forces in the Pacific are sufficient to meet any emergency — an almost miraculous new departure. Quite probably, the Communists will be deterred by this very fact. We can only wait and see.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

AFTER LABOR DAY — Observers on Capitol Hill are revising earlier estimates and now consider it a near certainty that the present session of Congress will last for several months — at least until after Labor Day.

Early in the session — before the steel price crisis — Congress appeared to be moving along fairly well and the betting was that adjournment would come around Aug. 1. However, among the many results of that debacle has been a slowing down of the legislative process to the point where there is a big overhand of important measures still to be acted upon.

The slow-down was a bi-product of the changed economic and political climate that resulted from effort to roll back the steel price rise.

Loss of confidence by the investing public in the short-range future of the U. S. economy injected new considerations into such pending measures as the tax incentive bill, the foreign trade bill, medical care for the aged via social security, and a whole host of appropriation bills.

Because this is a congressional election year, there are many members of both Houses of Congress who want to get back home to campaign for re-election. But they dare not leave before they've resolved — or at least brought to a vote — some of the major measures still pending in Congress. Their political opponents would accuse them of shirking their duty in order to further their personal political careers.

So it's been generally decided that Congress will work on through the hot Washington summer to get votes on the important measures, whether or not they are approved.

Tourist Attraction

BERLIN

It has always struck me as monstrously ironic that while we are developing the world's most fiendishly sophisticated weapons—hydrogen bombs that could wipe out most of civilization in the wink of an eye, carried by missiles that travel 18,000 miles an hour — we are helping to fight a war in Vietnam that seems to be a throwback to the French and Indian wars out of villages fortified with roughly the amount of sophistication used in the fortification of villages in the Euphrates valley 7,500 years ago.

This same feeling of irony struck me hard when I got my first glimpse of the wall here. As walls go, it's not much of a wall — cinder blocks and bricks and wire, intensely improvised clear across the city. Your first thought is that it doesn't belong in modern times. Walled cities are out of date and the ancients walled a city much more prettily than this. It's an ugly wall.

There are wooden platforms on our side scattered here and there and you can look over at their side. Between the wall and the pill-boxes is no man's land, a little sea of barbed wire, and again you get the feeling that the scene is out of date, something out of World War I. The Vopos lounge around their pillboxes, their tommyguns slung over their shoulders. They're quite shy, and when they catch you looking at them they duck into their pillboxes, like prairie dogs into their holes.

My first thought: they're untidy soldiers. Hats on the backs of their heads, uniforms unpressed and, looking from a distance, unclean. Walter Ulbricht has monstrous crimes to answer for, but one of the lesser ones is that he has made the East Germans sloppy soldiers. Frederick the Great must be spinning in his grave.

The wall is a tourist attraction now. Very big business. Germans come from all over West Germany and Berliners come from all over this immense city. They travel on buses the length of the wall, stopping at its historic sites, where the guides tell them who jumped and whether they made it.

I strolled along Beranuer Strasse in the French sector because it is one of the dramatic parts of the wall where the buildings form part of it, their bricked-up windows mute cries of despair. Across the street, a little shop sells postcards of the more picturesque parts of the wall, Brandenburg Gate plaques and pennants with the Berlin bear on them. Also film for your camera. The Germans are even greater picture takers than we are.

Across the street a little horde of German boys in leather pants were snapping pictures of a memorial to a lady named Ida Siekmann who had leaped to her death there. The memorial was wooden posts strung with barbed wire and decked with flowers. In the shadow of the wall, small boys were playing Vopos, a very popular game with the little ones. The children challenge one another, ask for passports, occasionally play at breaking out and getting killed and all the other foolish games they have seen their silly elders play right across the street.

The last time I was here, the wall wasn't up and you simply showed your passport and drove into East Berlin. Now, there's a Checkpoint Charlie and the procedure is tedious. Bored East German soldiers, listening to rock 'n' roll on transistor radios, take your passports and disappear for a while. Other Vopos peer into the trunk of your car to be sure you're not carrying subversive literature into East Berlin. Sometimes they take a car apart, bolt by bolt, just to be ornery.

Two years ago the main drag was Stalinallee. But not any more. Now it's Karl Marx Allee. Sunday afternoon is the dreariest of times in any city anywhere in the world (Sunday is a country day) and I must say Karl Marx Allee doesn't seem any drearier than Wisconsin Avenue in Milwaukee on Sunday.

If anything the people seem better dressed than on my last visit and in their faces there was less of blank despair. Actually, with a deepening food crisis as part of a general economic crisis, the East Germans never had it so bad. But they didn't look as miserable as they had every right to, perhaps because it was a nice day.

Ben Lacy, the ABC correspondent here, and I sat in an outdoor cafe eating ice cream, which was pretty good, and drinking East German coffee, which is awful. What the East German face lacks, I decided, is purpose. The West German has a sort of self-satisfied phlegmatic solidity to him that I sometimes find irritating, but he has a sense of mission and he does everything purposefully. An East German — the way he walks or talks or eats — just looks aimless, as if he's waiting, waiting for God knows what.

The East German kids were playing stage coach on a real life old coach that, for some reason, was standing on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Stalin's showy apartment buildings. They played with the same zest that the West German kids played Vopos, whipping imaginary horses and shooting imaginary Indians with great glee.

Driving back, we stopped for a moment and looked at the wall from the other side, looking out at West Berlin. There were hordes of East German tourists getting out of their buses and staring over the wall. It's just as big a tourist attraction on that side as on ours. The guides were explaining that the wall had gone up to protect East Germany from "the encroachment of capitalists," to protect the German People's Republic from us, that is.

Study Proves Rabies Transmitted Via Air

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several years ago I was asked whether a person could get rabies from inhaling contaminated dust or through personal contact with this material. My answer was no, because I never had heard of anyone who developed the disease in such circumstances.

Now comes Dr. Denny G. Constantine of New Mexico with a story about two men who entered Frio cave near Uvalde, Tex., and died later of confirmed rabies. These chaps were reliable observers; they were certain of not having been bitten by bats or other mammals.

The cavern contained millions of bats and it was concluded that some were rabid and passed along the disease in a nonbite method, at least under the atmospheric conditions of a large cave. But Dr. Constantine, a veterinarian, was not satisfied with the explanation. He placed a group of dogs, cats, and a variety of wild canivorous animals into separate cages and put them in a bat-occupied room within Frio cave for periods of 7 to 30 days.

The cages were 3 feet above the floor, where the animals were exposed mainly to the cave environment. Seven days later the first animals were removed and 4 of 13 subsequently died of rabies.

A second and a third test was done because of the possibility that some of the smaller bats or the bugs may have bitten the animals through the cage mesh. Steel or plastic mesh and mosquito netting were used to protect against direct contact with living creatures. Some animals also were placed in tight enclosures from which the cave atmosphere was excluded.

At any rate, 22 animals developed rabies — 10 coyotes and 12 foxes. This convinced Dr. Constantine that rabies can be transmitted via the air. In all probability, the victim must remain in close and constant contact with infected animals to develop the disease in this way.

IRREGULARITIES DIFFER

N. V. writes: Are hormones needed for irregular menses?

REPLY

There are varied causes of this condition. Hormones are used in some but not in others. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on menstrual irregularities.

STOPPING NOSEBLEED

N. R. writes: How do you stop a nosebleed?

REPLY

The bleeder should sit up, if he is not too weak. Apply cold wet towels over the face, nose, and back of the head and neck. Pinch the nostrils together. Encourage the individual not to talk, cough, blow his nose, or walk about. He should breathe through the mouth. Severe or prolonged nose-bleed calls for a physician's care.

YELLOW VEGETABLES

Mrs. L. writes: Could an 8 month baby turn yellow from eating yellow vegetables?

REPLY

MILK SUBSTITUES

Mrs. X. writes: I have been advised to drink milk but hate it. What can I take as a substitute?

REPLY

Forget milk if you hate it. A well balanced diet contains the same nutrients as milk and many prepared foods contain milk. If you want to play it safe, take a multiple vitamin-mineral capsule every day.

GELATINE IS A PROTEIN

H.B. writes: Is there any cholesterol in gelatine?

REPLY

No, but there is in gelatine desserts when topped with whipped cream.

TOMORROW: Peridontal disease.

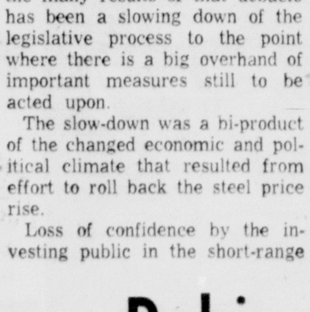
To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A noted pyschiatrist was mildly surprised to see a fox sitting in his waiting room, listlessly thumbing through a copy of Aesop's Fables. "What," inquired the psychiatrist a bit nervously, "can I do for you?"

"Doctor," barked the fox, "you've got to help me. I'm not crazy like I'm supposed to be."



A man from Texas, visiting in Alaska, was the butt of considerable humor about the fact that Texas was now only the second largest state in the Union. "True, true," conceded the Texan, "but wouldn't you half-frozen galoots up here like to have some of our herds of cattle? Everywhere you look in Texas, you see the finest, healthiest, most expensive cattle ever bred."

"Okay," joshed an Alaskan. "You've got a few head of mangey cattle. But you've got nothing like our majestic, towering, snow-clad mountains down there."

"Not now," shot back the Texan, "but we did have, son. We had 'em before our cattle trampled 'em down!"

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Washington, D. C.

Dear Friends:

"LET'S RETREAT!" SAYS PRESIDENT'S ADVISER — A Presidential adviser on Foreign Policy, Professor W. W. Rostow, has recommended that the United States retreat all along the line in the Cold War. Rostow is Deputy Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs. His master plan for bowing to the Reds is contained in a 286-page State Department document, entitled "Basic National Security Policy." Despite repeated unanimous votes in Congress expressing the will of the American people against recognition of the Red regime in China, Mr. Rostow's master plan for Foreign Policy calls for recognition of the Red Chinese and for our withdrawing opposition to their membership in the United Nations, arguing that the only practical solution is to admit the Red regime in China as "China." With further disregard for the wishes of the people, as repeatedly expressed, the Presidential adviser plans that—

(1) We pressure the Chinese Nationalist government to withdraw from the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, leaving them to the Reds;

(2) We recognize the Chinese Nationalists only as "Formosa;"

(3) We give official recognition to Red East Germany as a nation;

(4) We pull back armed opposition to Communist aggression along the Iron Curtain;

(5) We attempt only to restore the status quo in cases where shooting actually does break out.

(6) We rule out any U. S. military action against the Soviet Union or Communist China unless those nations first launch a nuclear attack against us.

There are other surrender proposals in the policy draft, but these are the major points. The plan calls for our adopting a completely defensive, containment policy and accepting the theory that the one ultimate U. S. objective is peace.

LEGISLATION REPORT: HOLDING CLOSE REIN—Of the 24 proposals to Congress listed by the Administration as of top importance, 1 has passed, 2 have been rejected outright, and 21 have not been finally acted upon. This is not necessarily a bad record. Rather, it could be a good record, for it could mean that Congress is holding a close rein on a power-hungry, spendthrift Administration, that Congress is making a sincere effort to keep within bounds the proposals for spending and for increased Executive power. Some of the 21 will be passed, but perhaps the fewer the better.

WATER TUNNEL UNDER THE ROCKIES!—As a means of putting more land into production, the House of Representatives has passed an Administration-sponsored bill providing for the drilling of a water tunnel under the Rocky Mountains. The measure is now before the Senate. The $170,000,000 scheme would send water from the west side of the Rockies in Colorado to potential farmland on the east side.

At the same time, the Agriculture Department continues to pay out other hundreds of millions of your tax dollars to take land out of production! And the Administration is trying to expand this subsidy system!

Urban Mass Transportation — The Housing Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, of which I am a member, last week approved for full committee consideration the Urban Mass Transportation Bill. We had held hearings on this and other bills relating to the growing problem of urban transportation.

Foreign Aid News Items — Seven tidbits of news last week form a significant commentary on our Foreign Aid program:

(1) From Athens comes the report that the Government of Greece appealed to farmers to limit wheat-growing because it deprived Greece of substantial United States aid in agricultural surpluses.

(2) From Colombo, Ceylon, comes the announcement that additional properties of the Esso, Shell and Caltex oil companies there had been seized by the government.

(3) In Seoul, Korea, the U. S. Army ordered American military personnel restricted to base because of anti-American demonstrations spreading in South Korea.

(4) In Brussels, Belgium, retaliatory tariff rises against the United States were approved because of American increases in carpet and glass tariffs.

(5) Congolese cabinet members have decided to pay themselves $3,000 per month salary—out of American aid money.

(6) Senator Kenneth Keating of New York charged that during the past 7 years, and without the American people's knowledge, we have made at least 33 shipments of strategic goods to Communist nations.

(7) The Majority Leader, Senator Mike Mansfield (Democrat) of Montana, said in a speech that, after 8 years of economic and military assistance to Laos, that country is in far more danger of collapse into Communism than it was when our aid program started, and furthermore, the nations in Asia which have received relatively little U. S. aid are among the most stable nations.

"Planned Economy"? Who Planned It? — Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist Party in the United States for many years, once said:

"The American people will never knowingly vote for socialism, but, under the guise of liberalism, they will adopt TVA, social security, Federal aid to education, public housing, and compulsory health insurance. They will adopt every fragment of the socialist platform until one day America will be socialist without knowing it came about."

Red Flag To Fly Here, Says Khrushchev — In addressing an audience of Romanian railway workers last week, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev uttered these words: "I am convinced that tomorrow the red flag will fly over the United States. But we will not fly the flag. It will be the American people themselves."

This pronouncement makes all the more significant the recent attack on the ideas of Thomas Jefferson by Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Harvard professor and speechwriter for President Kennedy. Professor Schlesinger said, "Jefferson is today remote and irrelevant, a figure not of present concern but of historical curiosity." He spoke with scorn of such Jeffersonian beliefs as "that government is best which governs least".

It was Jefferson who drafted the Declaration of Independence, that stately chant of human freedom. America made its great strides of progress, from the least of nations to the greatest, while it remained unwaveringly faithful to the ideas of Jefferson, the central theme of which is that government is the servant of the people, not their master. After the glorious history of progress under the principle of personal freedom, will the American people submit to "social control" and regimentation, I think not.

Our immediate concern is over the fact that people who think like these "social control" professors are advising our President.

A Great Man's Patriotism — General Douglas MacArthur, in addressing the West Point cadets last month, phrased the litany of "duty, honor, country" so that the whole country might hear. He said: "Those three hallowed words (duty, honor, country) reverently dictate what you want to be, what you can be, what you will be . . . The unbelievers will says they are but words, but a slogan, but a flamboyant phrase. Every pedant, every demagogue, every cynic, every hypocrite, every troublemaker, and, I am sorry to say, some others of an entirely different character, will try to downgrade them to the extent of mockery and ridicule."

Bans Seven Drugs

ROME (UPI)—The Italian government has banned the production and sale of seven brands of tranquilizers it considers dangerous, it was learned Wednesday.

The tranquilizers all contained thalidomide. Several medical researchers have linked cases of malformed babies with the use of thalidomide by expectant mothers.

Lightning And Thunder Are Explained

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Electrical storms, more rampant in spring and summer, bring with them the terrifying twins — lightning and thunder. Some children view thunder as noise made at housecleaning time in heaven. Lightning has been described to children as excess starlight that races earthward because i thas no other place to go. The following dispatch about electrical storms will help you to better explain the terrifying twins to children and also contains safety tips that can save your life in a storm.)

By FRANCIS X. BRENNAN

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cavemen cowered at the stroke of lightning. Greek and Roman mythology speak of lightning and the gods.

Even today, in some parts of the world, lightning is believed to be the punishment of humans for incurring the wrath of God.

But lightning can be explained. It was first identified as electricity in 1752 when Benjamin Franklin flew his famous kite in a thunderstorm.

During intervening years the development of precision machinery made it possible to measure the properties of lightning.

The Lightning Protection Institue (LPI) describes lightning as a "gigantic electrical spark containing tens to hundreds of million volts and sometimes terrific amperage — from 1,000 to 340,000 amperes."

Lightning comes in hot and cold forms. The latter, a high voltage phenomenon with low amperage, strikes and dissipates at a speed of one-ten-thousandth of a second. It seldom causes fire. But the tons of pressure resulting from its expanding gas could explode parts of buildings.

Hot lightning, the fire-setting type, has a high current and is of long duration. It's core churns with temperatures ranging up to several thousand degrees.

Lightning is due to an overpowering attraction of opposite electrical charges in the ground or the storm clouds.

A lightning bolt is composed of about 20 separate charges, all delivered in a fraction of a second.

The air about a bolt is heated and fired intensely by lightning's incredible speed. The flash of light actually is the path of burning air through which the bolt passes.

The intenseness of this fiery fury ionizes and explodes air molecules, making tremendous noise — thunder.

Lightning's favorite targets usually are tall or in isolated areas. The Empire State Building has been hit as often as 48 times a year.

Among the safest places to be during an electrical storm are buildings protected with lightning rods and grounds: steel-framed buildings, a closed auto, or a ravine, ditch or cave.

The most dangerous places include golf courses, hilltops, proximity to wire fences or overhead wires, towers or trees, on a boat or swimming, or riding a bicycle, tractor or machinery.

The LPI said, the average antenna doesn't offer protection because "it is neither grounded with a sufficient-sized conductor nor does it provide enough paths to earth to function as an efficient lightning rod."

An arrester on a television antenna is not protection, the LPI added, because the aerial must be grounded at least 10 feet below the earth's surface.

The Institute estimates that 100 bolts of lightning bombard the world per second. That's an estimated 360,000 bolts flashing earthward each hour.

However feared, lightning has its virtues. It creates a fallout of nitrogen oxide. This, in turn, produces fixed nitrogen.

Without the latter, crops, gardens or even grass could not grow.

TOTATO PATCH—Kneeling in his garden in Springfield, Ill., Francis Lanham holds a little tomato (arrow) and a potato growing on a confused potato plant that is bearing potatoes underground and tomatoes on its top. He has a row of tomato plants next to his row of potatoes.

Ward Planning New Md. Outlets

BALTIMORE (AP) — Montgomery Ward, switching its eastern regional headquarters from New York to Baltimore, said Wednesday it also plans to open new outlets in Maryland.

Edward S. Donnell, newly elected vice president and regional manager of the store and mail order house, outlined the plans for expansion at a news conference.

Donnell said new stores will open soon at Glen Burnie and Villa Heights. The company recently opened a retail center near Towson.

Activities of Montgomery Ward for 19 eastern states will be handled from Baltimore when the transfer from New York is completed by September. Other main offices are in Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles.

Donnell said transfer of the headquarters to Baltimore would add about $1 million to the company payroll in Baltimore.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 136 In former days, there was no such thing as being too old or too young to serve your country. It needed you and you went regardless of your years, if you could—and if you were not the type to be an evader. The future President Grover Cleveland was. He, a 24-year-old, able-bodied lawyer in Buffalo, N. Y., when called to serve in the Union Army, took advantage of a legal loophole to hire a substitute, and paid an honorably discharged sailor to go to war for him. In contrast, Johnny Clem ran away from Newark, Ohio, at nine to be a drummer boy and was a sergeant at 12.

Primarily it was a young man's war. More than two million of the 2,700,000 who volunteered or were drafted into the federal forces were 21 or under. About 800,000 were 17 or under. Galusha Pennypacker of Pennsylvania, born June 1, 1844, was a brigadier general at 17. (The Rebels' youngest general was William P. Roberts of North Carolina, 20.)

On the other hand, an estimated 50,000 of Union men in the ranks were 44 or over. As the war went on, there were men of 60 and 70 in the service. Some had served in the Second War of Independence 50 years earlier, when the country was invaded by British and Canadian forces. Many had been volunteers, too, in the quite necessary war in 1846-47 after the United States' efforts to preserve peace with Mexico proved futile. However, none was so old as Henry Francisco, who joined George Washington's army when over 90 to fight for our independence.

Budd Gets Contract

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Budd Co. has been awarded a $9 million contract ot supply 38 commuter cars to Philadelphia's Passenger Service Improvement Corp., a non-profit corporation which manages the city's commuter railroad support program, it was announced. The cars will be leased to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Makes Survival Food

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Biscuit Co. has won a $4,800,000 contract to produce survival crackers to be used in the civil defense program, the largest of three such contracts received by the company this year. The total value of the contracts is $6,300,000.

Czarist Russia emancipated its serfs in 1863.

Berlin Flights Go On

FRANKFURT (UPI)—Thomas Rodenbauch, director for Germany of the Pan American World Airways, said Wednesday his company plans to continue its 64 flights daily to and from Berlin regardless of the flight engineers' strike.

Working Housewives Get Several Hints On Cooking

NEW YORK (UPI) — A switchboard operator in one office calls 4 p.m. "potato time." That's when working mothers call home to tell their teen-agers to put potatoes on for supper.

It is also the hour when wives start calling husbands to ask if they'll be home on time. As the afternoon wanes, the evening meal also gets top priority from single women who work, reports "Today's Secretary," a magazine for the "Girls Friday" nationwide.

"Shifting from electric typewriter to electric range is easier if you do it gently," said a wife whose family gets home late. She's obviously not a calorie-counter, as she stops for a coffee and toast break on the way home to tide her over while she cooks dinner.

Another secretary, whose family gets home early, serves them milk, soup or juice in mugs while they wait for her to fix the evening meal .

This technique can be an excellent method of weight control. The late Dr. Norman Jolliffe, a nutrition expert, once told me that a low-calorie first course eaten 30 minutes before mealtime reduces appetite pangs so that you aren't tempted to overeat.

The bugaboos for most after five cooks include choosing foods and finding time to prepare them, wrote Miss French.

Some working wives become Sunday cooks, preparing a big roast or baked ham on Sunday. They use the leftovers the remainder of the week, in hot and cold sandwiches, with noodles in a sauce, or as stew or chop suey.

An Italian secretary said she triples her spaghetti sauce recipe, uses one-third immediately and freezes the remainder in two containers for future meals.

Other suggestions from working wives included the following:

Let children set the table in advance, after school, or set it in the morning and cover it. Enlist older children to prepare salads, peel potatoes and make pudding or gelatin desserts.

Arrange equipment so that cooking utensils are near the stove, frequently used appliances, on counters near electric outlets, and dishes and glassware, in cupboards nearest the table.

One secretary — obviously, the "try anything" type — said she dries dishes with her hair dryer. To which our office wit wisecracked:

Working Housewives Get Several Hints On Cooking

NEW YORK (UPI) — A switchboard operator in one office calls 4 p.m. "potato time." That's when working mothers call home to tell their teen-agers to put potatoes on for supper.

It is also the hour when wives start calling husbands to ask if they'll be home on time. As the afternoon wanes, the evening meal also gets top priority from single women who work, reports "Today's Secretary," a magazine for the "Girls Friday" nationwide.

"Shifting from electric typewriter to electric range is easier if you do it gently," said a wife whose family gets home late. She's obviously not a calorie-counter, as she stops for a coffee and toast break on the way home to tide her over while she cooks dinner.

Another secretary, whose family gets home early, serves them milk, soup or juice in mugs while they wait for her to fix the evening meal .

This technique can be an excellent method of weight control. The late Dr. Norman Jolliffe, a nutrition expert, once told me that a low-calorie first course eaten 30 minutes before mealtime reduces appetite pangs so that you aren't tempted to overeat.

The bugaboos for most after five cooks include choosing foods and finding time to prepare them, wrote Miss French.

Some working wives become Sunday cooks, preparing a big roast or baked ham on Sunday. They use the leftovers the remainder of the week, in hot and cold sandwiches, with noodles in a sauce, or as stew or chop suey.

An Italian secretary said she triples her spaghetti sauce recipe, uses one-third immediately and freezes the remainder in two containers for future meals.

Other suggestions from working wives included the following:

Let children set the table in advance, after school, or set it in the morning and cover it. Enlist older children to prepare salads, peel potatoes and make pudding or gelatin desserts.

Arrange equipment so that cooking utensils are near the stove, frequently used appliances, on counters near electric outlets, and dishes and glassware, in cupboards nearest the table.

One secretary — obviously, the "try anything" type — said she dries dishes with her hair dryer. To which our office wit wisecracked:

Jazz Festival At Newport, Hurt By Riot In 1960, To Open Again Next Week

By GARY P. GATES

NEW YORK (UPI) — The riot of 1960 shattered the Newport Jazz Festival's glowing reputation as one of the nation's finest cultural attractions.

For seven years Newport had been heralded as the summer capital of jazz. What began as a rash experiment in 1954 had developed into a tradition and, with the arrival of another July, the word went out to jazz buffs across the nation: the big scene is at Newport.

Then the 1960 riot erupted and it was generally agreed that jazz at Newport was dead.

But now the Festival is once again in a "go" condition. Jazz artists and their enthusiasts will flock to Newport where for three successive nights, July 6, 7 and 8, summer air will be pierced by improvised sounds, both hot and cool.

The man chiefly behind the revival is impresario George Wein. Wein cooked up the oringinal idea for the Newport Jazz Festival and remained its producer and director during its seven years of fame and fortune.

"I think the riot has taught us all a great deal," said Wein recently in his New York office.

"And now that time has healed most of the old wounds, I'm convinced we can make the Newport Festival even better than it was in the 50's."

Some of the post-riot indignation was directed at the jazzmen who were accused of playing the kind of music calculated to incite youthful violence.

Such comments embittered musicians and many prominent jazz artists vowed they would never return.

Wein was caught in the middle of this cold war between certain segments of the public and the musicians.

"It was a demoralizing situation," he recalled, "but I think most of that ill-feeling has disappeared. Assuming, of course, there's no trouble this year and I don't think there will be.

"For one thing, the Newport people have promised to give us tremendous police protection. And I've always said that one of the reasons why everything got out of hand in 1960 was because of inadequate police protection."

A festival called "Music at Newport" was staged last summer by a promotional group which had no association with the Newport Jazz Festival. While jazz musicians, as well as singers in the more popular vein, performed, there was an attempt by the promoters to shy away from any direct connection with jazz.

This was partly in deference to the post-riot clamor of the previous summer. There was no trouble but the show was a financial flop and the group decided not to try another festival this year.

"I have nothing but respect for the efforts of the 'Music at Newport' group," Wein said. "They took a big chance by putting on any kind of festival so soon after the riot. But I think their big mistake was trying to make the festival so general in its appeal.

More Men Are Entering Nursing Profession

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next time you're in a hospital, don't be surprised if a man in white shows up when you buzz for a nurse.

A woman who just completed a book about nurses reports that there are from 5,000 to 6,000 male nurses nationwide.

The number grows by about 300 each year as newly certified male nurses are graduated from schools once open only to girls.

Author Dorothy Ducas reports that a third of the nursing schools now accept male students. Her book is for young people considering a career in nursing.

In "Modern Nursing" (Walck, Inc.), Miss Ducas noted that more young men don't consider nursing because most don't realize there is a place for them in it.

"No areas of nursing are barred to men," she said. "But they are especially needed for care of men patients in hospitals, psychiatric nursing, rehabilitation . . . and hospital administration."

Miss Ducas, former reporter and once public relations director for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is a special consultant to the Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service, and an instructor at New York University.

She said the first organized nurses known to history were the brothers of the military order of Knights Hospitallers of St. John in the eleventh century.

"A young man contemplating as a career should not regard it as a substitute for medicine, taking less time in preparation," she said. "Men go into nursing for its own sake, just as women do."

In "Modern Nursing," Miss Ducas describes the "new look" in nursing — for young ladies as well as young men. She also discusses specialties in nursing and takes the reader — one considering nursing — behind the scenes in nursing education.

"Nursing," she said, "isn't a high-pay profession yet — but it has advanced from the days when a nurse did a lot of housework chores along with the duties requiring her specialized training."

"The nurse nowadays is almost a junior executive," she said. "There are helpers to make the registered nurse more efficient in many hospitals."

Ground Broken For Telephone Exhibit At Fair

The building will be in the form of a floating wing, 400 feet long, 24 feet above the ground and supported at four points. It will occupy a 105,000 square foot site on the Pool of Industry in the main axis of the fair opposite the Unisphere, a steel globe which is the main theme structure.

Visitors to the building will be seated in moving chairs which will take them through a series of theatres in which the story of communications will be dramatized. They will hear a narrator speaking through binaural speakers set in the wings of the chairs.

Clifton W. Phalen, New York Telephone Company president, said his company has begun a construction and expansion program to make sure the best possible communications will be ready when the fair opens. The New York company will operate the exhibit.

In addition to the theatres, the building will contain a large hall with exhibits of communications from man's first primitive efforts to the latest advances in space. Near by there will be a shaded area where visitors may rest. It is estimated that 23 million people will visit the exhibit. space. Nearby there will be a 130-foot microwave tower, which will be used to transmit radio and television broadcasts from the air. The control room will be visible to the public.

Gas Company Buys Tract In Long Deed

An unusual deed in six parts by which Columbia Gas of Maryland, Inc., acquired property in Lonaconing for a new building there, was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Columbia Gas acquired the property at the intersection of Union Street and the new Pleasant Street in Lonaconing from some 58 heirs of Conrad Hohing Sr. Pleasant Street was created when the land for the street was deeded to the Mayor and Council of Lonaconing by the Western Maryland Railway Company last October 21.

The Hohing heirs live in seven states — West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Rhode Island and North Carolina and one man and his wife are overseas with the armed forces. The purchase price of the property was about $8,500.

Work Begun To Make Houston 'Moon City'

Scores of scientists, engineers and executives have moved to this warm and humid metropolis near the Gulf Coast to convert it into "Moon City, U.S.A." They will plan and develop the program to send manned spacecraft to earth's natural satellite.

On a 1,720-acre pasture on the shores of Clear Lake, 22 miles from downtown Houston, machines are tearing up the earth for the manned spacecraft center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Here, step by step, the lunar program will be built, starting with two-man space flights, a rendezvous in space between two earth satellites, and finally, the manned moon flight. It will be a $90 million project before it even gets off the ground. Only the planning and development will be done here. The actual launchings will be elsewhere.

Houston, with a population of close to one million, already was the capital of the vast petrochemical business when NASA blessed it with the space program.

It has a year-round, ice-free, 50-mile ship channel to the Gulf of Mexico. It has a large airport. It has a huge labor market. It has in and around it three universities as sources of brainpower.

Power is cheap and water is plentiful.

Houston has a habit of success. It grew from a muddy little town founded in 1836 into an industrial giant. It's the third biggest port in the nation, thanks to the ship channel.

More than 900 men and women already are at work planning the moon laboratory complex.

Robert Gilruth, who masterminded the first orbital flight of an American, is in Houston. So is Charles Frick, an electronics expert who will head the Project Apollo moon shoot program.

With the scientists come the businessmen. North American Aviation has set up offices, as has McDonnell Aircraft Corp. The Radio Corp. of America, Raytheon and the Siegler Corporation of Los Angeles are planning installations.

NASA personnel director Stuart H. Clarke estimates the project will create more than 3,000 jobs and add $13 million to local payrolls. It also will put another 3,300 or so children in Houston schools.

A 30,000 acre ranch near the laboratory site has been bought for a $500 million industrial-residential development. Planners estimate it will become a community of 150,000 persons.

Forty-five architects are working day and night on designs for 24-buildings space complex. Eventually, it will look like a college campus.

More Men Are Entering Nursing Profession

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next time you're in a hospital, don't be surprised if a man in white shows up when you buzz for a nurse.

A woman who just completed a book about nurses reports that there are from 5,000 to 6,000 male nurses nationwide.

The number grows by about 300 each year as newly certified male nurses are graduated from schools once open only to girls.

Author Dorothy Ducas reports that a third of the nursing schools now accept male students. Her book is for young people considering a career in nursing.

In "Modern Nursing" (Walck, Inc.), Miss Ducas noted that more young men don't consider nursing because most don't realize there is a place for them in it.

"No areas of nursing are barred to men," she said. "But they are especially needed for care of men patients in hospitals, psychiatric nursing, rehabilitation . . . and hospital administration."

Miss Ducas, former reporter and once public relations director for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is a special consultant to the Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service, and an instructor at New York University.

She said the first organized nurses known to history were the brothers of the military order of Knights Hospitallers of St. John in the eleventh century.

"A young man contemplating as a career should not regard it as a substitute for medicine, taking less time in preparation," she said. "Men go into nursing for its own sake, just as women do."

In "Modern Nursing," Miss Ducas describes the "new look" in nursing — for young ladies as well as young men. She also discusses specialties in nursing and takes the reader — one considering nursing — behind the scenes in nursing education.

"Nursing," she said, "isn't a high-pay profession yet — but it has advanced from the days when a nurse did a lot of housework chores along with the duties requiring her specialized training."

"The nurse nowadays is almost a junior executive," she said. "There are helpers to make the registered nurse more efficient in many hospitals."

The building will be in the form of a floating wing, 400 feet long, 24 feet above the ground and supported at four points. It will occupy a 105,000 square foot site on the Pool of Industry in the main axis of the fair opposite the Unisphere, a steel globe which is the main theme structure.

Visitors to the building will be seated in moving chairs which will take them through a series of theatres in which the story of communications will be dramatized. They will hear a narrator speaking through binaural speakers set in the wings of the chairs.

Space Program Has Become Part Of California's Economy

By JOSEPH A. ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The countdown goes on almost continuously in California. . .5-4-3-2-1-liftoff. . .it's part of the race into space.

It's part of the nation's defese effort and it's also become part of California's economy. More than three million persons in the state depend on missile and space operations for their livelihood.

In terms of dollars, space and missiles work in California runs over $5 billion a year plus fringe benefits to the economy.

The Air Force Systems Command near Los Angeles International Airport administered this fiscal year some $4 billion in contracts or about 10 per cent of the total national defense budget.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) accounted for another $1.5 billion in contracts.

North American Aviation at Downey is working on a $400 million contract to produce the three-man Apollo spacecraft which will be designed to land U.S. astronauts on the moon by 1970.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory, operated for NASA by the California Institute of Technology, is a $35 million facility employing more than 3,000 persons.

JPL has No. 1 responsibility for directing NASA's programs for for the unmanned exploration of the moon and the planets. The lunar probes are named Ranger and Surveyor.

Vandenberg Air Force Base has played a large part in the satellite program as a launch facility and a prime base for training both U.S. and British missilemen.

Vandenberg, 65,000 acres of rolling coastal land, was carved out of Camp Cooke, a deactivated army base. The first successful shot from Vandenberg, a Thor, was made Dec. 16, 1958. The first satellite, Discoverer I, was sent into orbit Feb. 28, 1959.

Since that time at least 37 more Discoverers have been launched. Twenty-five Discoverers went into orbit and 11 instrument capsules from these satellites have been recovered in an area of ocean known as "the ballpark" off Hawaii.

The Air Force instituted a new policy of secrecy concerning missile launchings in February of this year and now no details of the missile-firings at Vandenberg are given out.

Strategic Air Command crews for the Minuteman, Atlas and Titan II receive their training at Vandenberg and then are assigned to other bases.

Expenditures for construction at Vandenberg have gone well past the $200 million mark and the Air Force estimates that the missile base is responsible for spending about $4.5 billion a month locally. The base employs about 15,000 civilian and military personnel.

Point Mugu is headquarters for the Pacific Missile Range and was established at the end of World War II as a Navy base for pilotless aircraft. In 1958, it took in Point Arguello to the north and the southerly 20,000 acres of old Camp Cooke.

Edwards Air Force Base with its 301,209 acres is the biggest California space and missiles installation. It is at Edwards where the drama of man vs. space is the most sensitively portrayed because of the human factor: the high element of personal hazard for pilots who fly the X15 rocket ship at six times the speed of sound.

The base was once called Muroc Field but the name was changed to honor Capt. Glen W. Edwards, a test pilot from Lincoln, Calif., who died June 5, 1948 in the crash of an experimental YB49 Flying Wing.

At Edwards, the first American plane was flown faster than the speed of sound—760 mph at sea level. That was the X1 piloted by Capt. Charles E. Yeager on Cot. 14, 1947.

All these early planes ranging from the X1 through X13, a vertical takeoff aircraft, gave way to the rocket-powered X15.

On Sept. 17, 1959, test pilot Scott Crossfield flew the X15 to an altitude of 50,000 and over Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound).

Altitude and speed records for manned airplanes were broken almost as fast as they were made by X15 pilots, including Maj. Robert White and Joseph Walker. White flew the X15 at a top speed of 4,093 miles an hour, more than six times the speed of sound.

Walker soared in the rocket plane to an altitude of 225,000 feet —48½ miles—to the edge of space and returned safely. It eventually may go to an altitude of 100 miles.

Uncle Sam Gets Money He Doesn't Even Ask For

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Every year Uncle Sam gets some money he never asked for — or deducted. The gifts from Americans who want to show appreciation to their country or concern for its welfare are described in the following dispatch. Other free-will offerings sent to "Uncle" to ease a sense of guilt stemming from some financial sin have led to the creation of a "consance fund" in the Treasury Department.)

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most hardened cynic would take a new view of patriotism and conscience if he could read the letters in the Treasury's "gift" and "conscience fund" files.

With the letters — from the semi-literate, eggheads and persons in high public office — come cash!

Every year hundreds, sometimes thousands, of Americans send Uncle Sam money, either in appreciation of their country, out of concern for its welfare, or to ease a nagging sense of guilt.

"I think I owe you this," a Maryland man wrote on a piece of brown paper torn from a paper bag. He enclosed $120.

Some of the gifts are the sarcastic type.

"Please accept this small token to apply on the national debt," wrote a Palm Springs, Calif. citizen who enclosed a half-cent postage stamp. He went on to express fear that the national debt "will take its place alongside the Tower of Babylon — confusion — mentioned in the Bible." (He meant the Tower of Babel.)

More recently, it was reported that the late William Berns, a New York City jeweler and the son of an immigrant, had willed Uncle Sam $250,000 — "in appreciation of the freedom and liberty afforded in this country to all citizens, irrespective of race, color, or creed."

From Oklahoma, the Treasury received one dollar from a man who said he had "very unwillingly" received "a small amount of government owned material that had been 'appropriated' by another citizen."

Money from people who say they owe it for taxes evaded or objects stolen is deposited in a "conscience fund." Outright gifts go into the "gift fund."

Contributions earmarked for reduction of the national debt go in to a special fund set up in 1961 for just that purpose.

Gifts and contributions to reduce the national debt are deductible, the Internal Revenue Service reports.

Money in the conscience and gift funds end up in the Treasury's general fund, for payment of the government's expenses. Until Congress passed special legislation last year, authorizing the debt reduction fund, contributions for this purpose also went into the general fund if the donor approved.

The debt reduction fund was established on June 27, 1961. Contributions through February totaled $5,249.99. The debt is close to $300 billion.

Since 1862, contributions to the gift fund have aggregated $36 million, including $211,221.43 in 1961. The conscience fund dates back to 1811, and has received $2.7 million, including $61,701.97 last year.

Some citizens want to make contributions for specific purposes. Many can be accepted, such as for defense. A Champaign, Ill. woman asked if she could send money to help the U.S. Information Agency tell other countries about American principles. (She could, she was told.)

Some years ago, a New York woman sent former President Truman a Christmas card and $150 cash. On a small piece of blue paper she wrote: "With sincere thanks for help in life saving. Mrs. ——."

Officials believe she was a foreigner who had received asylum in this country. The $150 went into the gift fund.

A Dayton, Ohio man sent in a small diamond as backing for a new style paper currency he advocated. The gem was returned.

An American in Bonn, Germany sent the government $100 to help fight the Korean war. A Minnesota resident contributed $10, saying "this is my way of expressing gratitude for being an American."

Especially inspiring was the 10-year-old Hawaiian lad who asked if he could give $20 "to help the United States of America." A gently worded reply praised him for his patriotism, said he could send the $20 but suggested he buy savings stamps every week.

Most of the conscience fund contributors want to ease their minds and make sure their accounts in Washington and Heaven are in good order.

Some of their communications, however, baffle the government — such as the envelope postmarked Paducah, Ky. It contained $110 and an advertisement for men's pajamas torn out of a Sears-Roebuck catalogue.

Koreans Freed

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — Ten of the 41 persons jailed last month for allegedly plotting to overthrow the ruling military junta have been released, it was announced Monday night. The announcement said the action was ordered "to wipe out the impression that unnecessary reprisals are being taken against former politicians."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The countdown goes on almost continuously in California. . .5-4-3-2-1-liftoff. . .it's part of the race into space.

It's part of the nation's defese effort and it's also become part of California's economy. More than three million persons in the state depend on missile and space operations for their livelihood.

In terms of dollars, space and missiles work in California runs over $5 billion a year plus fringe benefits to the economy.

The Air Force Systems Command near Los Angeles International Airport administered this fiscal year some $4 billion in contracts or about 10 per cent of the total national defense budget.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) accounted for another $1.5 billion in contracts.

North American Aviation at Downey is working on a $400 million contract to produce the three-man Apollo spacecraft which will be designed to land U.S. astronauts on the moon by 1970.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory, operated for NASA by the California Institute of Technology, is a $35 million facility employing more than 3,000 persons.

JPL has No. 1 responsibility for directing NASA's programs for for the unmanned exploration of the moon and the planets. The lunar probes are named Ranger and Surveyor.

Vandenberg Air Force Base has played a large part in the satellite program as a launch facility and a prime base for training both U.S. and British missilemen.

Vandenberg, 65,000 acres of rolling coastal land, was carved out of Camp Cooke, a deactivated army base. The first successful shot from Vandenberg, a Thor, was made Dec. 16, 1958. The first satellite, Discoverer I, was sent into orbit Feb. 28, 1959.

Since that time at least 37 more Discoverers have been launched. Twenty-five Discoverers went into orbit and 11 instrument capsules from these satellites have been recovered in an area of ocean known as "the ballpark" off Hawaii.

The Air Force instituted a new policy of secrecy concerning missile launchings in February of this year and now no details of the missile-firings at Vandenberg are given out.

Strategic Air Command crews for the Minuteman, Atlas and Titan II receive their training at Vandenberg and then are assigned to other bases.

Expenditures for construction at Vandenberg have gone well past the $200 million mark and the Air Force estimates that the missile base is responsible for spending about $4.5 billion a month locally. The base employs about 15,000 civilian and military personnel.

Point Mugu is headquarters for the Pacific Missile Range and was established at the end of World War II as a Navy base for pilotless aircraft. In 1958, it took in Point Arguello to the north and the southerly 20,000 acres of old Camp Cooke.

Edwards Air Force Base with its 301,209 acres is the biggest California space and missiles installation. It is at Edwards where the drama of man vs. space is the most sensitively portrayed because of the human factor: the high element of personal hazard for pilots who fly the X15 rocket ship at six times the speed of sound.

The base was once called Muroc Field but the name was changed to honor Capt. Glen W. Edwards, a test pilot from Lincoln, Calif., who died June 5, 1948 in the crash of an experimental YB49 Flying Wing.

At Edwards, the first American plane was flown faster than the speed of sound—760 mph at sea level. That was the X1 piloted by Capt. Charles E. Yeager on Cot. 14, 1947.

All these early planes ranging from the X1 through X13, a vertical takeoff aircraft, gave way to the rocket-powered X15.

On Sept. 17, 1959, test pilot Scott Crossfield flew the X15 to an altitude of 50,000 and over Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound).

Altitude and speed records for manned airplanes were broken almost as fast as they were made by X15 pilots, including Maj. Robert White and Joseph Walker. White flew the X15 at a top speed of 4,093 miles an hour, more than six times the speed of sound.

Walker soared in the rocket plane to an altitude of 225,000 feet —48½ miles—to the edge of space and returned safely. It eventually may go to an altitude of 100 miles.

Uncle Sam Gets Money He Doesn't Even Ask For

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Every year Uncle Sam gets some money he never asked for — or deducted. The gifts from Americans who want to show appreciation to their country or concern for its welfare are described in the following dispatch. Other free-will offerings sent to "Uncle" to ease a sense of guilt stemming from some financial sin have led to the creation of a "consance fund" in the Treasury Department.)

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most hardened cynic would take a new view of patriotism and conscience if he could read the letters in the Treasury's "gift" and "conscience fund" files.

With the letters — from the semi-literate, eggheads and persons in high public office — come cash!

Every year hundreds, sometimes thousands, of Americans send Uncle Sam money, either in appreciation of their country, out of concern for its welfare, or to ease a nagging sense of guilt.

"I think I owe you this," a Maryland man wrote on a piece of brown paper torn from a paper bag. He enclosed $120.

Some of the gifts are the sarcastic type.

"Please accept this small token to apply on the national debt," wrote a Palm Springs, Calif. citizen who enclosed a half-cent postage stamp. He went on to express fear that the national debt "will take its place alongside the Tower of Babylon — confusion — mentioned in the Bible." (He meant the Tower of Babel.)

More recently, it was reported that the late William Berns, a New York City jeweler and the son of an immigrant, had willed Uncle Sam $250,000 — "in appreciation of the freedom and liberty afforded in this country to all citizens, irrespective of race, color, or creed."

From Oklahoma, the Treasury received one dollar from a man who said he had "very unwillingly" received "a small amount of government owned material that had been 'appropriated' by another citizen."

Money from people who say they owe it for taxes evaded or objects stolen is deposited in a "conscience fund." Outright gifts go into the "gift fund."

Contributions earmarked for reduction of the national debt go in to a special fund set up in 1961 for just that purpose.

Gifts and contributions to reduce the national debt are deductible, the Internal Revenue Service reports.

Money in the conscience and gift funds end up in the Treasury's general fund, for payment of the government's expenses. Until Congress passed special legislation last year, authorizing the debt reduction fund, contributions for this purpose also went into the general fund if the donor approved.

The debt reduction fund was established on June 27, 1961. Contributions through February totaled $5,249.99. The debt is close to $300 billion.

Since 1862, contributions to the gift fund have aggregated $36 million, including $211,221.43 in 1961. The conscience fund dates back to 1811, and has received $2.7 million, including $61,701.97 last year.

Some citizens want to make contributions for specific purposes. Many can be accepted, such as for defense. A Champaign, Ill. woman asked if she could send money to help the U.S. Information Agency tell other countries about American principles. (She could, she was told.)

Some years ago, a New York woman sent former President Truman a Christmas card and $150 cash. On a small piece of blue paper she wrote: "With sincere thanks for help in life saving, Mrs. ——."

Officials believe she was a foreigner who had received asylum in this country. The $150 went into the gift fund.

A Dayton, Ohio man sent in a small diamond as backing for a new style paper currency he advocated. The gem was returned.

An American in Bonn, Germany sent the government $100 to help fight the Korean war. A Minnesota resident contributed $10, saying "this is my way of expressing gratitude for being an American."

Especially inspiring was the 10-year-old Hawaiian lad who asked if he could give $20 "to help the United States of America." A gently worded reply praised him for his patriotism, said he could send the $20 but suggested he buy savings stamps every week.

Most of the conscience fund contributors want to ease their minds and make sure their accounts in Washington and Heaven are in good order.

Some of their communications, however, baffle the government — such as the envelope postmarked Paducah, Ky. It contained $110 and an advertisement for men's pajamas torn out of a Sears-Roebuck catalogue.

Koreans Freed

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — Ten of the 41 persons jailed last month for allegedly plotting to overthrow the ruling military junta have been released, it was announced Monday night. The announcement said the action was ordered "to wipe out the impression that unnecessary reprisals are being taken against former politicians."

The legislative highlight of the past week was the action in the House of Representatives with respect to the Administration's Farm Program. This was a dramatic several days of debate which, in my opinion, was the bitterest fight thus far on the Floor of the House of Representatives during the life of the 87th Congress. The tempers of members of the House rose on many occasions and there were both partisan and personal recriminations in the debate. Following all of the hue and cry, a final vote was taken late on Thursday evening.

The vote on the resolution to send the bill back to Committee, which in effect is a legislative way of killing the proposal as it stood, was 215 in favor and 205 against—in other words the Administration's Farm Program was killed by ten votes. Why did this happen? It happened for many, many reasons, and they were not particularly partisan reasons, because I would point out at the outset that it was a bi-partisan vote that killed the program. Approximately 25% of the vote that was required to send the bill back to Committee was composed of members of the Majority Party—Democrats. This is so because of the whole history of this legislation.

When the bill was first proposed by Secretary Freeman, it was stringent and mandatory to the point of being authoritarian. It would have required criminal penalties if a farmer for one reason or another violated any of the many detailed regulations that would have to be issued by the Department of Agriculture in order to put the program into effect. A farmer could have been convicted and sent to a Federal penitentiary if he violated any of the provisions of the proposed bill. During the course of Committee study of the bill, these harsh penalties were stricken from it as being totally foreign to American thinking and to American agricultural practices. Nevertheless the spirit of regimentation remained in the bill.

By the time the bill came to the Floor, the Committee had studied it and worked over it for months; many, many witnesses had testified on it, and the Committee had held closed Executive sessions to consider and finally approve it. In spite of this, when it came to the Floor it was still so controversial that an almost record number of amendments were offered. Some of these amendments were accepted by the Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Cooley of North Carolina. He would announce to the House that he had no personal objection to these amendments. This still left the House in doubt as to how the Administration felt on some of these amendments which were of utmost importance to the bill. At the time the House came to a final vote, at the time we had to consider the bill as a whole, the Chairman was asked how many amendments had been made to the bill and he was unable to answer. This gives you some indication of the degree of chaos and the extent to which there was a lack of leadership in the House of Representatives.

It is no wonder that a bi-partisan group of members of the House of Representatives, which by and large represented the agricultural heart of this Country, and which had very much on their consciences and in their hearts the welfare of the farming community and the welfare of the Country at large—it is no wonder that these people voted to send this bill back to Committee. It was sent back so that it might be reconsidered, so that it might be perfected, and a program which will be helpful to American Agriculture evolved. Certainly the events of the several days debate in the House indicated that the Administration's Program did not meet the needs of agriculture in America today, and I think the House took the correct action in re-committing it.

"Water Shoes" Have Military Application

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three civilians wearing Army uniforms and carrying rifles donned pontoon-like "shoes" Tuesday and walked on the surface of the water in the Pentagon lagoon.

The demonstration was conducted for defense experts to show that the five-foot-long water shoes, so far used only in sports events, could also have a military application.

"Soldiers on the water shoes could move easily through wild, swampy terrain like that in South Viet Nam or Laos, where foliage is too thick for boat passage and water too deep for wading," an industry official said.

The demonstration was sponsored by Allied Chemical Corp., which makes a material called urethane foam used in manufacturing the shoes. Each weighs seven pounds and they cost $40 to $50 a pair.

Reds Under Pressure In Space Race

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

MOSCOW (UPI)—Amid the arid wastes east of the Aral Sea lies The Soviet rocket launching site at Baikonur where Russian scientists and technicians are engaged in a high pressure race with the United States to the moon and eventually to the stars.

At stake is not only the national prestige of the earth's two mightiest nations but the struggle of two worlds—Communist and Capitalist—for man's imagination, respect and loyalty.

So far Russia has deliberately kept secret its exact plans for waging the space race.

But there is no doubt the Soviet space program, which astounded the world with the first artificial earth satellite, is fast working toward a moonflight by man.

However, there are problems which scientists still have to solve.

The U.S.S.R., like American space scientists, is searching for a way to send a cosmonaut safely through the Van Allen radiation belts which surround the earth.

The "Cosmos" series of satellites, the first of which was launched March 16, 1962, from the Soviet Union, is intended to study these and other problems.

For the Soviet Union, which badly needs investment funds in other areas of the economy, particularly in agriculture, the race appears to be a clearly thought out attempt to enhance the national prestige.

Although the Soviets tend to stress the peaceful nature of their work in space, Premier Khrushchev in a speech in December, 1961, said Soviet space rockets could carry loads other than cosmonauts and could be landed anywhere.

On March 16, 1962, Khrushchev boasted of a "global rocket" against which he said defense was impossible.

Before 1957 there had been a few hints in the press that the Soviet Union was actively developing a program for orbiting satellites—but few in the West took much notice.

Then on the night of Saturday, Oct. 4, 1957, the Tass News Agency published a brief Russian-language dispatch announcing that a sphere 22.8 inches in diameter had been orbited.

A month later, Nov. 3, 1957 the Soviets orbited a living being. They lofted a cone containing the dog Laika. The dog perished aboard the spacecraft.

In the next two years, Soviet scientists experimented with rockets animals into space and solving the tricky reentry problems. On Aug. 19, 1960, two dogs Belka and Strelka were orbited and returned to earth.

On April 12, 1961, Moscow radio announced a cosmonaut, Yuri A. Gagarin, at that moment was still in orbit aboard Vostok I, a spaceship. He returned to earth in an elapsed time of 108 minutes.

Gherman S. Titov on Aug. 6, 1961, in a spacecraft similar to Gagarin's orbited 17 times in 25 hours.

Nevertheless, the Soviet space program has, by no means, been without failures.

But the Soviet space program since its inception has been surrounded by secrecy which has been loosened only occasionally.

Khrushchev indicated in an interview with American publisher Gardner Cowles that a manned trip to the moon would cost a lot of money, which suggested he was concerned with the cost of the space race.

Khrushchev in a message to Kennedy Feb. 22, 1962, generally accepted the Presidents invitations on space cooperation.

It is believed the Soviet Union is interested in cooperating with the United States in those areas where it stands to gain something — particularly in weather and communications satellites.

Boosts U.S. Trade

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's commodity exports to the United States in April were 19.7 per cent greater than for the same month last year, while imports were up 16.4 per cent, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

It said April exports were worth $288 million compared with $240 million in April, 1961. Imports were $352 million compared with $302 million.

Boosts U.S. Trade

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's commodity exports to the United States in April were 19.7 per cent greater than for the same month last year, while imports were up 16.4 per cent, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

It said April exports were worth $288 million compared with $240 million in April, 1961. Imports were $352 million compared with $302 million.

New Postal Inspector

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon welcomes Victor A. Kauffman who assumed his duties as local inspector last Monday. Mr. Kauffman has been a postal employe since 1943 and comes here from Birmingham, Ala., where he was postal inspector for the last seven years. He is a native of Brentwood and is a graduate of the University of Maryland. He replaces Richard M. Johnson, who has been transferred to Washington after over 13 years at the local post office.

Man Fined In Toll Case

Robert D. Smith, 32, Green Spring, was fined $10 and costs Tuesday by Magistrate John L. Nixon, Oldtown, after failing to pay $14.35 back tolls to Melvin R. Carpenter, owner of the toll bridge connecting Oldtown and Green Spring.

Carpenter said that the toll was $.25 one way, $.35 round trip or $2.50 per month for use of the bridge and that Smith had failed to pay the toll since last November. A warrant for his arrest was issued by Nixon, and he was arrested by Sgt. William F. Baker, Criminal Investigator, Maryland State Police.

Program Presented

LONACONING — The Vacation Bible School program was presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church. The teachers and children of the classes held the past two weeks presented the special program and displayed their achievements.

JOINS MARINES—George H. Davis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Davis, RD 4, has enlisted in the Marine Corps 120-day delay program. A graduate of Fort Hill High School this month, he will leave for active duty July 17. He will be stationed at Parris Island, S. C.

Youth Guilty In Local Robbery

A 14-year-old local youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys yesterday after being convicted of being a delinquent minor.

The South End youth was charged in connection with an armed robbery of a young mother last Friday morning.

Magistrate Louis Fatkin sentenced the youth after hearing testimony from the victim, Mrs. Robert Gary, 19, of the rear of 409 Prince George Street, mother of a five-week-old baby; Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator; Det. Kenneth Morrissey of the City Police Department, and the defendant.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Fatkin informed the youth he could not condone such action by teenagers of this county.

Magistrate Fatkin said: "I think the parents of teenagers today should sit down with their children and have 'old-fashioned' family talks from time to time. Maybe if there was a closer relationship between parents and children, this type of crime would not exist.

"Parents today have the responsibility of keeping a closer watch on their children, and to create a better family union."

The youth informed the magistrate that he had committed the crime as a "joke", and got the idea from watching television.

Mrs. Gary testified that last Friday morning she was caring for her sick baby when she heard someone kick open the front door of her apartment. She walked from the bedroom to the living room where she came face to face with a "tall, thin man wearing a pillowcase mask over his head and face and pointing a pistol at her."

Mrs. Gary said the "man" demanded her money and she walked back into the bedroom, being followed by the gunman, to obtain, her money.

After turning over her money ($5.18 and three Mexican coins) she said the intruder ordered her to stay in the bedroom until he left. During the time she was in the bedroom, Mrs. Gary said the intruder held the pistol toward her. She repeatedly asked him not to harm her or her sick child.

Det. Morrissey testified that investigation of the case revealed that the defendant had committed the crime on the "spur of the moment" and that he informed police that he intended to return the money.

The youth used a gray plastic toy revolver, and after leaving the Gary residence he burned the gun and mask in a fireplace in his backyard.

The parents of the youth appealed the decision in the case and the youth was released on bond pending a hearing in Cir-Circuit Court.

Magistrate Louis Fatkin sentenced the youth after hearing testimony from the victim, Mrs. Robert Gary, 19, of the rear of 409 Prince George Street, mother of a five-week-old baby; Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator; Det. Kenneth Morrissey of the City Police Department, and the defendant.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Fatkin informed the youth he could not condone such action by teenagers of this county.

Magistrate Fatkin said: "I think the parents of teenagers today should sit down with their children and have 'old-fashioned' family talks from time to time. Maybe if there was a closer relationship between parents and children, this type of crime would not exist.

"Parents today have the responsibility of keeping a closer watch on their children, and to create a better family union."

The youth informed the magistrate that he had committed the crime as a "joke", and got the idea from watching television.

Mrs. Gary testified that last Friday morning she was caring for her sick baby when she heard someone kick open the front door of her apartment. She walked from the bedroom to the living room where she came face to face with a "tall, thin man wearing a pillowcase mask over his head and face and pointing a pistol at her."

Mrs. Gary said the "man" demanded her money and she walked back into the bedroom, being followed by the gunman, to obtain, her money.

After turning over her money ($5.18 and three Mexican coins) she said the intruder ordered her to stay in the bedroom until he left. During the time she was in the bedroom, Mrs. Gary said the intruder held the pistol toward her. She repeatedly asked him not to harm her or her sick child.

Det. Morrissey testified that investigation of the case revealed that the defendant had committed the crime on the "spur of the moment" and that he informed police that he intended to return the money.

The youth used a gray plastic toy revolver, and after leaving the Gary residence he burned the gun and mask in a fireplace in his backyard.

The parents of the youth appealed the decision in the case and the youth was released on bond pending a hearing in Cir-Circuit Court.

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Church of Christ is using documentary movies to try to stir congregations out of liturgical lethargy and into decisive action on social-economic problems.

The Rev. Dr. Everett C. Parker, director of communications of the denomination, has produced a series of films on urban cultural movements and farm problems. His most recent movie, entitled "Tomorrow?," deals with automation and appeals to the churches to join in solving the problems presented by it.

Parker's aim is to get more congregational groups interested in the vital issues of the times.

"Too many churches want religious films that entertain rather than disturb," Parker said in an interview. "Our new automation film is being used widely by labor unions, industrial groups, schools and colleges but we have not sold a print to a single church.

"Churches should be concerned in films with the same things that the minister is concerned with in the pulpit, not sugar-coated situations solved by the Gospel but a hard look at the serious problems that man is facing.

"Most church films are not made in the terms of the facts of everyday living. They do not think in terms of films dealing with the issues but of the missions in India, for example, or the fine work that is being done at a hospital. I am in favor of missionary films, but we also need the big issues put before us. We need problem films.

"Our film on automation was made basically for men. We want it to go before men's groups or before working women. But since most working women are bringing home the second income in the family, this problem of unemployment because of automation is one we want to get before men first."

The film presents discussions by workers, sociologists, representatives of management and union leaders. There are scenes showing how extensive automation is now and descriptions of how men will be replaced on an even larger scale by the machines of the future.

No solutions are given. The film poses problems for discussion by the groups who see it. It ends with appeals for stewardship by the community — industry, and the churches — in rechanneling the manpower displaced by machinepower.

The suggestion is made that the churches should bring together representatives of management and labor and community groups to try to formulate constructive plans.

Veteran Memorial Nurse Honored

Miss Carrie Harden, RN, dean of nurses at Memorial Hospital, was honored Tuesday at a testimonial dinner at the Cumberland Country Club in observance of her announced retirement.

Miss Harden, of 523 Memorial Avenue, helped open the local hospital in 1929 and will officially retire this Friday after 46 years as a registered nurse. She was a member of the 1916 graduating class of old Western Maryland Hospital.

More than 200 persons attended the testimonial and Miss Harden drew praise from the hospital's medical staff, board of governors, nursing staff and administration for her long, devoted career.

John A. Moberly, superintendent, served as master of ceremonies and introduced Viola McDaniels, a classmate of Miss Harden at Western Maryland Hospital; Dr. Samuel Infield, Dr. H. R. Williams and Dr. A. G. Twigg, who worked with Miss Harden at Western Maryland; John J. Rowan, R. Finley Thompson, James Weber and George Newman, members of the hospital's board of governors; and Gladys Brooks, director of nurses at the hospital.

Dr. W. Royce Hodges, who represented the medical staff; Barbara Haan, representative of the Alumni Association; Mrs. Ruth Wilkinson, LaVale and Mrs. Helen Welsh, Meyersdale, Pa., who attended Western Maryland School of Nursing with Miss Harden; Walter Shanholtz, one of the oldest employe of the hospital; Miss LeAnnah Matthews, supervisor of the hospital's fourth floor; five members of the committee making arrangements for the affair and Miss Harden's three sisters, were also introduced.

William A. Gunter, local attorney and retired president of the hospital's board of governors, delivered the main address, praising Miss Harden's unselfish service to the people of this area.

Miss Harden received a number of letters and telegrams, including a four-page letter from Margaret Spriggs, age 90, who once operated an Art Shop in Cumberland.

Miss Harden has worked every department in the hospital and is retiring as director of nursing service.

Market Posts Its First Gain In Eight Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed showing their first gain in the popular averages in eight sessions Wednesday.

Prices drifted slowly lower until around 2 p.m. and then began moving up in a rally that was still gathering force at the close, forcing the ticker late in the final few minutes.

Gains in the aveages were modest. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index which weights electronics and growth issues fairly heavily, posted a gain of 0.28.

Since the rally was centered in these issues, the index was up more percentagewise than the Dow-Jones averages, which placed industrials ahead 1.22, rails off 0.11 and utilities up 0.60.

Trading was light to moderate until the active finish. Turnover for the session totaled 3,890,000 shares against 4,630,000 in the prior session. A total of 1,282 issues were traded and despite the gains in the averages total declines outnumbered advances 529 to 486. No new 1962 highs were reached but 154 issues touched new lows during the session.

Most of the leading steels managed fractional gains but Allegheny-Ludlum backed off 1½. Autos and leading oils finished narrowly and chemicals were erratic with Du Pont and Kodak down 1 apiece and Union Carbide up 1.

Market Posts Its First Gain In Eight Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed showing their first gain in the popular averages in eight sessions Wednesday.

Prices drifted slowly lower until around 2 p.m. and then began moving up in a rally that was still gathering force at the close, forcing the ticker late in the final few minutes.

Gains in the aveages were modest. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index which weights electronics and growth issues fairly heavily, posted a gain of 0.28.

Since the rally was centered in these issues, the index was up more percentagewise than the Dow-Jones averages, which placed industrials ahead 1.22, rails off 0.11 and utilities up 0.60.

Trading was light to moderate until the active finish. Turnover for the session totaled 3,890,000 shares against 4,630,000 in the prior session. A total of 1,282 issues were traded and despite the gains in the averages total declines outnumbered advances 529 to 486. No new 1962 highs were reached but 154 issues touched new lows during the session.

Most of the leading steels managed fractional gains but Allegheny-Ludlum backed off 1½. Autos and leading oils finished narrowly and chemicals were erratic with Du Pont and Kodak down 1 apiece and Union Carbide up 1.

Food Shopping Guide

Supplies were plentiful.

Dairy products continue abundant and will be featured in many areas.

The top choices at vegetable counters will be beans, beets, cabbage, collards, corn, cucumbers, endive, escarole, green onions, iceberg, Romaine and big Boston lettuce, eastern potatoes, dishes and squash.

The best fruit buys will be blueberries, cantaloupes, limes, mangoes, watermelons, peaches, Florida oranges, and pineapples.

At meat counters this weekend the best beef buys will be round and boneless chuck roast. Steaks will be featured also. In poultry, fryers, broilers and turkeys will be featured. Veal will also be at attractive prices.

Handy Time Saver

"Julienne" refers to food that is cut into thin, match-like strips. Leftover meats for salads or casseroles are attractive when prepared this way. When slicing meat in julienne-style pieces, cut through slices at once to save time.

Barbecued Meats

Most everyone likes the zesty tang of barbecued spareribs, but did you ever think of the other meats which you might barbecue? There's lamb riblets, short ribs of beef, pot-roast, hamburgers, frankfurters and even canned luncheon meat.

Variation On Favorite Food Theme

Pork and potatoes have "gone steady" for a long time on family menus and there is no reason they shouldn't continue to do so. But sometimes a new variation can add interest to a favorite dish.

A home economist suggests an easy way to give variety to this faithful team and make it something special. The pork-potatoes combination she has in mind is a casserole dish in which pork steaks and thinly sliced potatoes are cooked together. The variation is in the use of condensed tomato soup as the liquid.

Pork steaks or pork chops can be cooked in this way. The flavor of the meat is extended to the potatoes and the tomato soup gives added tastiness to all, turning an ordinary dish into something worthy a company meal.

Pork 'n' Potatoes

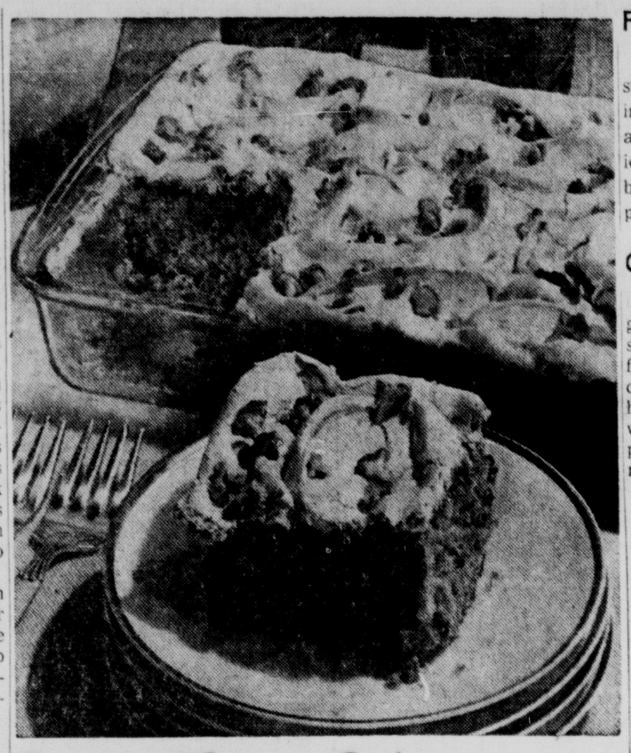
- 4 pork shoulder steaks, cut ½ inch thick
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 cups thinly sliced potatoes

Brown pork steaks. Pour off drippings. Mix together tomato soup, onion, salt, pepper and parsley. Combine half of soup mixture with the potatoes and place in the bottom of a 9x12-inch baking dish. Place meat on top of potatoes and spread remaining soup mixture over the top. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 hour. Remove cover and continue baking for 15 minutes or until meat is done. Yield: 4 servings.

Cheese 'N Frank Spread

- 4 cooked frankfurters
- 1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 4 small sweet pickles, finely chopped
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- Dash of pepper
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, optional
- Dairy sour cream

Grind frankfurters or chop very fine. Add remaining ingredients and moisten to spreading consistency with sour cream. Makes 1½ cups.



Fruited Spice Cake

The topping is a crisp, toasted meringue sprinkled with nuts. It's crunchy and chewy in an offhand, elegant sort of way.

Underneath, the cake itself is so high 'n light and fluffy you marvel it could even hold up the delicate heft of the topping. But it does . . . and that's not all. It whiffs the spicy fragrance of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, and tastes of them, too. Best touch of all . . . here and there al lthrough the cake are soft, meaty little pieces of prunes . . . and these contribute their own special tart-sweet, wine-y richness to the cake.

This is a cake to serve, barely cooled from the oven, in big generous squares . . . coffee-and-dessert occasions . . . as a family meal dessert . . . as a teatime treat or for late evening refreshments. If you wish to keep it on hand for a day or two, you most cheerfully can, for it stays moist and tender for three or four days, a delight right down to the final crumb.

To achieve this Proud Triumph, just follow the simple recipe . . . but exactly, please. While easy to make, this cake does call for a careful respect for the directions.

Meringue Fruited Spice Cake

- 2 cups unsifted* cake flour
- 1⅓ cup sugar
- 1¼ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
- ¾ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ cup soft shortening
- ¾ cup sour milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- ¾ cup ground cooked prunes (about 16 prunes)
- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup sifted brown sugar, firmly packed
- ¼ cup chopped walnuts

*To measure cake flour, spoon flour to over flowing into nested measuring cups, level off with straight-edged spatula.

Sift, or stir to mix thoroughly, flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices into mixing bowl. Add shortening, sour milk and vanilla. Beat 200 round-the-bowl strokes or 2 minutes on electric mixer at low speed. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater. Add eggs and beat 200 round-the-bowl strokes or 2 minutes on mixer at low speed. Add prunes and beat 40 strokes or about 15 seconds on mixer at low speed until prunes are well-mixed in cake batter. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater. Pour batter into greased and floured 8" x 12" pan. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes. Meanwhile, make meringe topping by beating eggs whites until they hold a stiff peak. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Spread meringue on baked cake and sprinkle with nuts. Return to oven and continue baking 10 to 15 minutes or until meringue is well-browned. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Note: If cake is baked in glass baking pan, reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees.

What's The Catch?

That's one of the questions experts will discuss at the Food and Agriculture Organization international Tuna Biology Conference in La Jolla, California, in July. Because tuna is the most popular of canned fish, it is an important source of protein the world over. Scientists will attempt to estimate world supply in order to determine what the annual catch should be without depletion of stocks.

Flouring Stew Meat

An easy way to flour meat for stews is to drop the meat cubes into a paper bag containing flour and seasonings, advises the American Meat Institute. Shake the bag well to thoroughly coat the pieces.

Ginger's An Inspiration

Did you know that powdered ginger makes an excellent meat seasoning? It's a subtle note for flavoring stew, says the American Meat Institute, and a flavor help for many other dishes. But when it comes to leg of lamb, powdered ginger rubbed into the meat is a real inspiration.

Attention Senior Citizens!

Research has discovered that many of our senior citizens consume a high carbohydrate, low protein diet. Protein requirements do not vary that greatly between the younger and older person, even though calorie needs will differ. Therefore, senior citizens need to be more aware of the value of meat in their diet . . . meat being one of the main sources of high-quality protein.

Chilled Meats For Salad

When cooking meat for a cold meat salad, let it cool, then chill in the stock in which it was cooked. It will be more flavorful and juicy.

Meat Loaf Variation

Why not vary the servings of your favorite meat loaf? After baking in a loaf pan, slice into serving-size sections. Top each with a swirl of mashed potatoes. Place under the broiler just long enough for the potatoes to gain a golden tinge.

Nutritive Value

The less-demanded cuts of meat have the same nutritive value as the more-demanded meat cuts. For thrifty homemakers interested in good nutrition, yet confined to a budget, these less-demanded cuts are a life-saver.

Week's Food Economies

Plan your meals to include a liberal amount of fresh summer vegetables as supplies become heavier from local and near by farms, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Two types, the yellow straight neck and the flat white, patty pan or scalloped squash are one of the best buys. These are mild, small quick growing forms that are eaten before the rinds and seeds begin to harden. When you select squash look for those with skin that looks fresh and is so tender it punctures easily. The best choice is small to medium in size.

Use tasty green beans from Maryland farms as one of the main vegetables in your menus. To get the most for what you spend for green snap beans, select young beans with small immature seeds. Look over the pods to see that they are clean, fresh looking, crisp and firm.

Cabbage and sweet corn also continue on the list of best buys. Cabbage is low in cost. Select a firm, heavy head to get the best quality in cabbage. Sweet corn quality is generally very good.

Lettuce and radishes for the salad bowl are among the best buys. Iceberg lettuce is the most popular vegetable and the current supply is from Arizona and New Jersey. Radishes crisp and high in color add much to the attractiveness of the table.

The best fruit buys are bananas, peaches and blueberries. Peaches are mostly from Georgia. Many are hydrocooled. When selecting look for a good yellow ground color as an indication of ripeness. Blueberries will keep longer than other berries. Select powdery light blue bloom. Bananas are low in cost.

Medium and small size eggs provide the best value for your egg money. Grade A eggs are recommended.

W. Va. Highway Investigation Begins July 10

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House highway investigating subcommittee has decided to begin a hearing July 10 on the federal highway program in West Virginia.

The hearing probably will last about seven days and will deal largely with procedures and practices involving right-of-way acquisitions for highways, a committee spokesman said Tuesday.

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., told a reporter the subcommittee voted down his motion to delve further into highway matters in Massachusetts.

Hearngs were held here some months ago on the Massachusetts situation and at that time Cramer complained that the committee investigation wasn't wide enough or deep enough.

"We've just scratched the surface," he told a reporter. "And the rejection of my motion today means that everything else dealing with Massachusetts is going to be whitewashed."

The subcommittee's assignment is to keep an eye on expenditure of federal money in the interstate highway program. The federal government pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of such highways.

A subcommittee spokesman said that about 30 witnesses will be called in the West Virginia hearing, including past and present personnel of the State Highway Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads. He declined to give names of the witnesses at this time.

PROMOTED — Richard L. Blubaugh has been promoted to airman second class and assigned to 48th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Langley Air Force Base, Va. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo B. Blubaugh, 620 Elm Street.

KC Communion Breakfast Is Slated Sunday

The annual communion breakfast of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will be held Sunday morning after the 8:30 a. m. Mass at St. Patrick's Church.

Chairman of the program, Val Lydinger, who is chancellor of the council, said Frank Werner will be toastmaster.

Father Burns, who for the past two years has been at St. Mary's Seminary at Roland Park, Baltimore, graduated from LaSalle in 1948 and received his bachelor of arts degree at St. Mary's Seminary in 1953.

Following his ordination he spent two years at St. Edward's Seminary, Seattle, and one year at the Sulpician Retreat near Baltimore. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Burns, 210 Cumberland Street.

Other members of the breakfast committee are Edward Lyons, grand knight of the council, and John V. Lindner, past grand knight.

The breakfast will be prepared and served by the Sodality of the parish.

General Sees Guerrillas Train

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) —Maj. Gen. Charles W. G. Rich, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, spent Wednesday here with the 187th Infantry Regiment of his division training in the Randolph County area.

Rich came to Elkins from Camp Dawson near Kingwood where he observed guerrilla operations of the West Virginia National Guard's 16th Special Forces Group.

Rich praised the progress of the 16th Special Forces Group and described the camp as "ideal for operations involving special forces and for engineering training projects.

The guerrillas and Special Forces teams at Camp Dawson destroyed a railroad yard at Rowlesburg, a power substation, a power line and again ambushed three troop convoys.

Evaluation teams from the Second Army go out to the targets hit by the Guerrillas and check the amount of "TNT", which is in the form of wooden blocks, the charges, caps, etc. The outstanding guerrilla and special forces team will be selected on the basis of the ratings.

W. Va. Centennial Officials To Guard Against Profit-Making Schemes

By DONALD F. FANNIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The West Virginia Centennial Commission is concerned about the possibility of private individuals hatching "improper" or "trashy" profit - making schemes to take advantage of the state's upcoming Centennial celebration.

Executive Director Carl Sullivan says he is particularly concerned about the possible unauthorized us of official Centennial emblems or variations bearing close similarity.

Two of the official emblems are registered with the U. S. Patent Office and may only be used with the authorization of the commission.

One of the registered emblems is a combination of the National Science Foundation's radiotelescope located at Green Bank, Pocahontas County, and the Navy's "Big Ear" radiotelescope being constructed at Sugar Grove, Pendleton County.

The other emblem features a young bear seated on a Sugar Maple leaf, holding a rifle and sniffing a Rhododendron. The bear is wearing a coonskin cap while a Cardinal is perched on his rifle.

Sullivan admitted that there is nothing to prevent any individual or agency from using variations that merely resemble the official registered versions.

Sullivan said, however, that such use would be "taking advantage of the Centennial without contributing anything to the observance." He added that the commission "certainly would frown upon" unofficial emblems used solely for private profit.

The executive director noted that the commission has no control over the quality of such unauthorized items. "We can only sanction things we believe reflect credit on the state," he said, "and want nothing trashy or improper."

The commission receives a portion of the price of all merchandise franchised for use of its official emblems.

The secretary of the commission's commemorative merchandise committee said the committee would use "public pressure" to discourage profiteering and sale of undesirable items.

W. Va. Highway Investigation Begins July 10

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House highway investigating subcommittee has decided to begin a hearing July 10 on the federal highway program in West Virginia.

The hearing probably will last about seven days and will deal largely with procedures and practices involving right-of-way acquisitions for highways, a committee spokesman said Tuesday.

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., told a reporter the subcommittee voted down his motion to delve further into highway matters in Massachusetts.

Hearngs were held here some months ago on the Massachusetts situation and at that time Cramer complained that the committee investigation wasn't wide enough or deep enough.

"We've just scratched the surface," he told a reporter. "And the rejection of my motion today means that everything else dealing with Massachusetts is going to be whitewashed."

The subcommittee's assignment is to keep an eye on expenditure of federal money in the interstate highway program. The federal government pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of such highways.

A subcommittee spokesman said that about 30 witnesses will be called in the West Virginia hearing, including past and present personnel of the State Highway Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads. He declined to give names of the witnesses at this time.

PROMOTED — Richard L. Blubaugh has been promoted to airman second class and assigned to 48th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Langley Air Force Base, Va. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo B. Blubaugh, 620 Elm Street.

General Sees Guerrillas Train

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) —Maj. Gen. Charles W. G. Rich, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, spent Wednesday here with the 187th Infantry Regiment of his division training in the Randolph County area.

Rich came to Elkins from Camp Dawson near Kingwood where he observed guerrilla operations of the West Virginia National Guard's 16th Special Forces Group.

Rich praised the progress of the 16th Special Forces Group and described the camp as "ideal for operations involving special forces and for engineering training projects.

The guerrillas and Special Forces teams at Camp Dawson destroyed a railroad yard at Rowlesburg, a power substation, a power line and again ambushed three troop convoys.

Evaluation teams from the Second Army go out to the targets hit by the Guerrillas and check the amount of "TNT", which is in the form of wooden blocks, the charges, caps, etc. The outstanding guerrilla and special forces team will be selected on the basis of the ratings.

W. Va. Centennial Officials To Guard Against Profit-Making Schemes

By DONALD F. FANNIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The West Virginia Centennial Commission is concerned about the possibility of private individuals hatching "improper" or "trashy" profit - making schemes to take advantage of the state's upcoming Centennial celebration.

Executive Director Carl Sullivan says he is particularly concerned about the possible unauthorized us of official Centennial emblems or variations bearing close similarity.

Two of the official emblems are registered with the U. S. Patent Office and may only be used with the authorization of the commission.

One of the registered emblems is a combination of the National Scjence Foundation's radiotelescope located at Green Bank, Pocahontas County, and the Navy's "Big Ear" radiotelescope being constructed at Sugar Grove, Pendleton County.

The other emblem features a young bear seated on a Sugar Maple leaf, holding a rifle and sniffing a Rhododendron. The bear is wearing a coonskin cap while a Cardinal is perched on his rifle.

Sullivan admitted that there is nothing to prevent any individual or agency from using variations that merely resemble the official registered versions.

Sullivan said, however, that such use would be "taking advantage of the Centennial without contributing anything to the observance." He added that the commission "certainly would frown upon" unofficial emblems used solely for private profit.

The executive director noted that the commission has no control over the quality of such unauthorized items. "We can only sanction things we believe reflect credit on the state," he said, "and want nothing trashy or improper."

The commission receives a portion of the price of all merchandise franchised for use of its official emblems.

The secretary of the commission's commemorative merchandise committee said the committee would use "public pressure" to discourage profiteering and sale of undesirable items.

Gentile Hits Pair Of Homers As Orioles Win

Roberts Defeats White Sox, 3 To 1

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Jim Gentile hit his 18th and 19th homers Wednesday night to drive in all three Baltimore runs and lead pitcher Robin Roberts to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Gentile, who hadn't hit a home run or driven in a run since June 14, connected off left - hander Juan Pizarro with two out in the sixth inning to tie the game at 1-1. He then homered off Pizarro again with two out in the eighth inning and Marv Breeding on third base.

For Roberts, it was his fourth straight starting victory and his second consecutive complete game victory. All four triumphs have come in the last 17 days after the 35-year-old right-hander had failed to win a game in over a year.

RECORD OF SORTS

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox established a major league record that will probably stand for all time when they hit only three home runs during the entire 1908 season.

The average American family now drives its auto about 9,500 miles a year compared to 8,800 20 years ago.

U. S. Women's Open Gets Underway Today

Mickey Wright Favored To Keep Her 1961 Title

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI)—Seventy women golfers will challenge the long, well - trapped Dunes golf course with its 11 water holes Thursday in opening play of the 17th U.S. Women's Open.

The 39 professionals and 31 amateurs will have to use every shot in th book to conquer the 18-hole, par-72 layout at the Dunes Golf and Beach Club.

But Mickey Wright, the long hitting Arnold Palmer of women's golf, has been picked a favorite to succeed herself as the Open champion and thus tie for the most victories in the tournament.

Mickey and hard swinging Betsy Rawls have been in a tug-of-war in the Open since 1957. Mickey has won three crowns and Betsy has picked up the two others to add to two previous championships.

Course Favors Mickey

The advantage in the 72-hole tournament with its 36-hole final Saturday goes to Mickey on the strength of her long distance off the tee and with irons. And even her slugging may not be enough for the Dunes!

For this tournament, the course will measure 6,400 yards. The conquest holes will be 13 and 18.

The 13th, appropriately named "Waterloo," is a par-5 test which measures 550 yards. It has a dogleg to the right about 250 yards out and then the player must approach the trap-hidden green over water.

The last hole is usually played as a par-5, 510-yard hole. But for the women it has been shortened to 390 yards with par 4. The drive must carry against the wind over a large body of water.

Toughest In Years

This year competition is expected to be the toughest in recent years. Two other former champions, Louise Suggs and Kathy Cornelius, are in the field.

Then there is former U.S. Amateur champion Barbara Romack and old-timer Patty Berg, now 44.

Shirley Englehorn, Mary Lena Faulk and Ruth Jessen also cannot be overlooked. Smooth-swinging Sandra Haynie is also a leading contender.

Guerin Signs Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richie Guerin, who scored an all-time New York high of 2,303 points in 78 games last season, has signed his 1962-63 contract with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. Guerin, named to the NBA All-League team at the close of last season, was sixth highest scorer in the pro circuit.

The accident rate for school-trained teen-age drivers is 50 per cent lower than the rate for those who "just learned" to drive.

Gentile Hits Pair Of Homers As Orioles Win

Roberts Defeats White Sox, 3 To 1

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Jim Gentile hit his 18th and 19th homers Wednesday night to drive in all three Baltimore runs and lead pitcher Robin Roberts to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Gentile, who hadn't hit a home run or driven in a run since June 14, connected off left - hander Juan Pizarro with two out in the sixth inning to tie the game at 1-1. He then homered off Pizarro again with two out in the eighth inning and Marv Breeding on third base.

For Roberts, it was his fourth straight starting victory and his second consecutive complete game victory. All four triumphs have come in the last 17 days after the 35-year-old right-hander had failed to win a game in over a year.

RECORD OF SORTS

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox established a major league record that will probably stand for all time when they hit only three home runs during the entire 1908 season.

The average American family now drives its auto about 9,500 miles a year compared to 8,800 20 years ago.

U.S. Women's Open Gets Underway Today

Mickey Wright Favored To Keep Her 1961 Title

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI)—Seventy women golfers will challenge the long, well - trapped Dunes golf course with its 11 water holes Thursday in opening play of the 17th U.S. Women's Open.

The 39 professionals and 31 amateurs will have to use every shot in th book to conquer the 18-hole, par-72 layout at the Dunes Golf and Beach Club.

But Mickey Wright, the long hitting Arnold Palmer of women's golf, has been picked a favorite to succeed herself as the Open champion and thus tie for the most victories in the tournament.

Mickey and hard swinging Betsy Rawls have been in a tug-of-war in the Open since 1957. Mickey has won three crowns and Betsy has picked up the two others to add to two previous championships.

Course Favors Mickey

The advantage in the 72-hole tournament with its 36-hole final Saturday goes to Mickey on the strength of her long distance off the tee and with irons. And even her slugging may not be enough for the Dunes!

For this tournament, the course will measure 6,400 yards. The conquest holes will be 13 and 18.

The 13th, appropriately named "Waterloo," is a par-5 test which measures 550 yards. It has a dogleg to the right about 250 yards out and then the player must approach the trap-hidden green over water.

The last hole is usually played as a par-5, 510-yard hole. But for the women it has been shortened to 390 yards with par 4. The drive must carry against the wind over a large body of water.

Toughest In Years

This year competition is expected to be the toughest in recent years. Two other former champions, Louise Suggs and Kathy Cornelius, are in the field.

Then there is former U.S. Amateur champion Barbara Romack and old-timer Patty Berg, now 44.

Chuck McKinley Upset By Britisher In Second Round At Wimbledon

Mike Hann Sends U. S. Singles Hopes Dwindling

By JOHN FARROW

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — America's hopes of recapturing the men's singles title nosedived Wednesday as fifth-seeded Chuck McKinley slumped to defeat in the second round of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Dennis Ralston, McKinley's Davis Cup colleague, brightened the day for Uncle Sam by defeating Sergei Likhachev of Russia 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 with a fine exhibition of controlled tennis. Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., had all the shots and showed no ill effects from a cartilage operation on his knee.

Dell Also Beaten

Donald Dell of Bethseda, Md., who is fifth ranked in the United States, joined McKinley on the casualty list. Jaidip Mukerjea of India knocked him out 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Only three American men out of the original entry of 16 survived the second round of the singles. They are Ralston, Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., and Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif. Seven American girls out of an entry of 15 reached the third round.

Froehling went into the next round on a 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Bill Bowrey of Australia and Reed defeated Frew McMillan of South Africa 8-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

In addition to McKinley and Dell two other Americans were eliminated. John Fraser of Australia defeated Chris Crawford, Piedmont, Calif., 9-7, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 and Alan Mills, former British Davis Cup player, defeated Mal Fox, Baltimore, 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Laver Easy Victor

Justina Bricka, St. Louis, Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., all won their matches. They joined Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., Victoria Palmer of Phoenix Ariz., and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., in the third round.

Miss Bricka defeated Judy Alvarez, Tampa, Fla., 6-4, 6-3. Mrs. Susman beat Pat Hird, Britain, 8-6, 6-4, and Miss Richecy eliminated Mrs. Mary Hawton, Australia, 7-5, 7-5.

Rakow Hurls A's To 4-1 Triumph

Beats Washington For Second Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Right-hander Ed Rakow mastered the Washington Senators for the second time this season in pitching the Kansas City Athletics to a 4-1 victory Wednesday night.

Rakow scattered eight hits as he hurled his first complete contest since May 20 when he shut out the Senators. He lost another shutout Wednesday night when the Senators nudged over a run in the ninth inning. Rakow now has a record of six wins and nine defeats.

Kansas City jumped in front with two unearned runs in the fourth inning. George Alusik reached first on Ken Hamlin's error. With two out, Norm Siebern walked and Ed Charles doubled both runners home.

The A's picked up another run in the sixth on Gino Cimoli's triple and Manny Jimenez's single. In the seventh, Joe Azcue singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Billy Consolo's single.

Steve Johnson Qualifies For Jaycees Golf Finals

Beats Bob Roberts In 9 Extra Holes To Finish Fourth

Steve Johnson of Cumberland, defending state champion, had to battle nine extra holes yesterday to defeat Bob Roberts of Baltimore by a stroke in a "sudden death" playoff for fourth place in the Maryland State Jaycees Golf Tournament at College Park.

The victory enables Johnson to qualify along with three other Marylanders for the national finals at Huntington, W. Va.

Winner of the state tournament was Kent Kittle of Bethesda who fired a 71 on his second round for a 145 and a three-stroke lead over runner-up Mel Rifman of Baltimore who had 74-74—148.

Third was Bill Watson of Catonsville who shot 71-79—150 while Johnson and Roberts finished with 151. Steve fired a 74-77 for his 151 while Roberts had 77-74 for the deadlock.

Both players, fighting for the fourth and last qualifying spot for Maryland, halved the first eight holes in the playoff, all with pars except for double bogies on the par three fourth hole.

Johnson then captured the playoff with a birdie four on the par-5 ninth hole while Roberts holed out in par figures.

Pirates Top Mets In 10th

Skinner's Single Wins 6-5 For Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Skinner's bloop single drove in Bill Virdon with the run Wednesday night that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-5, 10-inning victory over the New York Mets.

Skinner's blow came off Roger Craig, who went the distance for the Mets and incurred his 10th loss against four victories.

The two teams see-sawed back and forth through the regulation game which ended at 5-5.

Pittsburgh scored first, counting twice in the first inning on a pair of hits, a hit batsman and a fielder's choice. The Mets tied it at 2-all in the second on a walk and two singles.

They went ahead in the third on Frank Thomas' double and a single by Charlie Neal. Pittsburgh knotted the count in the fifth when Virdon cracked the second of his four singles to drive in Bill Mazeroski.

Thomas gave the Mets a short lived lead in the seventh when he hit his 14th home run of the year with Richie Ashburn on base. It was Thomas' first homer since May 25th.

Ashburn had two hits for the night, giving him a total of 2,501 in his major league career. He is one of only 39 players to achieve that mark.

Old Germans Beaten, 3-1

Sports Shoppe Hands Leaders First Loss

Rich Smith and the Sports Shoppe tossers turned back the league-leading Old Germans yesterday, 3-1, at Stitcher field to hand the Old Gees their first loss in the Rec Softball League. The setback snapped a seven-game winning streak for the Old Germans.

A walk and doubles by Buddy Meade and Mike Lease, a single by Ernie Nimmons and a sacrifice fly by Rich Smith plated all three Sports Shoppe runs in the fourth inning off losing pitcher Ernie Condon.

Smith held the Old Germans to one hit, a fifth inning single by Dick Rudolph. The losers scored their lone run in the sixth on a walk, two errors and another pass with the bases full. Smith got out of the inning by fanning two batters and getting another to pop out.

In other Rec League tilts yesterday, Post's walloped Potomac Edison, 18-2, at Post Field and the Old Exports downed Snyder's Grocery, 10-5, at Rolling Mill field.

Donnie Irons hit a homer, triple and double, Bill Burke had a double and home run, and Ed Reynolds smacked a pair of two-baggers and a single to lead the Post hitting parade.

AFL Defers Expansion

Loop Throws Open Franchise Bidding

BOSTON (UPI) — The American Football League decided Wednesday to defer until late fall any decision on proposed expansion to nine or 10 teams.

At the same time, the two-year-old challenger to the National Football League's professional football supremacy threw open the new franchise bidding to a reported nine groups representing eight cities.

The move to delay decision on the expansion question came in reply to formal bids from syndicates proposing new teams for the 1963 season in New Orleans, Kansas City, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said all three bidders had met the league's preliminary franchise requirments but that the owners had voted unanimosly to further investigate the expansion candidates and the league's position.

The delayed decision meant it was unlikely the league would add any new entries before the 1962 season.

The other groups reported seeking AFL entry include a second Kansas City syndicate,and groups representing Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio, and Seattle, Wash., plus two groups representing undisclosed cities.

Rakow Hurls A's To 4-1 Triumph

Beats Washington For Second Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Right-hander Ed Rakow mastered the Washington Senators for the second time this season in pitching the Kansas City Athletics to a 4-1 victory Wednesday night.

Rakow scattered eight hits as he hurled his first complete contest since May 20 when he shut out the Senators. He lost another shutout Wednesday night when the Senators nudged over a run in the ninth inning. Rakow now has a record of six wins and nine defeats.

Kansas City jumped in front with two unearned runs in the fourth inning. George Alusik reached first on Ken Hamlin's error. With two out, Norm Siebern walked and Ed Charles doubled both runners home.

The A's picked up another run in the sixth on Gino Cimoli's triple and Manny Jimenez's single. In the seventh, Joe Azcue singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Billy Consolo's single.

Steve Johnson Qualifies For Jaycees Golf Finals

Beats Bob Roberts In 9 Extra Holes To Finish Fourth

Steve Johnson of Cumberland, defending state champion, had to battle nine extra holes yesterday to defeat Bob Roberts of Baltimore by a stroke in a "sudden death" playoff for fourth place in the Maryland State Jaycees Golf Tournament at College Park.

The victory enables Johnson to qualify along with three other Marylanders for the national finals at Huntington, W. Va.

Winner of the state tournament was Kent Kittle of Bethesda who fired a 71 on his second round for a 145 and a three-stroke lead over runner-up Mel Rifman of Baltimore who had 74-74—148.

Third was Bill Watson of Catonsville who shot 71-79—150 while Johnson and Roberts finished with 151. Steve fired a 74-77 for his 151 while Roberts had 77-74 for the deadlock.

Both players, fighting for the fourth and last qualifying spot for Maryland, halved the first eight holes in the playoff, all with pars except for double bogies on the par three fourth hole.

Johnson then captured the playoff with a birdie four on the par-5 ninth hole while Roberts holed out in par figures.

Pirates Top Mets In 10th

Skinner's Single Wins 6-5 For Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Skinner's bloop single drove in Bill Virdon with the run Wednesday night that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-5, 10-inning victory over the New York Mets.

Skinner's blow came off Roger Craig, who went the distance for the Mets and incurred his 10th loss against four victories.

The two teams see-sawed back and forth through the regulation game which ended at 5-5.

Pittsburgh scored first, counting twice in the first inning on a pair of hits, a hit batsman and a fielder's choice. The Mets tied it at 2-all in the second on a walk and two singles.

They went ahead in the third on Frank Thomas' double and a single by Charlie Neal. Pittsburgh knotted the count in the fifth when Virdon cracked the second of his four singles to drive in Bill Mazeroski.

Thomas gave the Mets a short lived lead in the seventh when he hit his 14th home run of the year with Richie Ashburn on base. It was Thomas' first homer since May 25th.

Ashburn had two hits for the night, giving him a total of 2,501 in his major league career. He is one of only 39 players to achieve that mark.

Old Germans Beaten, 3-1

Sports Shoppe Hands Leaders First Loss

Rich Smith and the Sports Shoppe tossers turned back the league-leading Old Germans yesterday, 3-1, at Stitchcer field to hand the Old Gees their first loss in the Rec Softball League. The setback snapped a seven-game winning streak for the Old Germans.

A walk and doubles by Buddy Meade and Mike Lease, a single by Ernie Nimmons and a sacrifice fly by Rich Smith plated all three Sports Shoppe runs in the fourth inning off losing pitcher Ernie Condon.

Smith held the Old Germans to one hit, a fifth inning single by Dick Rudolph. The losers scored their lone run in the sixth on a walk, two errors and another pass with the bases full. Smith got out of the inning by fanning two batters and getting another to pop out.

In other Rec League tilts yesterday, Post's walloped Potomac Edison, 18-2, at Post Field and the Old Exports downed Snyder's Grocery, 10-5, at Rolling Mill field.

Donnie Irons hit a homer, triple and double, Bill Burke had a double and home run, and Ed Reynolds smacked a pair of two-baggers and a single to lead the Post hitting parade.

Sammy Perlozzo's two-run homer with two out was the deciding blow in the rally, coming after Dave Coffman had doubled the first two runs across in the sixth.

Lefty John Chaney was touched for 12 hits by the Cardinals but had kept them well scattered until the fatal sixth, holding a 5-2 lead.

Perlozzo collected a single in addition to his home run, Coffman had a pair of two-baggers, Walter Orndorff hit a double and single and Ed Hollen smacked a double and triple in the Cardinal attack. Bob Fisher and Jack Kaker had a single and double apiece for the Red Sox.

In another Dapper Division contest at Constitution Park, the Pirates broke loose for a 12-2 thumping of the winless Cubs. Jimmy Stafford pitched a seven-hitter for the winners who snapped a two-game losing streak. Corley was the loser.

Stafford had a pair of doubles, Dale Smith smacked a three-run homer and a single and Oscar Lewis had two singles for the Pirates. Lewis also played an outstanding game at shortstop for the winners.

AFL Defers Expansion

Loop Throws Open Franchise Bidding

BOSTON (UPI) — The American Football League decided Wednesday to defer until late fall any decision on proposed expansion to nine or 10 teams.

At the same time, the two-year-old challenger to the National Football League's professional football supremacy threw open the new franchise bidding to a reported nine groups representing eight cities.

The move to delay decision on the expansion question came in reply to formal bids from syndicates proposing new teams for the 1963 season in New Orleans, Kansas City, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said all three bidders had met the league's preliminary franchise requirments but that the owners had voted unanimously to further investigate the expansion candidates and the league's position.

The delayed decision meant it was unlikely the league would add any new entries before the 1962 season.

The other groups reported seeking AFL entry include a second Kansas City syndicate,and groups representing Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio, and Seattle, Wash., plus two groups representing undisclosed cities.

Paul Foytack Stops Indians On Six-Hitter

Dick Donovan Loser; Cash, Farley Pace Bengals' Attack

DETROIT (UPI)—Paul Foytack tamed the Cleveland Indians on six hits Wednesday as the Detroit Tigers whipped the league leaders' Dick Donovan, 4-0, for their second victory over Donovan this season.

Foytack, who has become the most effective pitcher on the Detroit staff since developing a baffling knuckler, had the Indians guessing as he earned his sixth victory against only one defeat.

Donovan has won 11 games while losing only three, including the two setbacks at the hands of the Tigers.

A throwing error by Donovan in the opening inning let in Billy Bruton with the only run Detroit needed for victory. Bob Farley's double sparked a four-hit splurge off Donovan in the second as the Tigers made it 3-0.

Don Lee Hurls Los Angelss Win

BOSTON (AP)—Don Lee, with ninth inning help from Dean Chance, stifled the Boston Red Sox on five hits Wednesday as the Los Angeles Angels bounced back from Tuesday night's no-hit defeat and posted a 3-0 victory.

Lee, son of former Cleveland hurler Thorny Lee, walked Pete Runnels and gave up a single to Bob Tillman to start the ninth. Chance came on and retired the next three batters.

The Angels scored twice in the fifth inning. Joe Koppe walked as lead-off batter, Lee sacrificed to second, Alibe Pearson grounded out and Billy Moran singled to left for one run.

Moran went to second on the throw to the plate and scored when Leon Wagner got a ground rule double down the first base line.

The final Los Angeles run came in the eighth without benefit of a hit. Moran walked as the first batter to face reliever Arnold Earlye, who had taken over for starter Ike Delock. Frank Malzone threw wild to first base on Wagner's ground ball and runners were on second and third. Lee Thomas brought in Moran with a sacrifice fly to left field.

Cards Capture Two Shutouts From Chicago

Jackson, Sadecki Post 4-0, 8-0 Wins

CHICAGO (AP)—The surging St. Louis Cardinals rolled to their fourth and fifth straight victories Wednesday by sweeping a double shutout 4-0 and 8-0 from the Chicago Cubs behind the spectacular pitching of veteran Larry Jackson and southpaw Ray Sadecki.

Jackson, balancing his record at 7-7, yielded just four singles in the first game. Sadecki posted his fifth win among nine decisions via a five-hitter in the nightcap.

The Cardinals, settling for seven singles and a double in the opener, packed three homers into a four-run sixth. Catcher Carl Sawatski, who entered the game after Gene Oliver was chased following a third inning argument with umpire Frank Walsh, opened with his sixth.

Julian Javier and Curt Flood then hit back-to-back homers to kayo starter Bob Anderson with his fifth loss. Javier's homer was his third as Flood poled his seventh. Sawatski homered a second time off Don Elston in the ninth after Ken Boyer walked.

Tom Tresh Has Four RBIs; Jim Kaat Is Loser In Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, held to four runs in their last 36 innings, erupted for six in the first three frames Wednesday and went on to beat the Minnesota Twins 7-3. Ralph Terry won his ninth, tops for the Yanks.

Roger Maris' 13th home run and a homer and a two-run single by shortstop Tom Tresh were the big blows for the Yankees. Tresh received credit for his fourth run batted in in the third inning when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded.

The Yankees jumped on lefthander Jim Kaat, who had won seven in a row, for six of their runs and eight hits, before Ted Sadowski relieved him in the third. Kaat is now 8-5 on the year.

Terry, who ran his record to 9-7, served his 20th home run of the year, in the seventh, to Don Mincher. He also gave up single runs in the third and sixth, with a Vic Power double figuring in both. Power drove home the first run and scored on a Bob Allison single.

Minoso Joins Cardinal Drills

CHICAGO (UPI) — Outfielder Minnie Minoso participated in batting practice Wednesday with the St. Louis Cardinals but was not allowed to take a full swing.

Palmer, Nicklaus Join Field For Western Open

Play Each Other First Two Rounds; $10,000 Top Prize

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Palmer is up in the air over his chances to gain revenge on Jack Nicklaus and repeat as champion in the 59th Western Open golf tourney starting Thursday.

Palmer arrived at heavily-wooded Medinah Country Club Wednesday morning and immediately sized up the "big bear" course in a helicopter tour over the menacing par 71, 7,110-yard layout.

By the luck of the draw, Nicklaus and Palmer—playoff antagonists in the U.S. Open at Oakmont, Pa., two weeks ago—will match strokes in the first two rounds of the venerable Western which carries a $10,000 top prize.

Palmer, after his aerial sighting of Medinah, hustled through a practice round, trying to catch up with the 22-year-old Nicklaus, who already had shot 70 and 72 trial rounds on the course he described as the toughest he ever has tested.

This, by no means, figures to be a two-man battle over a course a pundit at the 1949 U.S. Open over Medinah described as "a place where old elephants come to die." Cary Middlecoff won that event with 286, 2-over-par.

No fewer than 11 former champions in the field of 135 will try to break up the Nicklaus-Palmer act, including such recent Western titlists as Stan Leonard (1960), Mike Souchak (1959), Doug Sanders (1958) and Doug Ford, who survived a four-way playoff with George Bayer, Gene Littler and Billy Maxwell to win in 1957.

Two notable scratches were Bob Rosburg, whose father is ill at Palo Alto, Calif., and Mason Rudolph, reported ill at Beecher, Ill.

Sam Snead, who scored a 1949-50 Western Open sweep, is here and so are such ancients as amateur Chick Evans, who won a match play version in 1910, and Johnny Revolta, 1935 champ.

Paul Foytack Stops Indians On Six-Hitter

Dick Donovan Loser; Cash, Farley Pace Bengals' Attack

DETROIT (UPI)—Paul Foytack tamed the Cleveland Indians on six hits Wednesday as the Detroit Tigers whipped the league leaders' Dick Donovan, 4-0, for their second victory over Donovan this season.

Foytack, who has become the most effective pitcher on the Detroit staff since developing a baffling knuckler, had the Indians guessing as he earned his sixth victory against only one defeat.

Donovan has won 11 games while losing only three, including the two setbacks at the hands of the Tigers.

A throwing error by Donovan in the opening inning let in Billy Bruton with the only run Detroit needed for victory. Bob Farley's double sparked a four-hit splurge off Donovan in the second as the Tigers made it 3-0.

Don Lee Hurls Los Angelss Win

BOSTON (AP)—Don Lee, with ninth inning help from Dean Chance, stifled the Boston Red Sox on five hits Wednesday as the Los Angeles Angels bounced back from Tuesday night's no-hit defeat and posted a 3-0 victory.

Lee, son of former Cleveland hurler Thorny Lee, walked Pete Runnels and gave up a single to Bob Tillman to start the ninth. Chance came on and retired the next three batters.

The Angels scored twice in the fifth inning. Joe Koppe walked as lead-off batter, Lee sacrificed to second, Alibe Pearson grounded out and Billy Moran singled to left for one run.

Moran went to second on the throw to the plate and scored when Leon Wagner got a ground rule double down the first base line.

The final Los Angeles run came in the eighth without benefit of a hit. Moran walked as the first batter to face reliever Arnold Earlye, who had taken over for starter Ike Delock. Frank Malzone threw wild to first base on Wagner's ground ball and runners were on second and third. Lee Thomas brought in Moran with a sacrifice fly to left field.

Cards Capture Two Shutouts From Chicago

Jackson, Sadecki Post 4-0, 8-0 Wins

CHICAGO (AP)—The surging St. Louis Cardinals rolled to their fourth and fifth straight victories Wednesday by sweeping a double shutout 4-0 and 8-0 from the Chicago Cubs behind the spectacular pitching of veteran Larry Jackson and southpaw Ray Sadecki.

Jackson, balancing his record at 7-7, yielded just four singles in the first game. Sadecki posted his fifth win among nine decisions via a five-hitter in the nightcap.

The Cardinals, settling for seven singles and a double in the opener, packed three homers into a four-run sixth. Catcher Carl Sawatski, who entered the game after Gene Oliver was chased following a third inning argument with umpire Frank Walsh, opened with his sixth.

Julian Javier and Curt Flood then hit back-to-back homers to kayo starter Bob Anderson with his fifth loss. Javier's homer was his third as Flood poled his seventh. Sawatski homered a second time off Don Elston in the ninth after Ken Boyer walked.

Maris Smacks Homer; Terry Cops 9th Win

Tom Tresh Has Four RBIs; Jim Kaat Is Loser In Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, held to four runs in their last 36 innings, erupted for six in the first three frames Wednesday and went on to beat the Minnesota Twins 7-3. Ralph Terry won his ninth, tops for the Yanks.

Roger Maris' 13th home run and a homer and a two-run single by shortstop Tom Tresh were the big blows for the Yankees. Tresh received credit for his fourth run batted in in the third inning when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded.

The Yankees jumped on lefthander Jim Kaat, who had won seven in a row, for six of their runs and eight hits, before Ted Sadowski relieved him in the third. Kaat is now 8-5 on the year.

Terry, who ran his record to 9-7, served his 20th home run of the year, in the seventh, to Don Mincher. He also gave up single runs in the third and sixth, with a Vic Power double figuring in both. Power drove home the first run and scored on a Bob Allison single.

Minoso Joins Cardinal Drills

CHICAGO (UPI) — Outfielder Minnie Minoso participated in batting practice Wednesday with the St. Louis Cardinals but was not allowed to take a full swing.

Minoso fractured his skull when he banged into a wall May 11 in St. Louis chasing a fly ball off the bat of Duke Snider of Los Angeles. Two days later it was discovered Minoso also fractured his wrist.

Palmer, Nicklaus Join Field For Western Open

Play Each Other First Two Rounds; $10,000 Top Prize

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Palmer is up in the air over his chances to gain revenge on Jack Nicklaus and repeat as champion in the 59th Western Open golf tourney starting Thursday.

Palmer arrived at heavily-wooded Medinah Country Club Wednesday morning and immediately sized up the "big bear" course in a helicopter tour over the menacing par 71, 7,110-yard layout.

By the luck of the draw, Nicklaus and Palmer—playoff antagonists in the U.S. Open at Oakmont, Pa., two weeks ago—will match strokes in the first two rounds of the venerable Western which carries a $10,000 top prize.

Palmer, after his aerial sighting of Medinah, hustled through a practice round, trying to catch up with the 22-year-old Nicklaus, who already had shot 70 and 72 trial rounds on the course he described as the toughest he ever has tested.

This, by no means, figures to be a two-man battle over a course a pundit at the 1949 U.S. Open over Medinah described as "a place where old elephants come to die." Cary Middlecoff won that event with 286, 2-over-par.

No fewer than 11 former champions in the field of 135 will try to break up the Nicklaus-Palmer act, including such recent Western titlists as Stan Leonard (1960), Mike Souchak (1959), Doug Sanders (1958) and Doug Ford, who survived a four-way playoff with George Bayer, Gene Littler and Billy Maxwell to win in 1957.

Two notable scratches were Bob Rosburg, whose father is ill at Palo Alto, Calif., and Mason Rudolph, reported ill at Beecher, Ill.

Sam Snead, who scored a 1949-50 Western Open sweep, is here and so are such ancients as amateur Chick Evans, who won a match play version in 1910, and Johnny Revolta, 1935 champ.

BIRDIE DOGS—Paulette (Feather) Frechette, 14, and her four dogs make a regular quintet on the 9-hole Clarkston Country Club course in Clarkston, Mich. She says her two collies (on her right), Frances and Sandy, and her shepherd (on her left) Grandpa, are well-mannered and quiet when she addresses the ball. But Hornigan (in front) barks his impatience if she takes too much time.

Giants Defeat Cincinnati, 6-3

Ed Bailey's Homer Breaks Deadlock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Catcher Ed Bailey walloped his second key home run against his former teammates in as many games and his two-run blast Wednesday sent San Francisco to a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati.

The 390-foot smash over the right field fence in the sixth inning broke a 3-3 deadlock and maintained the Giants' National League lead.

Only about 17 hours before, Bailey's grand slammer had tied the count at 4-4 en route to a 6-5 victory in the 10th to take the league lead from Los Angeles.

Reliever Bob Bolin came out the winner, putting his mark at 1-0. He did not give up a hit in the last 3 2-3 innings.

Claude Harmon Refused Berth In British Open

Lacked Proper "Identification"

NEW YORK (AP)—Claude Harmon, one of America's best-known golf professionals, has been turned down for the British Open Golf Championship next month—for a very weird reason.

"The only thing I can figure out is that they never heard of me over there," the former Masters champion and head professional of the famed Winged Foot Country Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., lamented Wednesday.

Here's the sequence of events: Harmon decided a few weeks ago to play in the British Open. Like Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Sam Snead and others planning to take part, he was advised to file his entry by cable through the U.S. Golf Association.

Claude did this. When days and finally weeks passed without confirmation, Harmon double-checked with Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA.

"They said your entry wasn't accepted because it lacked proper identification," Dey told the Winged Foot pro.

"That's just a nice way of saying they never heard of me," Harmon said. "It's very embarrassing."

Harmon won the Masters tournament in 1948 and played that year in the British Open. This year his 137 was the second lowest qualifying score for the U.S. Open, topped only by Charley Sifford's 136.

Crimson Satan Loses Purse At Delaware Park

Illegal Drug Is Found In Test

STANTON, Del. (AP)—Crimson Satan, hard luck 3-year-old of the year, was disqualified Wednesday as winner of last Saturday's $42,500 Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park because of an illegal drug detected in a post race urinalysis.

The Delaware State Racing Commission ordered the Richards' purse re-distributed as the result of a report by its official chemist.

As a result, Crimson Satan, owned by Peter Salmen, Sr. of Detroit loses the $30,500 purse. It now goes to Noble Jay, who finished second, 1½ lengths off the pace.

Cyane, third in the field of six 3-year-olds, receives the $6,500 second money. Smart, fourth in the original race, moves up to be receipient of $3,500 show money, and Water Hole, fifth on Saturday, gets fourth money of $2,000.

Gordon Potter, trainer of Crimson Satan, said his horse has had an unusual amount of sickness this year, including kidney trouble, a sinus condition and recurring difficulty with a leg. As a result of these ailments, Potter said, the horse has been given butazolidin, which is illegal in many thoroughbred racing states, including Delaware.

Potter explained, however, that it was not administered as a regular thing. He (Crimson Satan) has had other medication, including antihistamines to dry up the post nasal drip from his sinusitis.

"Crimson Satan had butazolidin no later than Sunday, June 17, or Monday, June 18, quite a few days prior to the race."

Potter said further he trusted his groom and his watchman and was at a loss to explain the predicament.

Fan Appreciation Day Set Friday At Charles Town

Patrons will be admitted free for the 10-race program and some of them will leave the track with door prizes. The gifts include a 1962 car, air conditioner, television set and radios.

The first free admission day at Charles Town was last Wednesday. Some 6,700 persons braved an all-day rain to take advantage of the offer.

The Charles Town management is staging the open house in appreciation of fan support, which has increased attendance over last year's figures. The 36-day summer meet ends Saturday.

Claude Harmon Refused Berth In British Open

Lacked Proper "Identification"

NEW YORK (AP)—Claude Harmon, one of America's best-known golf professionals, has been turned down for the British Open Golf Championship next month—for a very weird reason.

"The only thing I can figure out is that they never heard of me over there," the former Masters champion and head professional of the famed Winged Foot Country Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., lamented Wednesday.

Here's the sequence of events: Harmon decided a few weeks ago to play in the British Open. Like Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Sam Snead and others planning to take part, he was advised to file his entry by cable through the U.S. Golf Association.

Claude did this. When days and finally weeks passed without confirmation, Harmon double-checked with Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA.

"They said your entry wasn't accepted because it lacked proper identification," Dey told the Winged Foot pro.

"That's just a nice way of saying they never heard of me," Harmon said. "It's very embarrassing."

Harmon won the Masters tournament in 1948 and played that year in the British Open. This year his 137 was the second lowest qualifying score for the U.S. Open, topped only by Charley Sifford's 136.

Dan Tigers Belt Senators, 13-5, For Fourth Win

The Tigers exploded in two big innings, scoring five in the first and seven more in the fourth, to swamp the Senators, 13-5, in a Dan Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League, played at Allegany field.

Glenn Cross, taking over in the third inning with the score knotted at 5-5, was the recipient of the seven-run outburst and picked up his second mound victory in relief this week for the Tigers.

Tim Finan blasted a home run and single and Rick Scaletta belted a double and a triple to pace the Tigers' attack. Mervin Uhl and Tommy Green chipped in with a pair of singles apiece for the winners.

Crimson Satan Loses Purse At Delaware Park

Illegal Drug Is Found In Test

STANTON, Del. (AP)—Crimson Satan, hard luck 3-year-old of the year, was disqualified Wednesday as winner of last Saturday's $42,500 Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park because of an illegal drug detected in a post race urinalysis.

The Delaware State Racing Commission ordered the Richards' purse re-distributed as the result of a report by its official chemist.

As a result, Crimson Satan, owned by Peter Salmen, Sr. of Detroit loses the $30,500 purse. It now goes to Noble Jay, who finished second, 1½ lengths off the pace.

Cyane, third in the field of six 3-year-olds, receives the $6,500 second money. Smart, fourth in the original race, moves up to be receipient of $3,500 show money, and Water Hole, fifth on Saturday, gets fourth money of $2,000.

Gordon Potter, trainer of Crimson Satan, said his horse has had an unusual amount of sickness this year, including kidney trouble, a sinus condition and recurring difficulty with a leg. As a result of these ailments, Potter said, the horse has been given butazolidin, which is illegal in many thoroughbred racing states, including Delaware.

Potter explained, however, that it was not administered as a regular thing. He (Crimson Satan) has had other medication, including antihistamines to dry up the post nasal drip from his sinusitis.

"Crimson Satan had butazolidin no later than Sunday, June 17, or Monday, June 18, quite a few days prior to the race."

Potter said further he trusted his groom and his watchman and was at a loss to explain the predicament.

Fan Appreciation Day Set Friday At Charles Town

Patrons will be admitted free for the 10-race program and some of them will leave the track with door prizes. The gifts include a 1962 car, air conditioner, television set and radios.

The first free admission day at Charles Town was last Wednesday. Some 6,700 persons braved an all-day rain to take advantage of the offer.

The Charles Town management is staging the open house in appreciation of fan support, which has increased attendance over last year's figures. The 36-day summer meet ends Saturday.

Thomas Appeals INT Suspension

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Minor League President George Trautman said Wednesday Rochester Valmy Thomas had appealed his 30-day suspension.

Thomas was accused of attacking Umpire Ted Lopat after the official ejected him from a game June 16 in Jacksonville, Fla. Thomas was playing for Jacksonville at the time, but was traded the next day to Rochester. Both are International League clubs.

Rochester sent Thomas back to Jacksonville Wednesday and voided the trade.

Giants Defeat Cincinnati, 6-3

Ed Bailey's Homer Breaks Deadlock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Catcher Ed Bailey walloped his second key home run against his former teammates in as many games and his two-run blast Wednesday sent San Francisco to a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati.

The 390-foot smash over the right field fence in the sixth inning broke a 3-3 deadlock and maintained the Giants' National League lead.

Only about 17 hours before, Bailey's grand slammer had tied the count at 4-4 en route to a 6-5 victory in the 10th to take the league lead from Los Angeles.

Reliever Bob Bolin came out the winner, putting his mark at 1-0. He did not give up a hit in the last 3 2-3 innings.

Harvey Kuenn and Felipe Alou also homered for the Giants, the latter with nobody on in the eighth for the final tally.

MRS. MINNIE FROST TURNER

Descendant Of Founder Still Lives

The only living member of the third generation of the founders of Frostburg, Meshack and Catherine Majers Frost, is residing in the Goodwill Mennonite Home in Grantsville.

She is Mrs. Millie Frost Turner who celebrated her 94th birthday on November 22, 1961.

Mrs. Turner was born in La-Vale in 1867 in the house still standing and owned by Dr. C. N. Foose, veterinarian, located on Route 40 at Long.

She was the fifth daughter of Ormand Hammond Frost and Margaret Logsdon Frost. Others in her immediate family were Catherine, Ella, Winfred, Ann, Bessie and Joseph, all deceased.

In 1893, Mrs. Turner was married to James Henry Turner of Garrett County. The couple had eight children, four of whom are living, Thomas Frost Turner, Frostburg; Silas E. Turner, La-Vale; Mrs. Guy S. Stanton, Grantsville, and Mrs. Byard A. McKenzie, Lonaconing. Deceased children were Joshua Turner, Sarah Ellen Hummel, and Margaret and Henry, the latter two dying in infancy.

Mrs. Turner has 25 living grandchildren; a host of great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

While stricken with the infirmities of age, Mrs. Turner enjoys comparative good health.

Coal Aplenty

Philip T. Tyson, state geologist, in shortly after the Civil War, explored the Georges Creek region and found 68 square miles of surface underlaid by 36 veins of coal ranging in thickness from a few inches to 14 feet, the latter being the Pittsburgh or Big Vein.

The U. S. Census Bureau estimated that 1 in 5 couples lives to celebrate its 50th wedding anniversary.

READY FOR THE PROMENADE — Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, 23 West Main Street, Frostburg, are shown in their "get-up" for the promenades held weekly during the days leading up to the Sesquicentennial. They are reportedly the oldest couple to be actively participating in the events. Mr. Jenkins is a retired coal operator and remains, as he has in the past, active in civic affairs.

Beard Judging Contest Planned On Final Day

A beard contest will be held by the Brothers of The Brush in accordance with the Frostburg Sesquicentennial at the Beall High School stadium Saturday July 7, with judging from 7:30-8:45 p. m.

The "beard-growers" must be a resident of the Frostburg area or be working in that area and a Brother of the Brush to be eligible for the contest.

Ribbons will be given for the first, second and third places in the contest with seven contestants with full beards vying for electric shavers.

In the best-of-kind division, contestants will be judged for best psorpector beard, best Vandyke or goatee, best mutton chops, best sideburns and goatee, best diplomat or impersonation of a former famous person, fanciest beard or most kissable beard, most fuzz on face (For those entrants under 18 years of age.), best moustache, most distinguished moustache, longest beard and the best overall beard will receive a $25 savings bond.

All beards to be judged must be of a natural color, and any entrant may enter more than one class, but if he wins a class, he is automatically disqualified from the others.

Brothers of the Brush will be admitted free to the pageant through the east gate of the stadium.

Flute Displayed

FROSTBURG — A wooden flute, said to have been used by the Indian guide Nemacolin, is on display in the library at Frostburg State Teachers College.

John Zimmerman, librarian, said the musical instrument was given to the library several years ago by a faculty member who had received it from Fred Wehner, formerly of Frostburg. The flute is a hollow wooden stick about 18 inches long and is decorated with beads, feathers and leather braids.

Pageant To Tell History Of City

15 Episodes To Be Presented Nightly At Beall High Stadium

Fifteen episodes are included in the pageant which will feature the Sesquicentennial celebration in Frostburg.

The pageant will be presented by John B. Rogers Production under the direction and staging of Leo E. Spaeth. Hundreds will participate in costume at the Beall High Frostburg's First Citizen, Meshack Frost, introduces the pageant, beginning the portrayal with the present as people converge into streets as they might do under hypothetical threat of atomic attack which leaves chaos in its wake. Then at the word of a Shawnee chief, time flashes back to the dawning of history.

The ancient village of the Shawnees is the focal point of Episode One and the chief is intoning the ritual of the Calumet as he offers smoke to the Four Winds. Indian maidens perform the "Dance of the Green Corn," and, ceremonials over, the tribe travels to the green vale atop the mountain.

Scene Two of the pageant portrays Col. Thomas Cresap and his aide, Nemacolin, as they plan the course of their historic trail and in Scene Three Washington, now an officer of the British armed forces, is commissioned by Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia in 1753 to carry a message to the French that they are encroaching upon English territory and ordering immediate evacuation.

In Episode Three, it is 1755 and the defeat of Major General Edward Braddock is reenacted.

Episode Four deals with the early settlers attracted to lots parcelled out by Meshack Frost and in the next scene a Sabbath Day of long ago is re-created.

Tribute is paid to institutions of learning in Frostburg in Episode Six, dating from the ancient little schoolroom.

The arrival of the first railroad train in Frostburg in 1852 is depicted in Episode Seven, followed in Episode Eight by commemoration of the heroism of men on both sides in the Civil War. Abraham Lincoln is the central figure in this scene.

Visit to the early coal mines, going back to 1829, is the central theme of Episode 10 of the pageant. It was then the first charter was issued for procuring "black diamonds." Development of the industry is also shown.

"Turn of the Century" is the theme of Episode 11 and spectators will see a July 4th picnic, circa 1900. It is complete with bathing beauties of the era and show girls who shock even the most debonair with their version of "The Can Can." Then a "grand opery singer from Cumberland murders a popular ballad" but is saved as picnickers dash off to a fire.

Tribute is also paid to fallen heroes of World War 1 and World War 2 in ensuing episodes.

Another features the "Roaring Twenties" in which grandfather is lured by a bobbed-haired "flapper." A dance, "The Charleston," is featured in this scene.

"To the Future" is the finale, the cast returning to summarize, in one moment all that has gone before. Feaured are the nation's queens representing various countries from which forefathers came; the royal court of sesquicentennial princesses, the Sesquicentennial queen, the singing of the National Anthem, and the final event, a fireworks display.

Church Day Scheduled On Sunday

Sunday will be Church Day in the calendar of events marking the Sesquicentennial of Frostburg.

In the morning Protestant Churches will have services in honor of the 150th birthday of the Mountain City.

Then at 5 p. m. in the quadrangle of Frostburg State Teachers College a solemn high field mass will be celebrated for Catholics.

Officers of the mass will be all former Frostburgers with the master of ceremonies, Rev. Regis F. Larkin, assistant pastor of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, being a native of Mt. Savage.

Celebrant will be Rev. Ross LaPorta, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Church, Baltimore; deacon, Rev. Robert Passarelli, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, Hagerstown, and subdeacon, Rev. Gerald LaPorta, assistant pastor at St. Joseph's Church.

The sermon will be given by Rev. Thomas J. O'Donnell, dean of the medical ethics department of the Georgetown University School of Medicine.

Two Fathers LaPorta and Fathers Passarelli and O'Donnell are all former altar boys at St. Michael's Church.

MRS. MINNIE FROST TURNER

Descendant Of Founder Still Lives

The only living member of the third generation of the founders of Frostburg, Meshack and Catherine Majers Frost, is residing in the Goodwill Mennonite Home in Grantsville.

She is Mrs. Millie Frost Turner who celebrated her 94th birthday on November 22, 1961.

Mrs. Turner was born in LaVale in 1867 in the house still standing and owned by Dr. C. N. Foose, veterinarian, located on Route 40 at Long.

She was the fifth daughter of Ormand Hammond Frost and Margaret Logsdon Frost. Others in her immediate family were Catherine, Ella, Winfred, Ann, Bessie and Joseph, all deceased.

In 1893, Mrs. Turner was married to James Henry Turner of Garrett County. The couple had eight children, four of whom are living, Thomas Frost Turner, Frostburg; Silas E. Turner, LaVale; Mrs. Guy S. Stanton, Grantsville, and Mrs. Byard A. McKenzie, Lonaconing. Deceased children were Joshua Turner, Sarah Ellen Hummel, and Margaret and Henry, the latter two dying in infancy.

Mrs. Turner has 25 living grandchildren; a host of great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

While stricken with the infirmities of age, Mrs. Turner enjoys comparative good health.

Coal Aplenty

Philip T. Tyson, state geologist, in shortly after the Civil War, explored the Georges Creek region and found 68 square miles of surface underlaid by 36 veins of coal ranging in thickness from a few inches to 14 feet, the latter being the Pittsburgh or Big Vein.

The U. S. Census Bureau estimated that 1 in 5 couples lives to celebrate its 50th wedding anniversary.

READY FOR THE PROMENADE — Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, 23 West Main Street, Frostburg, are shown in their "get-up" for the promenades held weekly during the days leading up to the Sesquicentennial. They are reportedly the oldest couple to be actively participating in the events. Mr. Jenkins is a retired coal operator and remains, as he has in the past, active in civic affairs.

Beard Judging Contest Planned On Final Day

A beard contest will be held by the Brothers of The Brush in accordance with the Frostburg Sesquicentennial at the Beall High School stadium Saturday July 7, with judging from 7:30-8:45 p. m.

The "beard-growers" must be a resident of the Frostburg area or be working in that area and a Brother of the Brush to be eligible for the contest.

Ribbons will be given for the first, second and third places in the contest with seven contestants with full beards vying for electric shavers.

In the best-of-kind division, contestants will be judged for best psorpector beard, best Vandyke or goatee, best mutton chops, best sideburns and goatee, best diplomat or impersonation of a former famous person, fanciest beard or most kissable beard, most fuzz on face (For those entrants under 18 years of age.), best moustache, most distinguished moustache, longest beard and the best overall beard will receive a $25 savings bond.

All beards to be judged must be of a natural color, and any entrant may enter more than one class, but if he wins a class, he is automatically disqualified from the others.

Brothers of the Brush will be admitted free to the pageant through the east gate of the stadium.

Flute Displayed

FROSTBURG — A wooden flute, said to have been used by the Indian guide Nemacolin, is on display in the library at Frostburg State Teachers College.

John Zimmerman, librarian, said the musical instrument was given to the library several years ago by a faculty member who had received it from Fred Wehner, formerly of Frostburg. The flute is a hollow wooden stick about 18 inches long and is decorated with beads, feathers and leather braids.

Pageant To Tell History Of City

15 Episodes To Be Presented Nightly At Beall High Stadium

Fifteen episodes are included in the pageant which will feature the Sesquicentennial celebration in Frostburg.

The pageant will be presented by John B. Rogers Production under the direction and staging of Leo E. Spaeth. Hundreds will participate in costume at the Beall High Frostburg's First Citizen, Meshack Frost, introduces the pageant, beginning the portrayal with the present as people converge into streets as they might do under hypothetical threat of atomic attack which leaves chaos in its wake. Then at the word of a Shawnee chief, time flashes back to the dawning of history.

The ancient village of the Shawnees is the focal point of Episode One and the chief is intoning the ritual of the Calumet as he offers smoke to the Four Winds. Indian maidens perform the "Dance of the Green Corn," and, ceremonials over, the tribe travels to the green vale atop the mountain.

Scene Two of the pageant portrays Col. Thomas Cresap and his aide, Nemacolin, as they plan the course of their historic trail and in Scene Three Washington, now an officer of the British armed forces, is commissioned by Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia in 1753 to carry a message to the French that they are encroaching upon English territory and ordering immediate evacuation.

In Episode Three, it is 1755 and the defeat of Major General Edward Braddock is reenacted.

Episode Four deals with the early settlers attracted to lots parcelled out by Meshack Frost and in the next scene a Sabbath Day of long ago is re-created.

Tribute is paid to institutions of learning in Frostburg in Episode Six, dating from the ancient little schoolroom.

The arrival of the first railroad train in Frostburg in 1852 is depicted in Episode Seven, followed in Episode Eight by commemoration of the heroism of men on both sides in the Civil War. Abraham Lincoln is the central figure in this scene.

Visit to the early coal mines, going back to 1829, is the central theme of Episode 10 of the pageant. It was then the first charter was issued for procuring "black diamonds." Development of the industry is also shown.

"Turn of the Century" is the theme of Episode 11 and spectators will see a July 4th picnic, circa 1900. It is complete with bathing beauties of the era and show girls who shock even the most debonair with their version of "The Can Can." Then a "grand opery singer from Cumberland murders a popular ballad" but is saved as picnickers dash off to a fire.

Tribute is also paid to fallen heroes of World War 1 and World War 2 in ensuing episodes.

Another features the "Roaring Twenties" in which grandfather is lured by a bobbed-haired "flapper." A dance, "The Charleston," is featured in this scene.

"To the Future" is the finale, the cast returning to summarize, in one moment all that has gone before. Feaured are the nation's queens representing various countries from which forefathers came; the royal court of sesquicentennial princesses, the Sesquicentennial queen, the singing of the National Anthem, and the final event, a fireworks display.

Church Day Scheduled On Sunday

Sunday will be Church Day in the calendar of events marking the Sesquicentennial of Frostburg.

In the morning Protestant Churches will have services in honor of the 150th birthday of the Mountain City.

Then at 5 p. m. in the quadrangle of Frostburg State Teachers College a solemn high field mass will be celebrated for Catholics.

Officers of the mass will be all former Frostburgers with the master of ceremonies, Rev. Regis F. Larkin, assistant pastor of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, being a native of Mt. Savage.

Celebrant will be Rev. Ross LaPorta, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Church, Baltimore; deacon, Rev. Robert Passarelli, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, Hagerstown, and subdeacon, Rev. Gerald LaPorta, assistant pastor at St. Joseph's Church.

The sermon will be given by Rev. Thomas J. O'Donnell, dean of the medical ethics department of the Georgetown University School of Medicine.

Two Fathers LaPorta and Fathers Passarelli and O'Donnell are all former altar boys at St. Michael's Church.

IMPORTANT LINK FOR FROSTBURG — Between 1929 and 1942 this rail motor car was used by the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad for passenger and light freight service between Cumberland and Westernport via Frostburg. The gasoline electric-powered car put into use with the steam locomotive hauled passenger train was not feasible economically. When it was sold in 1942, the C&P went out of the passenger business. The scene above is at the Frostburg depot.

C&P Furnished Passenger Service For Many Years

The familiar red motor rail car of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad was the beginning of the end for passenger traffic on the railway that linked Cumberland with Frostburg and the Georges Creek region.

In 1929, the C&P officials decided that passenger trade out of Cumberland and to Westernport had declined to the point where it was not feasible economically to continue a steam locomotive-hauled train.

The J. G. Brill Company of Philadelphia manufacturer of street cars and motor cars was hired to construct the rail motor car.

It was powered by a gasoline driven electric engine and was of all-steel construction.

In 1940, the timetable shows the motor car arriving in Cumberland daily at 7:50 a.m. and departing from the Queen City station at 8:20 for the return trip to Piedmont.

Another trip arrived in Cumberland at 12:01 p.m. and leaving the Queen City for Georges Creek at 3:20 a.m.

On Tuesdays and Fridays there were trips leaving Piedmont at 8:30 a.m. and arriving in Mt. Savage at 10:50 a.m., terminating the service there.

The return trip found the train leaving Mt. Savage at 11:53 a.m. and arriving in Piedmont at 2:30 p.m.

The motor car had many stops, including ones at Corriganville, Barrelville, Mt. Savage, Zihlman, Frostburg, and all of the towns in the Georges Creek Valley.

One time consuming factor in the service was making the switch-backs on the steep grade between Mt. Savage and Frostburg.

The train would go so far, then be switched backwards and proceed thusly in a zig zagging fashion up the Jennings Run Valley to the Frostburg Depot.

The train ran through a tunnel under Frostburg. Incidentally, this tunnel is still maintained and has been mentioned as a possible shelter.

Many residents recall the red C&P motor car as it glided through the country side, sounding its loud horn at crossings.

Passenger service finally fell victim to the automobile and bus lines and in 1942 the C&P gave it up.

The motor car was sold to the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railway, a New York commuter line, and used for several years. It has since been scrapped.

City Gets Water Over Mountain

The first major municipal undertaking for Frostburg came in the late 1800s when a first class water supply system was undertaken.

The city fathers constructed a dam on the Little Savage River about four miles west of Frostburg.

Around 1910, a second reservoir was built of concrete nearer the city at a cost of $9,000 with a capacity of 1,200,000 gallons.

The original impetus to the adequate water supply came after two bad fires in 1874 when many of the business places on Main Street were destroyed.

Later a second dam, the largest of the two, was located on Piney Run in Garrett County about seven miles west of Frostburg. Because of the long distance, the supply is only used when Little Savage cannot meet demands.

Water is pumped over Big Savage to the filtration plant located one half mile west of the city on the east slope of the mountain. The supply is filtered and purified here and stored in two large reservoirs until used.

There are over 2,000 subscribers within the city limits using water daily. In addition the city sells to the following small companies that purchase water and resell to their customers.

No new customers may be added to any of the above company lines without prior approval of the mayor and council.

This assures that an adequate supply must be available for local consumers before any additional water can be offered for sale.

James Kenney is the water and light commissioner. He supervises the water department which is a self-supporting unit, requiring no funds from city taxes for its operations.

The daily consumption averages around 425,000 gallons with the peak days being Mondays and Thursdays. Sunday has the smallest consumption.

City Gets Water Over Mountain

The first major municipal undertaking for Frostburg came in the late 1800s when a first class water supply system was undertaken.

The city fathers constructed a dam on the Little Savage River about four miles west of Frostburg.

Around 1910, a second reservoir was built of concrete nearer the city at a cost of $9,000 with a capacity of 1,200,000 gallons.

The original impetus to the adequate water supply came after two bad fires in 1874 when many of the business places on Main Street were destroyed.

Later a second dam, the largest of the two, was located on Piney Run in Garrett County about seven miles west of Frostburg. Because of the long distance, the supply is only used when Little Savage cannot meet demands.

Water is pumped over Big Savage to the filtration plant located one half mile west of the city on the east slope of the mountain. The supply is filtered and purified here and stored in two large reservoirs until used.

There are over 2,000 subscribers within the city limits using water daily. In addition the city sells to the following small companies that purchase water and resell to their customers.

No new customers may be added to any of the above company lines without prior approval of the mayor and council.

This assures that an adequate supply must be available for local consumers before any additional water can be offered for sale.

James Kenney is the water and light commissioner. He supervises the water department which is a self-supporting unit, requiring no funds from city taxes for its operations.

The daily consumption averages around 425,000 gallons with the peak days being Mondays and Thursdays. Sunday has the smallest consumption.

BRADDOCK STONE — Standing on a plot of ground beside the Midlothian Road near the Thomas G. Pullen School is the Braddock Stone supposed to have been erected by Gen. Braddock's troops. The stone narrowly escaped being part of step for a Frostburger's home as it was found split and ready to be laid by a stone mason. The worker cemented it together and returned it to its original position. Chiseled on the stone is the following: 11 mile to Ft. Cumberland 29 Ms To Captn Smth's Crossings The best Road To Redstone Old Fort 64 M.

Braddock Stone Nearly Became Part Of Home

Braddock's Stone located on a plot of ground near Thomas G. Pullen School, just off Midlothian Road, marked the spot where Gen. Braddock camped over night on his unsuccessful journey to Fort Duquesne in June 1755.

Many years ago in the early part of this century, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Allegany County Chapter, decided the stone should be protected.

However, when representatives went to the site where the stone was located they found it had been rolled away.

According to local legend as related by William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney who is a native of Frosburg and chroniclear of many occurrences there, Chief of Police Dick Thomas and Constable John Lewis found the stone after a three-week search.

They saw the stone, chiseled it into two pieces and were ready to put it into place when it was discovered.

However, the story has a happy ending, for the stone was cemented together and restored to its original place under the custody of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The founder of Frostburg, Meshack Frost, was also the pioneer coal operator of the Georges Creek bituminous field that was for many years to be the main industry of the western part of Allegany County.

Coal was discovered near Frostburg as early of 1782, but the first eastern shipment from the Maryland coal fields was not until 1820 when it was transported in barges down the Potomac River by the Potomac Navigation Company.

Then it was hauled by horse and wagon to Cumberland where an early glass works was located on West Side at a point near the present Arnett Widener property on Paca Street.

Coal mining did not come into its own until 1842 upon the completion of the extension of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to Cumberland and the finish of construction of the C&O Canal in 1850.

Since that time, Frostburg's development was hand in hand with the development of the coal industry.

They will sing "No Man Is An Island," "God Of Our Fathers," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "The God Who Gave Us Life Gave Us Liberty."

"Kangaroo Kourt" Draws

The "judge" has yet to find someone not guilty. All convicted men are then dunked by the "Keystone Kops" in a large portable swimming pool.

First Hotel

The National Pike reached Frostburg in 1812 and the first hotel was Highland Hall with the Franklin Hotel being constructed later for travelers east and west.

Neff Meeting House Used By Churches

In 1812 Rev. John George Butler of the English Lutheran Church of Cumberland organized the Lutherans of Frostburg and began holding services in the Old Neff Meeting House which stood on the Wright Farm near where Wright's Crossing is today.

The first building to be constructed solely as a church was in 1834. The congregation of the Frostburg Methodist Circuit acquired a title to a plot of ground on the west side of Main Street and built a small stone structure. It later was replaced by a frame edifice and in 1871 the present brick church occupied by First Methodist Church on the original site was constructed.

Frostburg's Arion Band Has Illustrious Career

With a background of immigrants who were musically-inclined during the 1800s when the coal fields were opened up in Frostburg, it was only natural that first class musical organizations were formed.

And of all the bands that Frostburg has had, none has been more illustrious and accomplished than the Arion Band.

Dating back to the latter part of December 1877, the band has remained continually organized since that time.

The founder was the German Arion Band as it was known at the time of founding, was organized by Conrad F. Nickel from members of the Arion Gesang Verein.

After collecting all the old instruments they could about the town, the band on February 5, 1878 began practicing under the direction of Nickel in the Gross and Nickel Furniture Store.

Nickel was director for about five years and he was followed by John Miller. In 1912, George Vogtman took over the baton and held that position until 1930. An original member of the band, he played in it or directed it for 47 years.

Most every musical family in Frostburg, Eckhart and other communities nearby at one time or another has had a player in the Arion Band.

Prominent among them has been the Krolls, Lancasters, Zellers, and Crowe, to mention a few.

The name of the band was changed during World War I when "German" was dropped due to community feeling.

Mountain City

lege work was approved to meet the newly recognized need of the community. After the satisfactory completion of two years in the program, students received the Associates in Arts degree. On May 25, 1960 the Board of Trustees granted the State Teachers College at Frostburg the authority to expand its liberal arts curriculum and confer the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The conferring of the degree of Associate in Arts will be discontinued in June, 1962. One other curriculum, the program for student nurses, was started here in September, 1946. College instructors offer academic courses as an integral part of the training program for nurses of Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

By far the most important events in the history of the college within recent years were its accreditation in the spring of 1949 by the American Association of Colleges for Teachers Training, and its accreditation in the spring of 1953 by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and its re-accreditation in the same year by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

The State Teachers College at Frostburg was authorized by the Board of Trustees of the State Teachers College, at its regular meeting in Baltimore, on February 26, 1958, to offer graduate work leading to the degree of Master of Education.

In November, 1961, the State Teachers College at Frostburg was approved by the American Association of University Women.

By far the most important events in the history of the college within recent years were its accreditation in the spring of 1949 by the American Association of Colleges for Teachers Training, and its accreditation in the spring of 1953 by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and its re-accreditation in the same year by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

The State Teachers College at Frostburg was authorized by the Board of Trustees of the State Teachers College, at its regular meeting in Baltimore, on February 26, 1958, to offer graduate work leading to the degree of Master of Education.

In November, 1961, the State Teachers College at Frostburg was approved by the American Association of University Women.

Frostburg is located on a long plateau between Big Savage and Dan's Mountain and with its 2,200 feet altitude enjoys pleasant summers and vigorous and rigorous winters.

Many Recall World War I Heroes' Fete

The event featured a parade on September 5, 1919, and was climaxed by a concert by the Arion Band and other musical organizations in Junior Order Park, and a dance in the pavilion.

The day featured a meal "for the boys" and served in the Junior Order Park pavilion which was prepared by the women of the city. They had 70 women

SERVICEMEN WELCOMED HOME — Frostburg, always a great parade town, set up Monday, September 15, 1919, to welcome back their "boys" who served in World War I. Above as they passed the review stand on Main Street, in front of the old First National Bank are units of sailors, followed by soldiers and marines. After they made the long pull up Main Street from Eckhart Flat. A dinner prepared by the women of the town was served after the parade in the pavilion at the Junior Order Park with a dance that evening.

The first public school in Frostburg was constructed in 1868 on land upon which Beall Elementary School now stands. The land was a gift of Capt. Nelson Beall of Frostburg.

Mountain City's Pride Is Teachers College

The school opened its doors for students September 15, 1902, and three classes were formed, freshman, sophomore and junior with the first class being graduated in 1905.

From Old Main, the original building constructed on Loo Street now College Avenue on a plot of ground made possible by donations from Frostburg citizens, the college has grown into an institution comprised of many buildings.

Most of these have been constructed since World War II and made possible through the drive and efforts of former President Lillian C. Compton, and her successor, R. Bowen Hardesty, who now heads the college.

From the original small plot of ground on which Old Main was built, the campus has been extended until it covers quite an expanse from College Avenue to Big Savage Mountain.

The appropriation for $20,000 for a building and $5,000 a year for maintenance was appropriated by the General Assembly of 1898.

A gymnasium and training school for elementary classes were authorized by the legislature in 1912 and opened in 1913.

The first unit of the dormitory was ready in 1919 and the second part in 1925 and the third in 1949.

The old auditorium-gymnasium and central heating plant were built in 1927 and a new six-troop elementary practice school was opened in 1930.

More than four acres of land were purchased between 1927 and 1930 and used for athletic purposes. A building to house the science departments temporarily was acquired from the federal government in 1947 and the former science building next to Old Main was converted into an administration building.

The following decade produced a period of accelerated building and expansion. Additional properties adjacent to the campus were purchased to extend the campus to 40 acres and the state provided more than $4,000,000 for new facilities.

A new $227,000 science building was constructed to replace the wartime temporary building and to provide the additional space needed by the science departments.

In 1952 the temporary science hall was converted into a student center. The bookstore and the snack bar were located in this building until Gunter Hall was opened in 1960.

A frame house acquired in 1950, when the College enlarged its campus, served temporarily as a music building for music classes, private lessons and practice, and also for French and Spanish classes. After the completion of Compton Hall, the frame house was removed; and the area was graded, terraced and landscaped. Additional parking space was completed between Lowndes Hall and College Avenue. A soccer field and a quarter mile cinder running track were constructed on the south side of Park Avenue.

A $300,000 library and administration building was completed early in 1954. It provides modern library facilities on the ground floor and administration offices on the first floor. The building was named Lowndes Hall in honor of both Tasker G. Lowndes, late president of the State Board of Education, and also his father, Lloyd Lowndes, a former governor of Maryland.

Compton Hall, named in honor of Dr. Lillian C. Compton, former president, was completed in 1955 at an approximate cost of $647,000. The building includes an auditorium wing and a physical education wing united by a common lobby.

Several other buildings were planned and constructed to meet the needs of a mounting enrollment — 427 students in 1949-50, 629 in 1955-56, 1066 students in 1960-61. A residence hall for men and another residence hall for women was constructed at a cost of $540,000. A new residence hall for women is under construction and is expected to be ready for occupancy in January, 1962.

When the State Normal School at Frostburg opened in 1902, fifty-seven students were enrolled. The first graduating class, that of 1904, consisted of eight students. There were, at that time, very few high schools in the area to prepare students for the professional training offered by a normal school. Hence in addition to two years of professional training, two years (and for a time three years) of secondary work were offered from 1902 until 1919. In 1931 the professional course of study was increased to three years by an act of the General Assembly, which made three years of training the minimum requirement for the education of elementary teachers. In 1934, the course for the elementary teachers was increased to four years, and the granting of a degree of Bachelor of Science in Education was authorized. In 1947 the program for the preparation of junior high school teachers was introduced. The degree was changed to Bachelor of Science in February, 1956. On May 25, 1960, the Board of Trustees granted the State Teachers College at Frostburg the authority to prepare teachers for all levels from kindergarten through the twelfth grade and to confer the degree of Bachelor of Science and the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Two significant changes occurred in 1932: the change from a normal school to a teachers college, and the provision for a junior college. In 1935 the school was officially named State Teachers College at Frostburg, and the offering of two years of junior col-

NEW AND OLD — Frostburg's present post office and its predecessor at the intersection of West Main and Water streets is shown above during the construction of the present one. The brick structure at left, which is still in use and in a fine state of repair, was completed and dedicated in 1912. Postmaster at the time was Ulysses Hanna and today is Joseph Kenney. Congress appropriated $50,000 for the project. The lot cost $10,000 and the construction of the building, $40,000.

FROSTBURG OPERA HOUSE — The Frostburg Opera House located at the corner of Depot Road and Union, now Main Street, is shown above on a wintry day around 1910 or 1912. A band stand located at the west end of the building was used in the summer time for band concerts. The building was erected in 1871 and 1872 by the Frostburg Odd Fellows Lodge and was intended for use as an opera house and store room with a lodge meeting room on the fourth floor. The building was owned by John Ravenscroft for many years until 1903 when it was purchased by a company headed by Joe H. Hitchens. It was remodeled and refinished and used for plays by traveling theatrical companies with a banquet hall and dining room on the fourth floor. Later it was adapted to motion picture films and local entertainment. Fire destroyed the building, then largely vacant, in 1933.

City's Lots Were Laid Off In 1812

Frostburg was incorporated in 1870 by an act of the Maryland General Assembly although there were people living in the Mountain City since the early part of 1800.

According to recorded history, three houses were located near the home of Meshack Frost, on grounds now occupied by St. Michael's Catholic Church.

In those days, the community was called Mount Pleasant, but as time went on it was called Frost Town by the settlers of the vicinity.

The 50-year-old date of the celebration dates back to 1812 when the National Highway was built through the community.

In that year, a town was laid off into lots by Meshack Frost and sold from $25 to $50 each.

The name was changed to Frost Town as there was another Mount Pleasant in Maryland. U. S. Post Office Department records show that on May 1, 1820 the Post Office at Frostburg was established, and the present name dates back to that year. Osborn L. Hall was the first postmaster.

Frostburg was incorporated in 1870 and the government was vested in a mayor and six councilmen, elected to one-year terms.

L. M. Gorsuch, 1871 to 1872; Frederick Johnson, 1872 to 1873; Henry Bepler, 1873 to 1874; Aden Clary, 1874 to 1875; L. M. Gorsuch, 1875 to 1876; Joseph Landorf, 1876 to 1877.

Dr. W. H. Ravenscroft, 1877 to 1878; J. S. Metzer, 1878 to 1879; John L. Porter, 1879 to 1880; John B. McCulloh, 1880 to 1881; Noah Skidmore, 1881 to 1882.

Dr. Ravenscroft, 1882 (resigned before his term expired); Andrew Smeltz, 1882 to 1883; Enoch Clise, 1883 to 1884; George H. Witting, 1884 to 1885.

John B. Wright, 1886 to 1887; A. T. Recknor, 1887 to 1888; Joseph Jandorf, 1888 to 1889; William Thomas 1889 to 1890; Enoch Clise, 1890 to 1891; J. S. Metzger, 1891 to 1892; A. J. Willison, 1892 to 1893.

Charles H. Wade, 1893 to 1894; James Hanson, 1894 to 1895; Joseph Bear, 1895 to 1896; George Jones, 1896 to 1897; Joseph Bear 1897 to 1898; C. F. Nickel, 1898 to 1899; 1900, twice re-elected.

John N. Benson, 1901 to 1902; Peter Lammert, 1902 to 1904, re-elected in 1903; C. G. Townsend, 1904 to 1905; James Fuller, 1905 to 1906; James E. Crump, 1906 to 1907.

Arthur T. Johnson, 1913 to 1914; George Stern, 1915 to 1916; Samuel R. Tiddy, 1915 to 1919, four terms; A. Charles Stewart, 1919 to 1921; Olen R. Rice, 1921 to 1924; Tiddy, 1924 to 1928.

The terms of the mayor and council were changed from one-year to two years and a commission-form of government installed with four councilmen instead of six, and each councilman becoming a commissioner in charge of a specific municipal department.

The remaining mayors up to the present were:

Frederick Crowe, 1928 to 1932; G. A. (Gurney) Shuckhart, 1932 to 1934; Horace G. Evans, 1934 to 1939; Olin Gunnett, 1939 to 1942; William H. Lemmert, 1942 to 1944; Marshall Skidmore, 1944 to 1950; Jesse Jacobs, 1950 to 1954; Perry W. Myers, 1954 to 1956; and Mayor Joseph E. James, from 1956 to the present.

Tiddy holds the record for number of times elected—eight, with James coming close to serving the longest in office. He is in his eighth year.

Clarke Owned Original Site

While Meshack Frost was the man who laid off the original town lots, all of the land in and around Frostburg was owned before him by Robert Clarke.

Clarke's title dates back to July 6, 1792 according to deed records, about two and one-half years after the establishment of Allegany County.

In the settlement of Clarke's estate in 1794, two of the settler lots were sold to John Compton Jr., who conveyed them to Josiah Frost of Mt. Savage, on October 13, 1809. Josiah upon his death, left them to his three sons, Meshack, Isaiah and Josiah Jr.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — So unnerved and distraught is Sophia Loren facing bigamy charges over her marriage to Carlo Ponti in her native Italy, she has asked Carl Foreman to release her from "The Victors."

The minute the story broke, Foreman called Sophia in Hamburg where she is completing "Condemned of Altona," to ask if he could help. "You can release me from out contract," Sophia pleaded, "I'm not up to starting another picture now."

Being a sympathetic producer, this Foreman did. And has replaced the beautiful Italian with another beautiful Italian, Rosanna Schiaffino, reported to be a sensation with Kirk Douglas in "Two Weeks in Another Town."

Ann-Margret is the Swedish songbird who has been dating Bo Belinsky between innings. I supposed Eddie's dating her will bring on added triangle gossip between Fisher and the Angel pitcher over Ann.

Which would be about as authentic as the Fisher-Juliet Prowse-Frank Sinatra triangle.

When Sandra Dee reports for "Tammy and the Doctor," the doctor will be that completely charming male MacDonald Carey. Being a medico isn't new for Mac. He once took temperatures in "Dr. Christian" before turning legal in "Lock-up," both for TV.

What is new about him is that recently he's been amazing the Long Beach public in "The Music Man" at the new Community Music Theatre there. Played Bob Preston's role, even to singing and dancing. The Long Beachers were completely surprised—then delighted—to find Mac so adept as a song-and-dance man. The Sandra Dee movie for Ross Hunger at U-I may be just what the doctor ordered for Mac's movie career.

Hard to believe Dorothy Provine that she hasn't had a date since last February, at least not a real one to get all dressed up and feel tingly about, she swears.

"What about Frank Sinatra at the Trinidad in Palm Springs over the weekend?" I asked.

"I just happened to be dining with Ina Belin and agent Lennie Hershon at the cafe when Frank and Jimmy Van Heusen and a couple of men friends came in. It was completely accidental. Frank came over and said 'Hello' and chatted awhile."

"The papers reported you saw Frank in London," I prodded.

"They may have reported it—but I didn't see him," she stuck to her story.

Vince Edwards, who seldom accepted a social invitation (particularly cocktail parties which he hates), was one of the first to show at hall Bartlett's welcome back to Joan Crawford fiesta at Lucey's.

If Missy Joan had any questions about how she rates with the press of her old home town, she found out. Despite the heat of the late afternoon and the fact that many guests were going on to later parties, they all turned out to say "welcome" to a star who knows what it is to act like a STAR.

Most of the glamor girls wore pretty summery print dresses including Joan, and Polly Bergen, Janis Paige and Connie Ford. Sharon Hugueny still looks too young to be at a cocktail party. Of course, co-star Robert Stack and his lovely Rosemarie were there to welcome Joan to "The Cartakers," Bartlett's picture.

Jill St. John and Lance Reventlow are beyond the point of denying their problems. "We're both living at the house, trying to talk things out and decide our future," she says.

Ask her if they are at the point of separation and she says, "at the moment—No. But there are problems and we're trying to work them out." Does she hold much hope? "Who knows?" is the answer.

Simone Signoret will be in our midst this summer on a flying trip to promote her new one for MGM, "Today We Live" (with Stu Whitman). Simone isn't saying whether Yves Montand will accompany her or not.

After Irving Wallace read a review of his book, "The Prize" in a national magazine which discussed his income rather than the book, he cracked, "I guess now they're letting the accountants write the reviews. Aand as long as they're auditing novelists—I'd like to say they shorted me a couple of hundred thousand dollars."

Greer Garson, whose flaming red hair was as vivid as the profusion of flowers decorating the Turf Club, was a guest of the Mervyn Le Roys in the directors' room at the track. Greer was with her favorite Texan, Buddy Fogelson, of course.

When Elvis Presley arrives in Seattle for "Take Me to the Fair" he and director Norman Taurog will get a personally conducted tour of the world's fair from Gov. Albert Rosellini.

Kim Hunter's daughter, 17-year-old Kathy, just landed a job as a fashion model in a top New York store. Is it possible that Kim has a daughter this old?

Jordan Wants Loan

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Jordan has requested a $12 million U.S. loan to meet the costs of a five-year development plan to include the building of schools and municipal projects, local U.S. aid chief Russell MacLure said Tuesday.

The banana is of Asiatic origin and probably originated in the East Indies. It was cultivated in India.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 135 "Piggy-back" service, i.e., meaning the transport of truck trailers from city to city via railroads, goes back a hundred years. Union (later Confederate) supply wagons were carried to battle areas via railroad flat-cars.

This was only one of many innovations in military history that came of railroads during the Civil War. Fortunately, of some 31,000 miles of trackage in the U.S.A. in 1861, approximately 70% were in the North, and the Union forces had the further advantage of possessing shops for building new locomotives and equipment sources for rails.

Among the new equipment provided Union commanders by their engineers was the "land gunboat," a formidable example of which is shown in the wartime photograph reproduced below. Its cannon and attending gunners were protected by massive beams and iron plating. When close to the battle lines, it could be moved like a handcar, to keep its location from being indicated by a puffing locomotive.

This was obviously the forerunner of the enormous railway guns brought into service in France in World War I.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In your reply to the mother who caught her teenage son receiving smut mail, you overlooked an important fact.

Naturally, when Mom caught the boy dead-to-rights he played innocent. If his mother had known the score she would not have allowed him to get away with it. Apparently you don't know the score either.

Smut dealers do not send catalogues, folders or order blanks unless requested to do so. When offers for pornographic pictures or literature come to the house, you can be sure somebody sent away for it. In this case it may even have been the husband.

So please, Ann Landers, to use your own phrase — "Wake up and smell the coffee." — HORSE SENSE

DEAR HORSE: Sorry, you are mistaken. Smut dealers can and do, through devious methods, get their grubby hands on all sorts of mailing lists.

For example:

So — I'm passing the coffee back to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you advised a young mother to take that child psychology book and give her four-year-old a good swat right across the back porch. I was shocked.

Are you suggesting that child psychology is clap-trap and that the way to discipline children is to hit them with books? If so, I am truly disappointed. — FORMER ADMIRER

DEAR FORMER ADMIRER: If you read this column regularly there should be no doubt about where I stand on brutality and violence.

No child should ever be slapped in the face, struck on the head, or across the back, arms or legs —and I have repeated my view without number. I agree that psychology can be wonderfully helpful as a guide for raising children but there is no substitute for common sense and a mother's instinct. Youngsters understand a quick potch on the rear better than they understand Freud — and there is no contradiction in the position I'm expressing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 21 and in love with a girl who is 19. I quit college last year because my Dad died and I had to go to work to support my mother and two sisters.

I have no money for entertainment, fancy clothes, flowers or gifts. My girl used to be satisfied with a movie once a week, walks in the park, bus rides and hot dogs, but lately she's been cold and indifferent.

Her mother is a snobbish, social-climbing woman who didn't like me to begin with. I'm sure she's been doing everything under the sun to turn my girl against me.

I'm a hard worker and in a few years I will be a lot better off financially. My girl says she loves me but I'm afraid I'm losing her. What can I do? — PANIC BUTTON

DEAR PANIC BUTTON: If this is love, your girl caught a mighty light case of it. And don't blame her mother. Mom could talk herself blue in the face and it wouldn't matter if the girl's feelings for you were genuine. It sounds as if you two are out of tune. A love song can't be a solo. It must be a duet.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — So unnerved and distraught is Sophia Loren facing bigamy charges over her marriage to Carlo Ponti in her native Italy, she has asked Carl Foreman to release her from "The Victors."

The minute the story broke, Foreman called Sophia in Hamburg where she is completing "Condemned of Altona," to ask if he could help. "You can release me from out contract," Sophia pleaded, "I'm not up to starting another picture now."

Being a sympathetic producer, this Foreman did. And has replaced the beautiful Italian with another beautiful Italian, Rosanna Schiaffino, reported to be a sensation with Kirk Douglas in "Two Weeks in Another Town."

Ann-Margret is the Swedish songbird who has been dating Bo Belinsky between innings. I supposed Eddie's dating her will bring on added triangle gossip between Fisher and the Angel pitcher over Ann.

Which would be about as authentic as the Fisher-Juliet Prowse-Frank Sinatra triangle.

When Sandra Dee reports for "Tammy and the Doctor," the doctor will be that completely charming male MacDonald Carey. Being a medico isn't new for Mac. He once took temperatures in "Dr. Christian" before turning legal in "Lock-up," both for TV.

What is new about him is that recently he's been amazing the Long Beach public in "The Music Man" at the new Community Music Theatre there. Played Bob Preston's role, even to singing and dancing. The Long Beachers were completely surprised—then delighted—to find Mac so adept as a song-and-dance man. The Sandra Dee movie for Ross Hunger at U-I may be just what the doctor ordered for Mac's movie career.

Hard to believe Dorothy Provine that she hasn't had a date since last February, at least not a real one to get all dressed up and feel tingly about, she swears.

"What about Frank Sinatra at the Trinidad in Palm Springs over the weekend?" I asked.

"I just happened to be dining with Ina Belin and agent Lennie Hershon at the cafe when Frank and Jimmy Van Heusen and a couple of men friends came in. It was completely accidental. Frank came over and said 'Hello' and chatted awhile."

"The papers reported you saw Frank in London," I prodded.

"They may have reported it—but I didn't see him," she stuck to her story.

Vince Edwards, who seldom accepted a social invitation (particularly cocktail parties which he hates), was one of the first to show at hall Bartlett's welcome back to Joan Crawford fiesta at Lucey's.

If Missy Joan had any questions about how she rates with the press of her old home town, she found out. Despite the heat of the late afternoon and the fact that many guests were going on to later parties, they all turned out to say "welcome" to a star who knows what it is to act like a STAR.

Most of the glamor girls wore pretty summery print dresses including Joan, and Polly Bergen, Janis Paige and Connie Ford. Sharon Hugueny still looks too young to be at a cocktail party. Of course, co-star Robert Stack and his lovely Rosemarie were there to welcome Joan to "The Cartakers," Bartlett's picture.

Jill St. John and Lance Reventlow are beyond the point of denying their problems. "We're both living at the house, trying to talk things out and decide our future," she says.

Ask her if they are at the point of separation and she says, "at the moment—No. But there are problems and we're trying to work them out." Does she hold much hope? "Who knows?" is the answer.

Bob Newhart, who just won himself an Emmy, is now busy trying to win a Ginny—Ginny Quinn (and plenty cute) to be exact.

Simone Signoret will be in our midst this summer on a flying trip to promote her new one for MGM, "Today We Live" (with Stu Whitman). Simone isn't saying whether Yves Montand will accompany her or not.

After Irving Wallace read a review of his book, "The Prize" in a national magazine which discussed his income rather than the book, he cracked, "I guess now they're letting the accountants write the reviews. Aand as long as they're auditing novelists—I'd like to say they shorted me a couple of hundred thousand dollars."

When Elvis Presley arrives in Seattle for "Take Me to the Fair" he and director Norman Taurog will get a personally conducted tour of the world's fair from Gov. Albert Rosellini.

Kim Hunter's daughter, 17-year-old Kathy, just landed a job as a fashion model in a top New York store. Is it possible that Kim has a daughter this old?

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state will receive the Freedom Shrine, a permanent exhibit of 28 authentic reproductions of historically famous American documents, during formal ceremonies Thursday morning in the state house.

The display, with documents ranging from Thomas Jefferson's rough draft of the Declaration of Independence to the official U.S. copy of the United Nations charter, will be housed permanently on the main floor of the state house.

Gov. Tawes will be on hand to receive the gift while Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein will deliver the dedicatory address.

All the reproductions in the collection were made by photographic experts of the National Archives, Washington, D.C.

State To Receive Freedom Shrine

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state will receive the Freedom Shrine, a permanent exhibit of 28 authentic reproductions of historically famous American documents, during formal ceremonies Thursday morning in the state house.

The display, with documents ranging from Thomas Jefferson's rough draft of the Declaration of Independence to the official U.S. copy of the United Nations charter, will be housed permanently on the main floor of the state house.

Gov. Tawes will be on hand to receive the gift while Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein will deliver the dedicatory address.

All the reproductions in the collection were made by photographic experts of the National Archives, Washington, D.C.

The Indonesian island of Celebes was first visited by Portuguese in 1512. The Dutch began trading there in the 17th Century. In World War II Celebes was occupied by the Japanese, bombed by the Americans and surrendered to the Australians.

Cards Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and brother, Floyd Lee Davis. We especially thank those who sent flowers, cards, the pallbearers, those who donated the use of cars and all others who in any manner rendered assistance.

Fire Training Program May Begin Today

Practice Will Be On Company Basis

The Cumberland Fire Department hopes to get its summer training program rolling today, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

The training will be held at the Fire Department training center located in Constitution Park near the Civil Defense training center.

Each fire company, Chief Parker said, will train as a company and plans call for the two-hour workouts to be held twice a week during the summer.

He said the training program will be supervised by an assistant chief and carried out by the captain of the company.

Included will be pumping practice, hose evolutions, laying of streams and the use of smoke masks.

The training center consists of a blacktopped area equipped with two fire hydrants and is designed to permit firemen to brush up on fire-fighting techniques.

Chief Parker said the city will be protected at all times while companies are training.

While at the training center, the company will be in constant radio communication with Central Fire Department and will be dispatched at once if a fire breaks out in its territory, the fire chief said.

Agencies Want River Program, Says O'Donnell

BALTIMORE (AP) — James J. O'Donnell, state planning director, said Wednesday that water management agencies in Maryland are of the consensus a $500 million Potomac River Development plan is needed.

O'Donnell, testifying before a special legislative committee, said he anticipated that more specific reactions to the Potomac River project would be gathered and publicized within the next two months.

The Army Corps of Engineers has advanced the proposal, which calls for 16 major dams and 418 smaller ones along the Potomac to provide adequate drinking water for the Washington metropolitan area to the year 2000. One of the proposed dams would be located at Seneca, Md., and its reservoir would inundate 36,000 acres of land, including a large part of the old C&O Canal.

O'Donnell said state officials plan to confer with Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall on the engineers' proposal. The Department of the Interior has indicated it will not support a high dam at Seneca.

Mt. Savage Bans Main St. Parking For One Day

No parking will be allowed on Main Street in Mt. Savage Saturday afternoon, according to Colin Bowers, chairman of the Mt. Savage Citizens Committee.

Mr. Bowers said the no-parking regulation will be in effect from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. because traffic will be rerouted through the town because of the huge parade to be staged in Frostburg Saturday afternoon.

State Police conferred with Frostburg officials last night on the traffic problem Saturday and the exact traffic plan for that day will be announced later this week.

Four Troopers Assigned Here

Four Maryland State Policemen have been added to the roster at LaVale barracks where there are now a total of 34 troopers.

Trooper C. E. Lober, former Frostburg resident, who was transferred to the LaVale barracks from Frederick, has been assigned to the Grantsville area. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Lober of Wellersburg.

Trooper Paul J. Fiorita, of the Frostburg area, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fiorita, was transferred here from Rockville.

The other troopers were recently graduated from the State Police Academy at Pikesville.

Trooper Ronald S. Lewis, originally from Mountain Lake Park, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver A. Lewis, Star Route, Oakland, and Trooper Richard W. Brown, former city policeman, a son of Mrs. Raymond A. Brown, will be working out of the LaVale barracks along with Trooper Fiorita.

Men Of LaSalle To Meet Tonight

The Men of LaSalle will meet at 8 p. m. today on the first floor of the Knights of Columbus home on North Mechanic Street.

Jack Painter, president, asked that all members attend, as final plans will be made for the annual corn and wiener roast, which will be held July 28.

JAMES BOBO

Ridgeley Man Studying For Master Degree

A student from Ridgeley who began playing the piano when he was six years old received his bachelor of music degree in piano this month during commencement exercises at West Virginia University and plans to continue his studies toward his master's degree.

James Bobo presented his graduation recital in April in the university's School of Music auditorium in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a degree.

He attended the university on a four-year scholarship given by the board of governors. He wants to teach.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Bobo, and graduated from Ridgeley High School in 1958.

A student of Professor Herman Godes of the university faculty, he has been active in various musical circles since entering the university.

When he was a freshman he was selected to accompany the Men's University Glee Club. He was pianist for the University Concert Band in 1961, and also accompanied the University Choir on its annual tours.

Mr. Bobo began his study of piano when he was six. At the age of 13 he was organist at Ridgeley Methodist Church. While at home he studied under Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, who recently received a letter from the university notifying her Mr. Bobo was one of the best prepared students ever to enroll in the university.

He is a member of the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and the Men's Music Honorary.

Carson Dowell Chairman Of Scout District

J. Carson Dowell was elected chairman of Nemacolin Trail District at the annual dinner meeting of the district Tuesday at Camp Potomac near Oldtown.

Mr. Dowell, who is a vice president at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, succeeds J. Paul Fisher.

Others elected at the meeting were Robert G. Garner, vice chairman, and William Durland, who was re-elected commissioner for Nemacolin Trail District.

Members of the nominating committee were John E. Geare, Glenn Kemmet and John Means and the installation was conducted by Mr. Geare who also was the retiring vice chairman.

Approximately 100 persons attended the dinner meeting which included reports by the various operating committee chairmen.

C. Ray Sine was chairman of the dinner and Lawrence Kyle served as master of ceremonies. Benediction was offered by Rev. Veron I. Naugle, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

College Park Endorses Use Of Paper Cans

System Is Being Considered Here

Residents of College Park, who have been testing new Westvaco paper cans, are strongly in favor of the new system of refuse disposal, according to a survey just completed for the city by the Municipal Technical Service of the University of Maryland.

The system has been proposed here and has received a warm reception from city officials and many citizens.

The advisory service said 90 per cent of the 106 College Park householders contacted found that the paper can system is more convenient, more sanitary, neater, less noisy and generally superior to the old-fashioned garbage can.

Trial Is Held

Colloge Park began conducting a 60-day trial of the new system about May 1 in 150 homes, most of them concentrated in the town's Sunnyside area.

The survey, based on 11 questions, was preceded by a statement which read:

"For the past six weeks you and your neighbors have participated in a working trial of a new system of refuese collection based on the use of disposable paper cans. It is our observation that the new system offers a number of advantages to the community, particularly in the important area of environmental sanitation.

In submitting the results of the survey, Milton B. Millon, advisory service director, made these points:

The paper can system eliminates setting back cans, permits crews to work ahead of the trucks without unsightly curb conditions, eliminates the costly purchase and operating expense of packer-type garbage trucks, permits refuse crews to work faster, the use of open-bed trucks should eliminate 90 per cent of the special trash pickups, streets should be cleaner by use of the new system, and that less physical exertion is required on the part of crews handling paper cans as compared with heavier metal cans.

Is Backed Here

The paper can system has been displayed by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and a film on the use of the system has been shown at City Hall.

ABL Gets New 'Polaris' Flag

Optimists Give Hudson New Post

Will Serve As Head Of Clubs In Area

W. Lester Hudson, 133 Pennsylvania Avenue, has been named first lieutenant governor of Zone J, District 33, Optimist International.

District 33 includes all of Maryland and the newly-created Zone J is composed of Optimist clubs in the Cumberland area.

The new zone will begin operation July 1, and prior to that time the Cumberland clubs were included with the Hagerstown and Frederick clubs in Zone B. The new zone was formed because of the increased Optimist activity in this area.

Mr. Hudson is presently serving as president of the Cumberland Optimist Club, but will end his term of office Saturday night.

During his term of office the local club has fulfilled all requirements for Honor Club status. It sponsors an Optimist junior rifle team which this year finished in 17th place among 286 teams firing in national postan matches. Also during his tenure the local club sponsored the winning team in the Hot Stove League and formed the newest Optimist Club, the Bowling Green-Potomac Park Club, which was organized April 30.

The new lieutenant governor will be installed Saturday night at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Club by Sidney Kaplan, Baltimore, governor of District 33.

Mr. Hudson is a lifelong resident of Cumberland and graduated with the first class at Fort Hill High School in 1937. He has been employed by the C&P Telephone Company for 23 years and has been splicing foreman the past 11 years. He is active in the Fort Hill Alumni Association and is assistant scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 5.

Tawes Recalls Days As Chief Of Md. Firemen

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Wednesday he enjoyed serving as president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association as much as anything he has ever done.

The governor commended the 1,200 delegates from nearly 200 Maryland fire companies on the work of the association during the past year. He called the year a successful one for the firefighters' organization.

The governor reiterated his stand against the Supreme Court's ruling that the offering of a 22-word prayer in the New York State public schools was unconstitutional.

Tawes said he believed the firemen's organization and others like it would continue to open and close their meetings with prayers and other religious observances.

"I am glad that this is true," said the governor.

"Americans are religious people, and religion has played a large part in our past," the governor declared.

He said he regretted the position emodied in the Supreme Court decision, which was handed down Monday.

The publicity committee for the Players' next show, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," which will be presented August 15 and 16 at the Maryland Theatre, will meet after the regular meeting tonight.

The board of directors' meeting was held at the home of Chad Riley, president. Apportionment Decision Due This Morning

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Judge O. Bowie Duckett will make known Thursday whether he believes the present apportionment of the State Senate violates the Constitution.

The office of the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court judge said his opinion would be filed sometime late Thursday morning.

Judge Duckett heard 2½ hours of arguments on the constitutionality of the Senate makeup June 14. He said at the time he would file an opinion on the subject last week but failed to do so.

He was asked by the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation to invalidate the section of the state Constitution dealing with Senate apportionment.

It was Judge Duckett's ruling which caused Gov. Tawes to call the General Assembly into special session late last month to reapportion the House of Delegates.

The legislature awarded metropolitan counties 19 new House seats after Judge Duckett ruled there was invidious discrimination against them.

W. Va. Educators To Attend Meeting

A number of area West Virginia educators plan to attend the 100th annual convention of the National Education Association, which will begin Sunday in Denver.

Delegates from this area include Mrs. Bess Snyder Mohl and Thomas Sites, both of Petersburg; Ella Bergdoll, Moorefield; Thelma Klinestiver; Keyser; Wendell Davis and Mrs. Virginia Cummings, both of Kingwood, and Edward Anderson, Rowlesburg.

Theme for the week-long convention will be "Teach for Tomorrow." Approximately 10,000 delegates and observers are expected to attend.

Probe Indicates Fire Started In False Ceiling

The Cumberland Fire Department yesterday opened an investigation into a fire which caused considerable property damage to two North Mechanic Street properties early yesterday morning.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker, who visited the fire-damaged interior of the Dave Caporale Bakery, 136 North Mechanic Street, and the Hi-Dee Bar, 138 North Mechanic Street, with Inspector John Trost, said the fire originated in a false ceiling in the rear of the building and in the vicinity of the partition between the buildings.

He said the cause of the fire has not been determined but that several probable causes are being studied.

Chief Parker said it will take additional study to determine exactly what caused the blaze.

He said firemen from Central and West Side fire companies "did a nice job" of halting the blaze, adding that the fire was put out just as flames were beginning to reach a porch of an adjoining apartment.

4-H Electrical Demonstration Winners Cited

Girl Gets Ribbon Over Three Boys

A Baltimore Pike 4-H Club girl last night demonstrated that she knows enough about electricity to win herself a blue ribbon and a trip to 4-H Club Week at College Park later this summer.

Joyce Simpson, who is also adept at sewing and cooking, was in competition with four 4-H boys who took part in the Allegany County 4-H electrical demonstration at the county agent's office at the Court House. Last night was the first time a girl entered the electrical competition.

Charles Babich, assistant county agent in charge of 4-H work, said Sandy Crouch, of Mt. Savage, a member of the Roundabout 4-H Club, won a blue ribbon in the junior division. Miss Simpson won a blue ribbon in the senior division.

Win August Trip

They were awarded the trip to 4-H Club Week activities August 6-11 by the Potomac Edison Company, a member of the Maryland Utilities Association, which backs the electrical demonstration program.

Miss Simpson, who is 15 and a 10th grader, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Simpson. She demonstrated how to wire a plug and also how to wire a socket. She has been active in 4-H Club work about four or five years.

Twelve-year-old Sandy Crouch, who will be in the eighth grade at school this fall, has been active in 4-H work four years. Aside from electricity he has had rabbit and chicken projects.

In his demonstration last night he explained and demonstrated electrical safety.

Other Winners

The others in the competition included Royce Simpson, Breakneck Club, twin brother of Joyce; Johnny Baker, also of the Breakneck Club; and Ricky Ware of the Baltimore Pike Club. The third, fourth and fifth place winners won red ribbons.

The two top winners will represent Allegany County in the district demonstrations which will be held in Hancock August 2, said Mr. Babich.

Judges for last night's demonstrations were Donald Kline of the local PE office and Bruce Borror of the Frostburg PE office.

Nuclear Weapons May Be Shipped Through State

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Wednesday that shipments of arms through Maryland by the Department of Defense may include nuclear weapons.

Tawes has requested that all police and fire departments in the state learn how to fight explosions caused by nuclear weapons or other armaments.

He made the request in a letter mailed to all mayors and county officials in the state.

Tawes said the weapons could be involved in a fire or other accident on any roadway, railroad, waterway or airway.

"The physical danger from such a mishap would be primarily from the blast resulting from explosion of the conventional high explosive in the weapon," the governor said.

Tawes recommended several training manuals and a training film, which he said were available at 2nd Army headquarters, Ft. Meade, or other installations in the Army area.

"It is my desire that all police and fire-fighting personnel within the state of Maryland take advantage of the training materials available from military installations to increase their knowledge of the potential dangers resulting from an accident involving a nuclear weapon.

"Personnel should be trained to take charge and perform all the necessary functions of fire protection and safety of civilian personnel and property until military personnell arrive," the governor said.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Fire Training Program May Begin Today

Practice Will Be On Company Basis

The Cumberland Fire Department hopes to get its summer training program rolling today, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

The training will be held at the Fire Department training center located in Constitution Park near the Civil Defense training center.

Each fire company, Chief Parker said, will train as a company and plans call for the two-hour workouts to be held twice a week during the summer.

He said the training program will be supervised by an assistant chief and carried out by the captain of the company.

Included will be pumping practice, hose evolutions, laying of streams and the use of smoke masks.

The training center consists of a blacktopped area equipped with two fire hydrants and is designed to permit firemen to brush up on fire-fighting techniques.

Chief Parker said the city will be protected at all times while companies are training.

While at the training center, the company will be in constant radio communication with Central Fire Department and will be dispatched at once if a fire breaks out in its territory, the fire chief said.

Agencies Want River Program, Says O'Donnell

BALTIMORE (AP) — James J. O'Donnell, state planning director, said Wednesday that water management agencies in Maryland are of the consensus a $500 million Potomac River Development plan is needed.

O'Donnell, testifying before a special legislative committee, said he anticipated that more specific reactions to the Potomac River project would be gathered and publicized within the next two months.

The Army Corps of Engineers has advanced the proposal, which calls for 16 major dams and 418 smaller ones along the Potomac to provide adequate drinking water for the Washington metropolitan area to the year 2000. One of the proposed dams would be located at Seneca, Md., and its reservoir would inundate 36,000 acres of land, including a large part of the old C&O Canal.

O'Donnell said state officials plan to confer with Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall on the engineers' proposal. The Department of the Interior has indicated it will not support a high dam at Seneca.

State Police conferred with Frostburg officials last night on the traffic problem Saturday and the exact traffic plan for that day will be announced later this week.

College Park Endorses Use Of Paper Cans

System Is Being Considered Here

Residents of College Park, who have been testing new Westvaco paper cans, are strongly in favor of the new system of refuse disposal, according to a survey just completed for the city by the Municipal Technical Service of the University of Maryland.

The system has been proposed here and has received a warm reception from city officials and many citizens.

The advisory service said 90 per cent of the 106 College Park householders contacted found that the paper can system is more convenient, more sanitary, neater, less noisy and generally superior to the old-fashioned garbage can.

Trial Is Held

Colloge Park began conducting a 60-day trial of the new system about May 1 in 150 homes, most of them concentrated in the town's Sunnyside area.

The survey, based on 11 questions, was preceded by a statement which read:

"For the past six weeks you and your neighbors have participated in a working trial of a new system of refuese collection based on the use of disposable paper cans. It is our observation that the new system offers a number of advantages to the community, particularly in the important area of environmental sanitation.

In submitting the results of the survey, Milton B. Millon, advisory service director, made these points:

The paper can system eliminates setting back cans, permits crews to work ahead of the trucks without unsightly curb conditions, eliminates the costly purchase and operating expense of packer-type garbage trucks, permits refuse crews to work faster, the use of open-bed trucks should eliminate 90 per cent of the special trash pickups, streets should be cleaner by use of the new system, and that less physical exertion is required on the part of crews handling paper cans as compared with heavier metal cans.

Is Backed Here

The paper can system has been displayed by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and a film on the use of the system has been shown at City Hall.

Tawes Recalls Days As Chief Of Md. Firemen

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Wednesday he enjoyed serving as president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association as much as anything he has ever done.

The governor commended the 1,200 delegates from nearly 200 Maryland fire companies on the work of the association during the past year. He called the year a successful one for the firefighters' organization.

The governor reiterated his stand against the Supreme Court's ruling that the offering of a 22-word prayer in the New York State public schools was unconstitutional.

Tawes said he believed the firemen's organization and others like it would continue to open and close their meetings with prayers and other religious observances.

"I am glad that this is true," said the governor.

"Americans are religious people, and religion has played a large part in our past," the governor declared.

He said he regretted the position emodied in the Supreme Court decision, which was handed down Monday.

Mayor Winslow Burhans welcomed the association's delegates and explained that he is growing a beard in honor of the city's Bicentennial later this summer.

Apportionment Decision Due This Morning

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Judge O. Bowie Duckett will make known Thursday whether he believes the present apportionment of the State Senate violates the Constitution.

The office of the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court judge said his opinion would be filed sometime late Thursday morning.

Judge Duckett heard 2½ hours of arguments on the constitutionality of the Senate makeup June 14. He said at the time he would file an opinion on the subject last week but failed to do so.

He was asked by the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation to invalidate the section of the state Constitution dealing with Senate apportionment.

It was Judge Duckett's ruling which caused Gov. Tawes to call the General Assembly into special session late last month to reapportion the House of Delegates.

The legislature awarded metropolitan counties 19 new House seats after Judge Duckett ruled there was invidious discrimination against them.

Probe Indicates Fire Started In False Ceiling

The Cumberland Fire Department yesterday opened an investigation into a fire which caused considerable property damage to two North Mechanic Street properties early yesterday morning.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker, who visited the fire-damaged interior of the Dave Caporale Bakery, 136 North Mechanic Street, and the Hi-Dee Bar, 138 North Mechanic Street, with Inspector John Trost, said the fire originated in a false ceiling in the rear of the building and in the vicinity of the partition between the buildings.

He said the cause of the fire has not been determined but that several probable causes are being studied.

Chief Parker said it will take additional study to determine exactly what caused the blaze.

He said firemen from Central and West Side fire companies "did a nice job" of halting the blaze, adding that the fire was put out just as flames were beginning to reach a porch of an adjoining apartment.
